CHICAGO G. O. P. THRONG GREETS MRS. M'CORMICK

Dry Leaguers and Lewis Her Target.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Republican demonstration at the Coliseum last night—a turnout of all the ward and country town branches of the county organization—was as large as its promoters promised it would be.

Hundreds of automobiles, streaming in from all parts of the city and all sections of the suburbs, converged on the meeting place simultaneously. They blocked streets at several points, according to traffic reports.

The big hall that has housed several national conventions was filled. It was estimated that 15,000 persons—some estimates ran as high as 20,000—took part in the harmony symbolized by the platform presence of leaders from all the Republican groups and factions in the county.

President Charles R. Hall of the Coliseum company said that the meeting was the largest of its kind since a Theodore Roosevelt meeting in 1912.

Mrs. McCormick Speaks.

It was to this setting that Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick brought her candidacy for the United States senatorship, presenting a discussion of her principles to Chicago and its neighbors for the first time since the April primary. She is still in the midst of her downstate campaign, having broken her itinerary for this one meeting.

Mrs. McCormick spoke for half an hour, her speech being broadcast. The other speakers, Howard P. Savage, William E. Helander, Francis L. Bouse, Otto F. Reich, and Joshua D'Esposito, were what Chairman Snow entitled his "cross section" of the county ticket. Their speeches were brief.

Mrs. McCormick was enthusiastically received, the applause reaching its height when she stated her stand on prohibition and on the world court. Her declaration for majority rule, predicated on the outcome of the prohibition referendum in November, and her handling of her Democratic opponent, James Hamilton Lewis, in reference to the league of nations brought many in the crowd to their feet.

Lewis Is Chief Target.

Comparatively Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent dry aspirant, was in for little attention from the Republican nominee, although she was classified as the candidate of the anti-majority-rule party. But Lewis was the subject of more direct attack.

"Pause a moment," Mrs. McCormick said at one point, "and contemplate the picture of a man who aspires to the highest responsibilities of statesmanship, who assails me for agreeing to obey the mandate of 3,000,000 voters, whereas he took his orders across an office desk from Mike Igoe and Tony Cermak."

"As a United States senator," she said a little later, "Mr. Lewis told the country that Washington and Jefferson would have favored American alliance with the league of nations if they had been alive in 1918. He was one of those who believed that power and force should be used by the nations who were members of the league in order to compel obedience of other nations.

"Now he tells us that between some wonderful sunset and some rosy tinted dawn he has decided that the United States should not adhere to the league of nations court which he formerly so passionately defended and approved.

"But I believe the people of this state will feel safer in placing the responsibility of representing Illinois in the hands of some one who has not previously expressed opinions which would be incredible were it not that they are embalmed in the Congressional Record."

The Prohibition Issue.

In taking up the subject of prohibition, Mrs. McCormick said that the whole situation has attracted national attention as a fight of Republicans against "enemies of the constitution" who "assail the constitutional principle of the right of petition and the constitutional doctrine of majority rule."

After reciting that the Illinois referendum is the result of the petition of more than 400,000 men and women, Mrs. McCormick continued:

"But the Illinois referendum is assailed by the Democratic platform and candidate for the senate, and it is denounced by the anti-majority-rule party in Illinois. Why do they oppose it so bitterly? Let us not cease, as Republicans, from now until Nov. 4, to demand of the Democrats and

A lien claiming $448,580 in income taxes, penalties and interest, was filed with the federal District court yesterday against Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, by Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, collector of internal revenue.

This action ties up all of Crowe's property, including bank accounts, real estate, automobiles and his home at 5946 Washington boulevard. If the claim is not satisfied, criminal action is the next step in the government's procedure. Heretofore the service of such liens has been the forerunner of an indictment.

Deputy Lists Figures.

According to Robert E. Neely, chief deputy collector of internal revenue, Crowe's total income for the three disputed years, 1926, 1927, and 1928 was in excess of $1,000,000. The tax and penalties due, according to Neely's figures, are $65,338.30 for 1926, $230,303.37 for 1927, and $15[illegible]36.69 for 1928.

It was reported yesterday that Crowe scheduled income of only $7,000 in his returns for 1926, and for 1927 and 1928 he stated his financial activities resulted in a net loss. These two years, as shown by the amount of taxes claimed by the government, were the most lucrative during Crowe's régime as head of the sanitary district.

It was revealed yesterday that Crowe's income has been under the surveillance of agents of the intelligence unit, internal revenue department, for more than a year and that contracts let by the sanitary district during the Crowe régime have been under scrutiny.

Three Under Indictment.

Three men now under indictment for income tax irregularities are reported to have held contracts with the sanitary district. They are Lawrence C. O'Brien, teaming contractor and Democratic member of the state legislature; George L. Chamberlain, president of the U. S. A. company, electrical contractors, and Fred W. Rhoades, secretary of the U. S. A. company.

Crowe, a Democrat, was defeated for reëlection to the sanitary district board in November, 1928. There followed a special grand jury investigation and the disclosure that 4,800 pay rollers, sixty of them members of the state legislature, had been drawing pay from the district.

The most famous contracts let by the district under Crowe's régime were for the north shore channel boulevard, a four mile road costing $1,350,000; the lighting system along this road, which cost $727,000, and the bridle path adjoining it, which cost approximately $1,000,000.

The U. S. A. company held the contract for the lighting system, which consisted of about 600 lamp standards, costing more than $1,000 each.

Taxpayers' Suit Pending.

A taxpayers' suit, brought by Guy H. Addison of Deerfield, Wis., and an intervening petition filed by Frank J. Loesch, former special prosecutor in the sanitary district fraud investigation, demands an accounting of the board's expenditures and the return of $1,062,439. This suit is now pending in the federal court.

Crowe and six other political figures were indicted by the special grand jury in 1929 but none of the defendants was ever brought to trial. Last May another special grand jury indicted Crowe and nine others.

One count charges the defendants with conspiring to defraud the district out of $5,000,000. Another count charges the betrayal of duty in office by the placing of pay rollers on the district rolls, resulting in a loss of $3,000,000. The million dollar bridle path and the $727,000 lighting system are also made the bases of counts in the indictment.

Conspiracy, Crowe Says.

When this indictment was returned Crowe declared the action was a conspiracy against him. He was reported out of town yesterday, but the lien against him was served at his home.

Even if Crowe should pay off the $448,580 lien against him he would still be liable to criminal action if the government could show that efforts were made to defeat a part of his income tax by the filing of inadequate schedules, according to federal authorities. The charge of willful attempts to defeat and evade the payment of income taxes is a felony and carries a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count.

BABY GOLF MAY HEAL DISORDERS OF AILING VETS

Northport, L. I., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The latest technique in mental therapy, the use of miniature golf to distract those suffering from psychic disorders, has been adopted by the United States Veterans' hospital here.

Following the approval of the veterans' bureau in Washington yesterday, Dr. George F. Brewster, director of the hospital, said today that construction of a Tom Thumb golf course and of a larger nine hole links on the hospital grounds would begin at once. Both courses are expected to be completed by Nov. 1.

"Those of our patients suffering from psychoses and other mental afflictions will get a new grasp on reality from these informal and light hearted matches on the baby golf course," Dr. Brewster said. "By cultivating a mild and good natured competitive spirit we cause them to forget morbid fancies that are oppressing them and preventing their recovery."

Central Park Casino May Be Padlocked

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The United States attorney in these parts is going to make an effort to snap a pair of neat padlocks on the two restaurants of the Central Park Casino, that splendiferous, gilt edged beanery which was opened with a great splash on June 4, 1929, and back of which are many wealthy persons.

Padlock proceedings were filed in the United States District court this afternoon against the expensive refectory situated in the midst of the lovely trees and lawns of the people's great park and used so generously for exclusive "parties."

Named in the ominous papers are the Dieppe corporation, which operated the Casino, and Sidney Solomon, its president. A personal injunction is sought against Mr. Solomon, and if the injunction is eventually granted the oasis of the spenders will go dry for one year.

Agents in Evening Clothes.

Institution of the proceedings wasn't an overpowering surprise. Something of the sort had been anticipated ever since the grand raid which was pulled off by a squad of suave and gentlemanly prohibition agents on the night of June 1, last. Clad in evening clothes, the agents gave a fair imitation of tired business men out for an evening of pleasure.

Scattered throughout the modernistic restaurant, they savored the good food and the soft music, but didn't permit themselves to be lulled into unconsciousness of the fact that many people were drinking forbidden strong waters. At a signal they arose and pinched the place.

Prince and Princess Present.

Among the five hundred in the Casino at the time were the Prince and Princess Obolensky, the princess being the former Alice M. Astor.

Also subjected to the rude touch of the prohibition John laws were a Mr. De Cordova, a representative of the Cuban government; a Brazilian colonel and an attaché of the Brazilian government; Samuel Rosoff, the subway builder; Bernard K. Marcus, president of the Bank of United States, and several city judges, city officials, and Tammany men. The princess, a daughter of the late John Jacob Astor, was quite indignant about the whole business, and others insisted that the agents had been rough and most ungentlemanly.

EX-PREACHER SHOOTS WOMAN AND KILLS SELF

Victor Dahlin, Chicagoan and a former minister of the Swedish Baptist church, shot and killed himself last night at Grand Rapids, Mich., after shooting and critically wounding Mrs. Etta Pearson, 36 years old, also of Chicago. The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Bernard Vanderveen, Mrs. Pearson's sister, where Mrs. Pearson was a guest. Dahlin's infatuation for Mrs. Pearson, a married woman, was responsible for the shooting, Grand Rapids police said.

A note was found in Dahlin's pockets stating that Mrs. Pearson had no more right to live than he and terming them both "love victims." Dahlin recently lost his position here as a paint salesman and left his wife and two children, who reside at 7935 Coles avenue.

Dahlin and Mrs. Pearson had talked for some moments on the front porch of the Vanderveen home. Then three shots rang out and Mrs. Pearson fell with a bullet through her chest. Dahlin ran into a nearby alley and shot himself through the head. Mrs. Pearson last night was declared to be in a serious condition by physicians at St. Mary's hospital. Dahlin left the ministry eleven years ago.

Police Allied with Crime, Jury Charges

Racketeering and crime are ascribed to two basic causes by the September grand jury, which yesterday handed to Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court a letter in the form of a final report.

The jurors charged that racketeering is the inevitable result of indifference on the part of the citizenry and the authorities while crime in general is the result of an alliance between the police department, corrupt politicians and the criminal element.

The report was signed by G. F. Slaughter, 1408 Ridge avenue, Evanston, vice president of the American Steel Foundries, who was foreman of the jury. The jurors completed their duties after 6 o'clock last night.

Crime-Police Alliance Charged.

"Inquiry has convinced this grand jury of the existence of a well established three cornered alliance between the Chicago police department, the corrupt politicians and the criminal element," said the jury's letter.

"This alliance should be made the subject of an exhaustive inquiry by a special grand jury."

The letter, in discussing racketeering, charges that the murders of three business men and eleven officials of union labor during the last three years are directly chargeable to this class of crime. Some 86 bombs with a property destruction of $245,000 along with excessive costs of commodities are other outrages charged to racketeering.

Racketeering Is Analyzed.

"Racketeering is a term originally adopted to describe a form of criminality directed primarily against business," said the jurors. "Our investigation causes us to believe that racketeering manifests itself in two major forms—the collusive agreement and the individual racket. The first is a conspiracy involving:

"1. Business men who seek to establish for themselves preferential trade position or monopoly.

"2. Leaders of organized labor who seek to bring into membership of their unions all employés engaged in the trade controlled by business men, conspiring with them to participate in excessive profits.

"3. The gangster whose services are indispensable to the maintenance of racket discipline.

"4. The politician, without whose services toward protection the racket could not long exist."

The Individual Racket.

The individual racket, said the jurors, is one wherein a single gangster or group of gangsters gain control of a labor organization or trade association for the purpose of exploitation of the public, usually leaving a trail of destruction.

"The ease with which business has been subjected to extortion by racketeers has opened a wide field of criminal operation and provides one of the most prolific sources of criminal revenue Chicago has yet faced," said the letter.

"We are convinced that the forthright destruction of racketeering is of the utmost importance to the people of Chicago. Racketeering strikes at the very fundamentals of liberty of action. To an alarming extent racketeering has been seized by otherwise respectable groups of business men as an accepted method of meeting present day problems of trade competition.

How Racket Is Established.

"Other business men, failing to procure protection against the criminality perpetrated by agents of their predatory competitors, have resorted to the employment of similar agents to protect their persons and property. Usually complete domination is thus obtained by the protectors over the very business presumably protected, and another racket is established.

"No citizen is immune from the payments of these costs, for they are reflected directly or indirectly in the price he must pay for the things he

Frank H. Bell, a prisoner at the county jail, confessed last night to a coroner's jury summoned by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen that he had participated in the murder of Alfred Lingle.

Bell gave the names of two men who, he said, were his accomplices in the crime, and he declared that a third man, whose name he does not know, also had a part in the killing. The men named by Bell are:

Joseph H. Traum, leader of an Indiana band of outlaws, who has been connected by other witnesses with the Lingle murder, and who is now a prisoner at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Richard Sullivan, partner of Bell in many other crimes which both have confessed, who is also a prisoner in the county jail.

His Statements Corroborated.

Coroner Bundesen, who has spent weeks in investigating the confession of Bell, told the jurors that many of the statements made by Bell had been corroborated, and that thus far nothing in his story had been found to be false.

The coroner warned the jurors to keep an open mind, stating that it has not yet been definitely established that Bell's story means the solution of the Lingle crime—a crime which all the power of the various law enforcement agencies of the county has been exerted to bring about a solution. It was conceded, however, that the testimony of Bell, as brought out by Coroner Bundesen, is the outstanding and most sensational development since the inception of the inquiry.

Confesses Part in Murder.

Bell told of his participation in many crimes. When he first made his confession, Bell faced trial for three robberies. He voluntarily implicated himself in another murder, which he said was an outgrowth of the Lingle killing. This second murder has been verified in every detail.

Bell declared that this crime was committed by himself and Sullivan; and Sullivan, arrested, confessed to this killing. Sullivan denied, however, the part Bell ascribed to him in the murder of Lingle.

Coroner Bundesen, in his desire to corroborate as much as possible of Bell's story, journeyed personally to Leavenworth prison to question Traum, and the coroner revealed at the inquest that Traum, while denying the charge, exhibited violently nervous reactions to the questioning, and that the alibi he offered for his whereabouts on June 9, the day of Lingle's murder, was in truth no alibi at all. The coroner said Traum cannot produce one witness who can say where he was at the time of the killing.

His Story of Lingle Murder.

Summed up, Bell's story is that he met Traum and Sullivan on the morning of the Lingle murder; that he drove both men to the Randolph street tunnel under Michigan boulevard leading to the Illinois Central suburban station; that a fourth man, who answers the description of the actual slayer of Lingle, joined them there; that while Lingle was being killed in the subway Bell drove to a nearby spot in Grant park previously agreed upon, and that Traum and Sullivan, fleeing from the scene on foot, had joined him in the car and had completed their escape.

Sullivan, according to the witness, had been shot in the leg. All the witnesses to the crime have been unanimous in asserting that only one shot was fired at the scene, and the officials theorized that, if Bell's account is true, Sullivan must have been shot accidentally after he left the scene and before he rejoined Bell.

Fourth Man Resembles Geisking.

Questioned concerning the unidentified man, Bell said he had been shown pictures of Theodore Geisking, Indiana hoodlum, and that they resembled the fourth man at the scene. However, he said the man was a decided blond, and Geisking, who was arrested three weeks ago and whose hair is almost black, was eliminated by witnesses who were taken to view him. These witnesses also had noticed some similarity between Geisking's pictures and the slayer.

Bell said Traum was the leader. The motive for the killing, so far as Bell knew it, was $10,000, which had been promised to Traum by those desiring Lingle's death. This, according to Bell, was to be divided, $3,000

It's Time Men Thought of Their Heads and Feet

An ensemble used to be a word people used to designate a lot of singers performing together. It still has the harmony idea, but now it refers as often to dress. The fall outfit is an ensemble, if there is harmony in it.

We hate to speak of it, but some one ought to. Too many gentlemen have been seen on the boulevard who aren't in tune, sartorially, as they ought to be. True, their topcoat, suit and cravat are all a blend. But where did they get that hat? In other cases, it's the shoes that are discordant. And what does it profit a man, though he be dressed fit to kill about the shoulders and limbs, but be unworthy of slaughter because of what he has at one or the other of his extremities. The chain is no stronger than its weakest link. So, gentlemen, let it go to your heads, with a new hat. And if it's shoes that are shabby, the stores are well stocked with what's necessary to take care of that deficiency.

Chicago Tribune

to Traum, $3,000 to Sullivan, $3,000 to the unidentified man, and $1,000 to Bell.

Tells of Café Slaying.

Arrangements were made to collect the $10,000 from Christ Patras, manager of the Villa Rica café at 2752 North Clark street, according to Bell. He said that when he and Sullivan went to receive their fee, Patras drew a revolver instead of the $10,000, and in a duel with Sullivan, Patras was killed. It is the murder of Patras which Sullivan confessed, and for which both Bell and Sullivan are under indictment and are facing trial.

The information given by Bell came to the coroner some five weeks ago. Previously, similar information was given to THE TRIBUNE. At the time of the Patras murder, two reporters for THE TRIBUNE made an investigation while the victim's body still lay where he had fallen. Although there was at that time no connecting link with the Lingle case, elements of doubt on the police belief that Patras had been killed in an ordinary holdup cropped up, and it was decided to continue the inquiry.

Captured in Store Holdup.

A short time later, after Bell had been captured in a holdup of a radio store in which a partner, William Barnes, was killed by the police, the details of Bell's confession were obtained by Capt. Daniel Gilbert and related by him to THE TRIBUNE.

After a preliminary investigation was made by reporters for THE TRIBUNE, a conference with Coroner Bundesen was held, with the result that the coroner took charge of the investigation.

Bell told his story rapidly, displaying an unusually accurate memory for names, dates, and places. He exhibited no nervousness, and his story was told without visible emotion. His reason for telling it at all, Bell said, was that he had been deserted by his family—justly so, he said—and that he had lain awake nights in his cell, never able to banish his guilt from his mind, until at last he decided to tell everything, regardless of the consequences to himself.

He is a young man with brown hair and a closely cropped mustache. The inquest was held in the County jail, because it was deemed advisable not to remove Bell from its confines, and Bell, hurried from his cell directly before the jury, appeared in an undershirt, a pair of trousers, and a pair of shoes.

BELL'S TESTIMONY

Questioned by Coroner Bundesen, Bell gave his name, his address, 5931 Parnell avenue, and his occupation, chauffeur. The coroner led Bell through the crimes he has committed in Chicago since his release from Leavenworth penitentiary last April 9. It had been Bell's second term in Leavenworth, one being for violation of the Dyer automobile theft act and the other for possession of stolen money orders.

"Tell the jury just what you did from the time you came to Chicago," asked Dr. Bundesen.

"I didn't do much," was the reply. "I went around looking for a job and couldn't find none, so up to about the 28th I was up on the north side, and I was going into a second hand furniture store and they were going to open it up on the first of June up at 2451 North Lincoln, and on the 28th of May I stole a Pontiac sedan from 63d and Peoria.

Asks for Booze Job.

"After I got this sedan I went over to the north side there to a place I knew where they sold booze, Our Home club, 4725 Ravenswood. I went up there and saw a fellow by the name of Feegan, a lad I knew before I went down to Leavenworth, and I had a talk with him about getting lined up in a booze racket. I went from there to Dearborn and Division streets with a bootlegger—I don't know his name."

Q. Where had you met him? A. I was introduced to him by this Feegan up in the club.

Bell said that in the cigar store at Division and Dearborn streets he met Joe Traum, whom he knew when he was on parole from Leavenworth.

"I asked him if he could line me up on anything and he sent me out to a fellow by the name of Richard Sullivan, at 4317 Greenwood avenue," said Bell. "I went out there with Sullivan and he told me a little later there would be something he wanted to get in on the last day of May.

"Sullivan asked me to go up to the north side with him and he said he was going to meet Traum. So we went to 530 Diversey parkway. Traum, Sullivan and myself, we went over to the front of a big apartment building there and met Mr. Patras, I think his name was."

A Kidnaping Job.

"A fellow was introduced as Joe Montana, and came and sat in the car, and we were talking in the back seat there and I heard the conversation about somebody they were going to kidnap. Finally Joe Traum spoke up to me: 'Do you want to get in on a good job?'"

"He told me there was a 'grand' [$1,000] in it. 'All you will have to do is to drive the car,' he said.

"So I asked him where is it located at, and he said, 'O, you will find that out later.'

TRIES TO DIE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Dorothy Voight, 19 years old, 4751 North Monticello avenue, who swallowed poison after she had returned home unexpectedly on Thursday night and found another woman with her husband, was in a critical condition at the Lutheran Memorial hospital last evening. She said she wanted to die. According to Dr. S. Boros, Mrs. Voight may recover, but her recovery, he added, depends considerably upon her willingness to live. Police questioned her husband, Philip Voight, 24 years old, a brokerage house employé.

THE LINGLE STORY

Bell then described robberies which he and Sullivan committed in the following few days, all of which have been investigated and verified as having been committed as Bell described them. On Saturday, June 7, the pair held up the Plaisance hotel and the Eastgate hotel. The following day, Bell testified, he received word through Sullivan that Traum wanted to see them.

"We went to meet Traum at Division and Dearborn," Bell said, "and he told us to be ready at 8:30 o'clock the next morning."

This was the morning of June 9, on which Lingle was killed. Coroner Bundesen then led Bell into a description of the events of that day.

Meet in Loop.

Q.—Tell the jury what you did. A.—I met Sullivan at his house on that Monday morning, and we drove up to Division and Dearborn, at the cigar store where Traum always met us. I had a Pontiac sedan that I was driving in at the time, and I parked it on State street, just north of Division street. Then Sullivan and I walked back and we got into Joe Traum's creamish tan Packard sedan and Joe told me to go over and take Clark street and take it down to town, so I was on Division facing towards east, and I turned on State street.

Q.—About what time was this? A.—That was about nine thirty.

Q.—Who was in the car? A.—Joe Traum and Sullivan and myself.

"I was facing east on Division," continued Bell, "and I drove to State street and on State street I drove south to the first street, I think it is Elm, and I turned from Elm to go back towards Clark street and Dearborn, and Dearborn was tore up and I couldn't get through, so I had to turn in an alley and go back to Division.

"When I got in the alley Joe had me stop the car and he took a pistol, a stub nosed pistol, and put it in a hole in the car and fired it once."

Identifies Pistol.

Q.—Was it a pistol just like that? (indicating and exhibiting a blue steel short barreled revolver of the identical type used by the Lingle slayer). A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—It looked just like that? A.—Yes, sir. So after he fired the shot he handed the gun back to Sullivan and Sullivan stuck it down behind the back seat of the car, and I turned out on Division towards Clark street, west, went down Clark street to Ohio street, and Ohio over to Michigan, and Michigan to Wacker drive, and we got on Wacker drive, and I went down Randolph to Market street where the elevated stub is.

"We parked up under the elevated and we stood in the car there a little while talking.

"Joe asked Sullivan and I what we were doing for a living, and we told him we were heisting stores and stuff, and he began laughing because of the amount of money we were getting in it, and he said, 'I will get you a good job.'

In Restaurant at Noon.

"We sat there about an hour and a half, and we went to a restaurant between Market street and Franklin on Randolph on the north—on the northwest corner of the alley there—and we went in and ate and a whistle blew and I looked at the clock and it was 12 o'clock.

"Joe got up and said, 'I am going out,' and he went outside to make a bet on the race horses.

"He came back in a few minutes and said, 'Come on, we better get going.'

Gets Instruction.

"We drove down Market to Jackson boulevard and Jackson boulevard east to the inner outer drive. While I was over there Joe Traum says, 'Get this straight: just as soon as you leave us get back to this spot.'

"So I told him I would get back there just as quick as I could, and he said, 'Now, drive over to Randolph and Michigan avenue.' So I drove around; I turned around and went back onto Michigan avenue and I turned north on Michigan to Randolph street, and when I pulled up there to Randolph street the cars were parked along the curb and I could not get in at the curb anywhere.

"'Well,' he said, 'pull up to the curb and kind of cut the sidewalk,' and I pulled up, and just as I pulled up a man came up to the car, and his face made me think of a man that done time with me in Leavenworth, and one of the officers here showed me a picture of him here, and this man looked like this Theodore Geisking.

"And when I pulled up the officer on the corner said, 'Come on, quit blocking the sidewalk.' And so Joe told me to pull back of some Yellow cabs right off of Randolph street.

Get Pistol from Car.

"When I pulled in there the two boys had stepped out of the car, and they told me to wait over there, and while I waited they came over and got this pistol that was behind the back seat and took it."

Q.—When you pulled up, did you recognize anybody? A.—Yes, this man that looked like Geisking.

Q.—Where was this man? A.—He was standing at the canopy on the southeast corner.

Q.—And what did Traum say when he saw him? A.—Joe Traum says, "Here is my partner, now."

Q.—And then what happened? A.—And after he came over there and got the pistol he said: "Get back over here as fast as you can," so I was headed down there under the drive under Michigan avenue, so I drove under Wacker drive to the other side of Clark street.

Sullivan Is Wounded.

"I drove to the inner outer drive," said Bell, "and I parked there about ten or fifteen minutes, or a little longer than that, probably about thirty minutes, and Joe Traum and Sullivan came down the Inner drive and started walking at a fast clip and got in the car and Joe said, 'shoot south.'

"I happened to look at Sullivan when he got in, and his face was kind of pale, and I said, 'What is the matter?' and he said, 'I am shot.' And I said, 'where is this guy that we are going to kidnap?' 'O, we got him,' he said. 'Go on, let's go.'

"So just before we got to the Stadium there, the Soldiers' field, we started down the incline, Sullivan threw his stub nosed pistol out of the car toward the Illinois Central tracks."

Reads of Killing.

Bell then told of efforts to get a doctor for Sullivan, and of finally obtaining the services of one. Bell went home to bed, then, he said, and the next morning, after reading in the newspapers of the Lingle killing, he went again to see Sullivan.

Sullivan, who had been shot in the leg, told him to tell any inquirers that he had been shot while hijacking a load of booze.

In the succeeding days additional robberies were committed by Sullivan and Bell, all of which were described by the witness. He said that he had contracted to buy an expensive sedan, planning to use the money he was to get for the Lingle killing to pay for it. Dr. Bundesen presented the records of the Auburn Automobile company to prove these statements of Bell.

THE CAFE MURDER

After some delay Traum finally called Sullivan and the latter told Bell, according to the testimony, to go for their pay to the Villa Rica cafe, where Patras would pay them.

Bell described a chase of their car, in which he, Sullivan, and Traum were riding, by a police flivver squad. Members of the squad verified this statement of Bell's, and corroborated the statement that the car in which they were riding was a Packard sedan.

Traum instructed Bell and Sullivan to go into the restaurant for the money, the witness said. Patras said "Hello" to Sullivan, Bell testified, and the two went to the front of the restaurant to where the safe was located.

"The Greek went over and opened up his safe," Bell testified. "I happened to notice a girl sitting on the end of the counter. I was flirting with her down at the end. Just at that time Patras came alongside of me there. I glanced at him. He stooped over. He reached in the safe. He pulled a pistol out and fired a shot at Sullivan. I turned around.

"I seen Sullivan coming up from back of the safe with the pistol and cut loose at Patras. I ran out of the restaurant. Sullivan after me.

"I ran up to the car. Traum had the door open.

"We drove to Division street and Dearborn."

Bell then told of still other stickups in which he had participated, after the killing of Patras, until finally the police traced him from a holdup of a radio shop on June 30 and placed him under arrest.

Bell revealed that he had met Traum in Leavenworth penitentiary and that they had become fast friends.

Tells Traum's Statement.

Coroner Bundesen then revealed that Traum, questioned at the penitentiary, to which he was returned for violation of his parole, had declared that on the day of the Lingle murder he had lain in bed, on the north side, until after noon, and that he came to the loop at 2 o'clock, and had spent the rest of the afternoon in a movie. At no time in the entire day did Traum say he met any persons who could testify to his whereabouts.

Special Assistant State's Attorney James E. McShane, a member of the special staff investigating the Lingle murder case, attended the inquest session and asked a few questions of Bell. He stated that he planned, with the coroner, to question Bell at length and to participate in the further investigation of the prisoner's story.

Praises Police Work.

GUZIK BROTHERS INDICTED BY U. S. FOR TAX FRAUD

List $1,000,000 Income for Jack; Sam Named.

Jack and Sam Guzik, important figures in the Al Capone booze, vice and gambling organization, were indicted by the federal grand jury reporting to Judge Woodward yesterday on charges of trying to defraud the government of income taxes.

Both Sam and Jack had been arrested in the last ten days by Clarence Converse of the intelligence unit of the internal revenue department, and they are at liberty in bonds.

The indictment against Jack Guzik, right hand man for Capone, charges that his gross income for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929 was $1,035,201. The defendant paid taxes, according to the true bill, on $18,090 for 1927, $24,000 for 1928, and $18,150 for 1929.

It is charged that Guzik listed the source of his income in 1927 as "gambling and other unlawful occupations." The same was true for the other years, it is alleged, with the exception of a $4,000 item in 1928, which he said represented dividends from stock in the Hawthorne Kennel club, the Capone dog track.

"Gambling" and the stock dividends are the only sources of income mentioned by the true bill, the balance being styled "other income," but federal investigators declare that the remainder came from booze and brothels.

Lists Taxes Due U. S.

| Year | Income. | Tax due. |
| 1927 | $642,154.43 | $151,582.35 |
| 1928 | 338,147.92 | 72,590.73 |
| 1929 | 54,900.00 | 3,905.00 |

| Year | Income. | Tax due. |
| 1928 | 192,243.05 | 39,283.13 |

Jack was indicted on two counts of willful attempts to defeat and evade the payment of income taxes, and Sam was indicted once on this charge and once for failure to file returns. The former is a felony and carries a maximum penalty of five years and a fine of $10,000, while the latter is a misdemeanor, the maximum penalty being one year and $10,000.

Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman moved that bond be fixed at $50,000 for Jack and $25,000 for Sam and that bench warrants be issued. This was done. As the respective amounts of bond are already scheduled in cash, however, the appearance of the brothers will be a mere formality.

Lyle Denounces Bondsmen as Gunmen Pass in Review

One gunman with a record as a convicted murderer; a second gunman shown to have used dum-dum bullets, and other gunmen pictured by the state as cruel, merciless killers, faced Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court yesterday.

A bondsman proved to have subornedperjury in order that a criminal might be released from jail was also arraigned in the court. And the bondsman was subjected to a stinging arraignment far more severe than that accorded the gunmen.

Calls Bondsmen Dangerous.

"Crooked bondsmen, men who lie in order that violators of the law may be released to prey upon the public pending trial of their cases, are more dangerous to the safety of Chicago than the criminals themselves," declared the judge. "Bondsmen have been allowed too long to practice their sneaking trade unmolested. In this court in the future they will have as much to fear, or more, as the man with a gun."

Harry Nadel, known as a "runner" for Samuel Katz, professional bondsman, was held to the grand jury by the judge on a charge of subornation of perjury. Nadel, it was charged, induced Katz to perjure himself in scheduling a bond for Herbert McClair, who was charged with the forgery of $1,750 in checks from the Bowmanville National bank of Chicago.

Find Property Incumbered.

Katz was held to the grand jury on a charge of perjury last week. McClair has jumped his bond, which scheduled property valued at $145,000. An investigation showed that mortgages, liens, and other claims were levied against the property which Katz had claimed was unincumbered.

Katz testified that Nadel persuaded him to commit perjury in testifying concerning the bond.

Sammons Still in Jail.

Previous to the arraignment of Nadel a number of gunmen had paraded before the judge. The first was James [Fur] Sammons, machine gunner, once convicted for murder, whose bold attitude on Thursday had provoked Judge Lyle to set a $50,000 bond on a vagrancy charge and assert that the bond would be raised if any attempt was made to release Sammons.

No attempt has been made to make the bond and Sammons was still in jail last night.

Attorneys W. W. Smith and Everett Jennings for Sammons charged that Judge Lyle was prejudiced in the case and asked for a change of venue. Judge Lyle set the case to Chief Justice Olson for reassignment.

Sammons Faces Judge.

Sammons mumbled a reply.

"Look up," said the judge. "Or I'll send you to jail for six months for contempt of court."

Sammons looked up.

"It's time for men of your stripe to quit Chicago," said the court.

"I've heard that before," said Sammons.

"But it will be a long time before you quit this territory," remarked the judge. "Because you're going to be behind the bars until you forget how to use a gun."

Bond Set at $100,000.

It was the dum-dum bullets in a pistol toted by Milton Anderson, 29 years old, that influenced Judge Lyle to set his bond at $100,000 in holding him to the grand jury on one robbery and three attempted robbery charges.

"I marvel that you men brought him in here safe and sound for trial," said the judge to the arresting policemen. "However, that's not a suggestion."

The patrolmen said they did not know until after the arrest that Anderson's pistol was filled with dum-dum slugs, scored so that they would make a gaping wound if fired.

Evidence was introduced showing that Anderson held up one man, obtaining a watch and $10, and was captured when he tried to stick up three other men.

Forfeit Bond of Bello.

Dominick Bello, member of the Aiello clan, failed to appear yesterday to answer a charge of manslaughter before Judge Charles A. Williams. His bond of $5,000 was ordered forfeited. Bello and Dominick Brancato are at liberty on vagrancy charges under $10,000 bonds set by Judge Lyle.

The state's attorney's office yesterday questioned Tony Capezio, Capone gangster, who was captured with two others in a raid on the Greyhound café, River road and Grand avenue, early yesterday morning. Capezio was one of the eight Capone men named on a secret police list whose names were later omitted in a second list after the first list had found its way into the hands of Tony Tagenti, Capone bondsman.

As the raiders burst in, Capezio was seen to fling something beneath a table. Detectives found a .45 caliber automatic pistol, loaded, which was turned over to ballistic experts.

SLAIN HIJACKER IS NEW SUSPECT IN LINGLE DEATH

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 4 (Saturday)—[Special.]—A dead hijacker, blond and supposedly left handed, was unofficially suspected here early today as the murderer of Alfred Lingle. He was Elmer Stover, member of the Joe Traum booze gang.

Stover was shot and killed on July 1 near Springfield, Ill., in a hijacking foray. A companion, R. C. Pincher, was also murdered.

Stover, it was learned, was with Traum frequently, and last May visited Chicago with him. Whether he was in Chicago on June 9 when Lingle was slain could not be learned.

The murders of Stover and his companion were investigated by Illinois authorities at the time of their deaths, but the victims at that time were not linked to the Lingle case.

JAIL STANTON'S HELPER ON ZUTA MURDER CHARGE

Edgar Smith Held to Expedite Case.

Edgar Smith joined his chief, Dan Stanton, a public enemy, in the county jail yesterday awaiting extradition to Wisconsin under charges of the murder of Jack Zuta. His arrest was ordered to offset the possibility of Stanton seeking to shift to him blame for ownership of a gun used in killing Zuta.

Smith appeared in Judge William H. Fetzer's court yesterday morning to answer the charge of vagrancy and disorderly conduct placed against him when he was arrested with Stanton two weeks ago.

Trace Gun of Killer.

A revolver was found in their automobile, in a pocket adjacent to Stanton's right hand, and when this gun was examined by Col. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistic expert, he was able to show that it had fired one of the bullets taken from Zuta's brain.

The killing of Zuta was an aftermath of the killing of Alfred Lingle on June 9. Stanton was a south side beer runner lately affiliated with the Capone gang and Smith was his bodyguard, and chauffeur.

Extradition Is Speeded Up.

The extradition of the pair is being expedited and a request to Gov. Emmerson for their removal is expected early next week from Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin.

Detectives William Drury and John Howe, who arrested Stanton and Smith, were given $300 extra yearly compensation yesterday as a reward by Acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock. Policeman Edward Hess of the Des Plaines street station was also given an award of $300 for shooting one of two bandits in the act of robbing an oil station.

HIGHEST MEDICAL COURT UPHOLDS SCHMIDT OUSTER

Doctor Loses Long Battle Involving Health Costs.

The judicial council of the American Medical association, in a report made public yesterday, upheld the action of the Chicago Medical society in expelling Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, noted Chicago physician, on charges of unethical practice. The council of five judges sustained the society's action by a vote of three to two.

The decision of the council — the court of final appeal for the American medical profession—ended, at least temporarily, a dispute which has been recognized in many quarters as a test case in the effort to reduce the cost of medical care for patients of moderate means.

Cause of Expulsion.

Dr. Schmidt, professor of surgery in the Northwestern university medical school and a leading member of hospital staffs, was expelled from the Chicago Medical society because of his indirect connection with the Public Health institute which treats social diseases. The institute has been declared unethical by the society because of its policy of advertising for patients. Dr. Schmidt is president of the Illinois Social Hygiene league, a philanthropic institution, contributing to the Public Health institute and likewise to St. Luke's hospital, the University of Chicago medical school and the Chicago Hygiene council.

The majority report of the judical council said that the members did not review the merits of the charges made against Dr. Schmidt, but merely passed upon the regularity of the society proceedings, stating that the council has jurisdiction only in the matter of law and procedure.

History of Case Reviewed.

In its report the council reviewed the history of the case—the original charter, the appeal to the Illinois Medical society and the final appeal to the American Medical association. The council concluded, by the vote of 3 to 2, that in all this action the procedure against Dr. Schmidt was regular.

"The record show that the Chicago Medical society a number of years prior to the beginning of this action had declared the Public Health institute to be an unethical institution," the majority report said. "The record further shows that the appellant had full knowledge of this action on the part of the society a number of years before the offense was committed upon which the present action is based."

The majority report was signed by Dr. Donald Macrae Jr., of Council Bluffs, Ia.; Dr. F. W. Cregor of Indianapolis, and Dr. J. N. Hall of Denver, Colo.

Two Sign Minority Report.

The minority report, signed by Dr. George Edward Follansbee of Cleveland and Dr. James B. Herrick of Chicago declared that the Chicago Medical society in its principal charge was vague and indefinite, and asserted that the procedure was faulty.

"As to the first two charges, having to do with the economic matters, we are presented with the singular spectacle of insistence of the representative of the Illinois State Medical society, that these economic charges are not involved, coupled with equal insistence by Dr. Schmidt upon answering them," the majority report said.

"Most of the testimony of the trial, and the brief presented by Dr. Schmidt to the judicial council supporting his appeal, were concerned with the cost of medical care, public health needs and philanthropic activities relating to charges one and two, which the Chicago Medical society and the Illinois Medical society waived, basing Dr. Schmidt's expulsion only on the charge of unethical conduct as contained in charge three, covering solicitation of patients.

Third Charge Discussed.

"The matter for decision by this council therefore resolves itself into a consideration of charge three (declaring that solicitation of patients by individuals or institutions is unprofessional).

"No particular action is previously mentioned in the charges, nor does it later appear what specific action is cited against Dr. Schmidt. The charge as made is a general charge. It is vague and indefinite. It is not specific, as required by the by-laws of the Chicago Medical society and by ordinary legal usage.

"Lest this reasoning seem technical, it should be remembered that it is one of the fundamentals of Anglo-Saxon liberty and law that one accused shall have a fair trial."

Comment of Dr. Schmidt.

Dr. Schmidt, white haired and 60, was reluctant to discuss the report yesterday, awaiting a more thorough study of its contents.

"I have just reviewed the decision and have been unable so far to study it carefully," he said. "The decision apparently does not go into the principles and problems involved, chiefly the question of lowered costs for medical care. Naturally, I shall continue to work in that direction, even though the decision has been made against me. Later I will have a more detailed statement to make."

During the long dispute several public leaders and institutions came to the aid of Dr. Schmidt. Among them were Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Cook county coroner, who resigned from the medical society because of its action against Dr. Schmidt. Others who took the part of the physician were Rabbi Louis Mann, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, the Rosenwald Foundation, and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The controversy brought to Chicago three well known physicians from other cities to investigate the Public Health institute and these experts gave high praise to the work of the institution.

INSTITUTE SERVICE GAINS

The Public Health institute announced an increase in its work yesterday. The institute treated an average of 1,370 patients a day during September and gave a total of 34,256 treatments during the month, an increase of 2,601 treatments over August, according to Joseph H. King, president.

The institute was organized ten years ago and has been self-supporting since shortly after its founding. It is headed by a group of leading Chicagoans.

"The need of an organization like the Public Health institute is clearer than ever before," said Mr. King. "It is furnishing to a large number of people who could not pay for private medical care of the dangerous and infectious social diseases, competent medical services at a cost within their means, without charity or profit."

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, city health commissioner, today resigned from the New York County Medical society as a defense of his action in allowing his name and picture to appear in advertisements of a tooth paste.

Dr. Wynne has been a member of the society twenty-seven years. His resignation carries with it withdrawal from the State Medical society and the American Medical association. He is a member of several important committees in the state society.

Dr. Wynne's action followed the appearance in an evening newspaper of an item which said that the board of censors of the society had instituted action against him.

LYLE DISMISSES CONTEMPT CASE AGAINST BATY

A contempt citation against E. N. Baty, secretary of the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association, was dismissed yesterday by Judge John H. Lyle. Baty explained to the judge that he had intended no personal reflection upon Judge Lyle's integrity when he expressed criticism in connection with a pending bond perjury case.

However, Mr. Baty insisted, and the court admitted, that the statements made in regard to the case contained no untruths.

"The statements in question were made solely to bring attention to serious faults in the system of administration of criminal justice in Chicago," Mr. Baty declared. "To mention such facts is not only within the rights, but it is the duty of every citizen."

TRIO HOLDS UP, ROBS 19 CATTLE RAISERS ON TRAIN

Atwater, Minn., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Three masked men held up nineteen Montana stockmen aboard a Great Northern live stock train here tonight. They escaped with $300. The train was en route to the South St. Paul stockyards.

After lining up the Montanans and taking their money the trio fled in the darkness. The stockmen notified townspeople and posses were sent out.

BANDITS IN TWO CARS ROB PARTY OF GEMS, AUTO

Police early today were looking for five bandits in two automobiles who held up two couples last night and drove away in their new sedan after robbing them of jewelry and cash on 100th avenue, in the Maple Forest preserve, between 95th and 107th streets.

The victims were forced to walk nearly four miles to Willow Springs where they reported the robbery to county highway police.

The stolen car was owned by Frank Horky, 1500 West 19th street, and driven by his daughter, Lillian, 20 years old. With her were Miss Marie Korbas, 21 years old, 1840 South Laflin street; George Torpinko, 21 years old, 1147 West 18th street, and John Bosh, 23 years old, 1146 West 18th street. The girls each lost diamond rings which they value at $200, while their companions gave up about $10.

PATRON'S QUICK ACTION TRAPS BANDIT IN ACT

Quick action on the part of a customer last night brought about the capture of an armed bandit who was in the act of robbing the proprietor and two patrons of an ice cream parlor at 2201 Madison street. George Kieffer, 220 South Hamilton avenue, the customer, entered the door just as the bandit was herding William Franche, the owner, and the patrons, W. C. Schellsmidt, 2216 Warren avenue, and Clyde Willis, 9 South Leavitt street, into a washroom.

Dashing outside, Kieffer called Policeman William O'Brien and notified the Warren avenue station. In a few moments Lieut. Walter Storms and his squad and Policeman O'Brien rushed into the place and captured the bandit, who gave the name of Gus Krinas, 4934 Monroe street. Krinas had taken $22.93 from Franche and $1.25 from Schellsmidt before his arrest.

Girl Robbed of Rings by Bandit on Wacker Drive

Miss Vera Wallack, 1826 Lincoln avenue, lost two rings which she valued at $700 last night when she and her escort, Herman Kirsch, 324 West North avenue, were held up as they were about to enter Kirsch's car, parked on the lower level of Wacker drive at State street. The couple were on their way home from a loop show when the bandits' car drew up and one man got out with a gun in his hand and demanded Miss Wallack's jewelry. Kirsch was not molested.

CUBAN CONGRESS VOTES TO MAKE MACHADO BOSS

Adopts Plan for Martial Law in Havana.

BULLETIN.

HAVANA, Oct. 4 (Saturday).—(AP)—The Cuban congress early today granted the request of President Machado for suspension of constitutional guarantees in Havana and vicinity until after the general elections Nov. 1. The senate first approved the request and then, after long debate, the house of representatives acquiesced.

HAVANA, Oct. 3.—(AP)—President Gerardo Machado's message asking for suppression of constitutional guarantees and virtual establishment of martial law in the Havana region during the congressional election campaign was approved late tonight by the Cuban senate. The senate was heavily guarded by soldiers. The bill was immediately referred to the house of representatives, which was expected to pass upon it within a few hours.

Hold Official Gazette Ready.

The provisions of the bill were likely to be in effect by daybreak tomorrow. The official gazette, which must publish all legislative acts before they become effective, was being held open tonight to print it.

In the senate, Dr. José Manuel Cortina, leader of the Popular party, was said to have actively opposed the bill. His party recently consolidated with the Conservatives and Liberals.

Suspension of constitutional guarantees, if congress accepts it, means the citizens of the Havana district, numbering about 600,000, or nearly a fifth of Cuba's population, will lose all constitutional privileges until after the elections. Freedom of the press and of public speech, the right to assemble, and the right to vote will be suspended.

The message was drafted by President Machado as an extreme precaution against possible outbreaks of disorder during the forthcoming political campaign.

It was impelled by riots on Tuesday in which a number of Cuban university students participated. One person was killed and about a dozen others, including six policemen, were wounded.

Only Emergency Power.

Usually well informed sources at the presidential palace today said the president "did not intend to enforce application of the drastic limits afforded by the measure if passed."

It was stated that the executive, in asking for approval of the plan to impose martial law, wanted full exercise of the power "only in case of extreme emergency."

GUNMEN HOLD UP DRUG STORE.

Two gunmen yesterday entered the Liggett drug store at 901 East 63d street, held up four employes and a customer, forced the manager, Wendell B. Smith, to open a safe and escaped with $280.

G. O. P. WOMEN TO GIVE LUNCHEON FOR CANDIDATES

Tickets were distributed yesterday at a meeting of the Illinois League of Republican Women at the Morrison hotel for the candidates' luncheon to be held under the auspices of the organization on Oct. 25 at the same hotel. Mrs. Walter Scudder Hart, president, will preside at the luncheon, at which Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick will be the headliner. Mrs. Grace Viall Gray is in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Rena Elrod, who is again a candidate for representative from the 25th district, was the principal speaker at yesterday's gathering. She spoke on the legislation in prospect affecting women, especially the referendum on women on juries, which will be settled at the November election.

At the Chicago Woman's club yesterday Mrs. E. C. Schmidt of Urbana, chairman of the state committee on international relations of the Illinois League of Women Voters, presided at a conference of chairmen of that department from various Illinois towns. The meeting was to settle points of the fall program of the organization.

KIDNAPERS HOLD DOCTOR CAPTIVE ALL NIGHT LONG

Police Rescue Him After Ransom Demand.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Kidnaped at the point of pistols by three men and imprisoned in a vacant house all night while his captors tried to argue him into paying $10,000 ransom, Dr. Frank L. McPhail was freed today when police raided the house because neighbors reported that a man was "acting crazy" there.

The man who stood guard over Dr. McPhail all night was arrested and is held on a charge of kidnaping. He is Frank Sabino.

Dr. Malcolm McPhail was summoned by telephone to Oakland and Manchester avenues. He was told in the call that his son was kidnaped.

Note Asks for $4,000.

In his statement to Van H. Ring, assistant prosecuting attorney, the elder physician said that he was met at the corner by two men. They climbed into the rear seat of his car and gave him a note which had been written by his son, asking that $4,000 be paid the men.

"I told them I'd do what I could and went back to where I had met them," Dr. McPhail said. "They got out of the car and said they'd call me. I came home and found the police had called to notify me that Frank was free."

Dr. Frank McPhail, in his statement to Ring, said he could think of no reason why he should have been the victim of such an attempt.

"They must have picked my name out of the telephone directory," he said.

Admits He's Kidnaper.

Sabino admitted being one of the kidnapers, but said he was forced to take part by his companions, who started out without his knowledge.

Dr. Frank McPhail threw notes from the window of the room in which he was imprisoned, waved his arms at people passing, and finally tore the letters spelling "help" from blank sheets and pasted them on the pane, where they were seen by Mrs. John Fishenko, who called the police. He also breathed on the window of the room in which he was locked and wrote the word "help" on the moist glass.

"I was as surprised as my guard when there was a sudden crash downstairs and two men raced into the house," Dr. McPhail said.

Guard Submits to Arrest.

"They burst into the room and we saw that both wore police uniforms. We all three jumped for the guard, but that was useless, because he didn't put up any fight at all."

A note which Dr. McPhail wrote to his father was found in the house by Detectives George Rose and William Schnelling of the Davison station when they searched the place. They also found a pistol and a blackjack.

buys. Our investigation causes us to believe that this manipulation of trade by conspiracy costs the citizens of Cook county not less than one hundred million dollars per year.

"The indirect cost to Cook county in damaged reputation, withdrawal of business from the city and county, refusal of business to locate in a racket infested area is incalculable."

Lingle Murder Mentioned.

The murder of Alfred Lingle was mentioned by the jurors as one of the things Chief Justice McGoorty called to their attention for investigation. After quoting the chief justice's charge to them, the jurors said:

"We entered upon our term imbued with an enthusiastic desire to carry out your instructions, and have patiently awaited some presentation on which we could act."

The jurors appended to the letter a report suggesting certain reforms in criminal procedure. Among the topics mentioned is the untried sanitary district cases. The jurors said that, much to their "amazement, the matter has apparently been dropped."

"Why waste time of jurors on investigations without carrying them to their conclusion? What has become of the sanitary district cases?" the report asked.

The Supplemental Report.

The supplemental report in brief touched on the following points:

1. It is apparent that criminal conditions exist because of lack of proper laws with real teeth in them. Confidence games and crooked real estate deals are cited, as are the change of venue law and the failure to put away habitual criminals.

2. Witnesses should receive better protection from gangland influences. The court hallways should be kept cleared of possible spies.

3. Premature publication of news should be stopped by the newspapers.

4. Grand jurors should be protected by their names not being printed.

5. Gun toting should be vigorously prosecuted and state and national legislation developed to make it harder to obtain firearms.

FEDERAL JUDGE DISMISSES DRY PADLOCK SUIT

Laspeza testified that Kaminakis told him he knew his (Laspeza's) son Pete and then asked if he could get a bottle of wine "for the old woman," who, he said, was sick.

COMPLETE JURY TO TRY WIFE FOR KILLING OF MATE

Mrs. Leeney Loses Point in Trial Opening.

A jury of nine married men and three bachelors will decide whether Mrs. Florence Leeney is guilty of the murder of her husband, Maurice Leeney, a south side teaming contractor, who was shot to death on last New Year's day. The jury was completed yesterday afternoon in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court.

Mrs. Leeney lost a vital point at the opening of the trial when Judge Sabath refused to allow a motion made by Attorneys Charles Dougherty and Samuel Hoffman, defense counsel, to suppress a couch from the evidence. The state contends that Leeney was on the couch when his wife shot him to death. The couch, Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and Ross Lee Laird declare, will show the angle from which the bullets were fired.

Judge Sabath will rule this morning on a new development in criminal trials when the prosecutors bring into the courtroom a scene duplicating the room in which the killing occurred.

The room built by carpenters for the trial shows the location of the various objects at the time of the shooting and even includes a section of the base board, which contains some of the bullets that did not take effect.

The defense attorneys objected to this procedure saying it has never before been followed in the courts. The prosecutors argued that there must always be a first time and that they were supported by decisions from Supreme courts in other states.

Mrs. Leeney was called to the stand for a short time yesterday when her attorneys tried to prevent the showing of the couch to the jury. She testified that she had not given the police the right to take it from her home.

Opening statements were made just before the court closed. The prosecutors charged that the murder was unjustified while the defense attorneys told the jurors that they would show that Mrs. Leeney's husband was unfaithful and cruel and that she shot him in self-defense.

CRIMINAL COURT.

White, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Herman Barney, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Alfred Hanape, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

RACKET INQUIRY WILL OPEN LOOP OFFICE MONDAY

The racketeering investigation, which resulted in some indictments by the grand jury that adjourned last night, will be conducted from a downtown office, State's Attorney Swanson announced yesterday. The new office will be opened on Monday in the Home Insurance building.

It was announced that the office is to be opened to make it more convenient for witnesses to reach and also to assure secrecy to witnesses who are helping the prosecution. The investigating staff will remain in charge of Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury.

INCOME TAX CUT RETENTION IN '31 APPEARS SURER

Government Expenditures Again Reduced.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Retention of this year's reduced income tax rates for at least another year became increasingly certain today with an announcement from President Hoover of progress in the cutting of governmental expenditures for the current fiscal year.

Savings effected by the different departments as a result of the retrenchment order issued by the President now point, he believes, to a reduction of about $68,000,000 in expenditures of the fiscal year 1931 below estimates at the beginning of the fiscal year.

According to figures made public by the President the Oct. 1 estimate of expenditures for the fiscal year from July 1, 1930, to June 30, 1931, was $4,134,555,000. The estimate on July 1 of expenditures for the year was $4,202,754,000, indicating that the departments have cut their budgets by $67,199,000.

Working on 1932 Requests.

The President was not ready to announce progress in hammering down departmental requests in the budget for the fiscal year 1932, which is now in preparation and which will be submitted to congress in December.

While the $68,000,000 saving does not by itself make possible retention of this year's income tax rates, it forms a substantial item toward wiping out an annual deficit which treasury officials some time ago stated would amount to 180 million dollars if the lower rates are kept.

The administration hopes to save fifty million dollars or more annually by reducing the postal deficit through an increase in first class postage rates by action of congress the coming winter.

The administration also for the first time will take account in advance budget estimates of the amount of cash that may be received from foreign nations. It is expected that the cash to be received on foreign debt payments and which can be available for current expenditures will amount to considerably more than 100 million dollars annually. Total foreign debt payments this year will exceed 230 millions.

Securities Are Canceled.

Heretofore the treasury and budget bureau in their advance estimates have gone on the assumption that all of the foreign debt payments might be in the form of securities of the American government. Securities thus received have been immediately canceled, being in this fashion applied toward reduction of the public debt. Cash payments have figured in the annual surpluses and have also been used for debt reduction.

The $68,000,000 savings in expenditures, a $50,000,000 cut in the postal deficit and the use of more than 100 millions annually from foreign debt payments toward current expenditures represents a total of upward of 220 millions. This will more than wipe out what has been described as a deficit of 180 millions under the bookkeeping methods in use.

While President Hoover made no statement today with reference to the income tax situation, there seems no doubt whatever that he will recommend to congress in his annual message in December legislation to continue this year's rates. The President is known to feel strongly that the imposition of higher tax rates at this time would seriously retard business recovery.

From a political standpoint it is recognized that the restoration of the former tax rates might prove a damaging blow to the Hoover administration. The explanation that this year's rates were intended to apply only for one year might not satisfy voters who do not keep up with the intricacies of the financial situation, but who suddenly find themselves called upon to pay higher taxes.

Law Covers One Year.

Under the legislation enacted by congress a year ago on the recommendation of President Hoover, the reduction of 1 per cent in all normal individual income tax rates and in the corporation tax rate was made effective only on taxes payable in the calendar year 1930 on earnings of 1929. The action was designed by the President to check the downward trend of business which followed the stock market crash. Unless there is further legislation early in the coming session of congress he old rates will be automatically restored in the tax returns to be made next March for earnings of 1930.

M. FOLEY FAILS TO RAISE BOND; HELD IN CELL

Will Face Court on Fraud Charges Oct. 15.

Matt Foley, who was indicted on a charge of operating a fraudulent lottery on the Kentucky Derby as an assistant circulation manager of the Herald and Examiner, was placed in a county jail cell yesterday when bondsmen failed to come to his rescue. He is charged with conspiracy along with H. Goodman, a former Herald and Examiner driver, and Leo Schoemer, a railroad employé.

Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, who is in charge of the bond department, said he would require a bond schedule of clear property the same as is required for the "public enemies" and other hoodlums now under prosecution by the authorities.

To Face Court Oct. 15.

A clear property schedule is to be required in Foley's case, it was said, because he was a fugitive from justice for more than two months. The prosecutors want to have him under a collectable bond in case he does not appear for trial on Oct. 15 when his case is called before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court.

Foley was captured on Thursday in his home at 5140 Wilson avenue by Detectives Robert Calkins and Tony McDonough of the detective bureau. The detectives were given a special assignment to arrest Foley after the sheriff's office had failed to capture him.

Charges Against Foley.

The state charges that Foley, through Herald and Examiner drivers, distributed some 50,000 tickets on the Derby. It is alleged that he issued tickets on the horse Dick O'Hara, which was not expected to run. The tickets said that if the horse did not run then the better lost his money and if the horse did run a prize of $50 was to be paid. But Dick O'Hara started and the purchasers of the tickets were not paid.

TURKS MASSACRE THOUSANDS OF KURDS, IS REPORT

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Exchange Telegraph company reports that it has information from within the secret war council which indicates that, Turkish reports to the contray, the Kurd revolt on the frontier has not yet been suppressed.

The Jewish Telegraphic agency today received reports that in the Zila district 220 villages were destroyed and 4,500 Kurdish men, women, and children massacred by the Turks. Another report through the same sources said that in the vicinity of Julamerck 300 villages were destroyed and 500 persons killed.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY TAXI DIES; TOLL NOW 772

William Miller, 52 years old, 16 West Ontario street, was fatally injured last night when struck by a taxicab driven by Urie Browning, 4608 Warwick avenue, at Ontario and Dearborn streets. Browning stopped long enough to place the injured man in another cab, which took him to the Henrotin hospital. Browning then continued to a railroad station with his two passengers, and returned to the hospital later to learn that Miller had died. He is being held by East Chicago avenue police. This death and two others increased the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 772. The other victims:

Unidentified man, about 40 years old, died at the Keystone hospital of injuries incurred Thursday when struck by a car at Belmont and Harlem avenues. The driver was Holland Severy, 1021 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park.

Nominee Rips Into Lewis and Dry Leaguers.

"Let them explain to a confused public why Democrats, who favor not only repeal of the 18th amendment but openly declare for nullification and violation of the constitution, have joined hands with that little group which is trying to force upon our people the astonishing fiction that there is no liquor problem in Illinois or in the country.

"The Democratic candidate for the senate criticizes me because, as one who is determined to adhere conscientiously to a constitutional method of approaching the liquor problem, I pledge myself to abide by the result of that referendum. He assails me because I have agreed to be responsive to a majority vote of the electorate of Illinois on these questions.

"Yet the Democratic aspirant cannot expect the people of Illinois to forget that for weeks last summer the Democrats of this state were undecided as to whether they would or would not initiate such a referendum as is now before the people.

Charges Lewis Takes Orders.

"The Democratic candidate, when asked by the press as to how he stood on the proposal, made the familiar reply that he had an open mind on the subject. He said it was up to county and state leaders as to what decision he would make. Pause a moment and contemplate the picture of a man who aspires to the highest responsibilities of statesmanship, who assails me for agreeing to obey the mandate of three million votes, whereas he took his orders across an office desk from Mike Igoe and Tony Cermak!

"One of the unsound reasons given by both the Democrats and the anti-majority rule partisans for opposition to a referendum on liquor in Illinois is that it is to be merely an advisory expression of opinion and not binding in its effect. In reply to that, I want to say that the result of the referendum is going to be effective so far as my course in the United States senate is concerned because I pledge myself to be bound by that majority expression.

"The anti-majority league party complains that it made my nomination possible because I ran as a dry in the senatorial primary and that after the primary victory I betrayed them by announcing that I would represent the will of the voters when I go to the senate.

"The pretense of the Anti-Saloon league that it worked for me in the senatorial primary is wholly false. Led by a candidate who deserted the Republican party, the anti-majority rule party, sometimes called the Anti-Saloon league, accuses me of treachery, therefore, solely for the reason that I will not be a traitor to the principle of representative government."

World Court Discussed.

In talking of the world court issue, the nominee said she was informed that eastern internationalists "are here prepared to aid with money and speakers" in the fight against her. She reaffirmed her own opposition to the world court of many years' standing and continued:

"In former days my Democratic opponent in this campaign was a vocal friend of the league of nations. He is not saying much about it now although he indulged in fervent oratory upon the subject hour upon hour on the floor of the United States senate. As a senator, presumably representing the will of the people of Illinois, but actually not so representing that will, he told the country that Washington and Jefferson would have favored American alliance with the league of nations if they had been alive in 1918.

"He was one of those who believed that power and force should be used by the nations which were members of the league in order to compel obedience by other nations. He said in the senate on Dec. 6, 1918:

"'I say there must be power to enforce the judgment of such a court, but I deny that it is necessary that this league shall have the power of itself to maintain an international army . . . but that from the armies and navies of the different countries there may ever be drawn, when the nations consent, sufficient force whenever force shall be essential.'

Calls Record Lewis' Foe.

"The Democratic candidate who now desires to return to the senate is the same man who on that day declared in favor of an international military alliance of which the United States be a member, which alliance should use armies and navies and make war to enforce its mandates. He would have the United States assist a European military alliance in declaring war in the sacred name of peace.

"I am not alone opposing the candidacy of the Democratic leader in this campaign. His greatest opponent, his most relentless adversary in this campaign, is his own record on the floor of the United States senate.

"Not satisfied with advocating dangerous foreign entanglements, the senator brought his career in Washington to an astonishing climax on Oct. 17, 1918, by proposing, in all seriousness, that so far as President Woodrow Wilson was concerned the senate should tear up the United States constitution and let the President have a free hand in dealing with the European nations.

"The man who thus proposed that the senate abrogate one of the most important responsibilities placed upon it by the constitution is now drawing upon all his resources of rhetoric in order to make it appear that the constitution of our country is the treasure that he holds closest to his heart."

In answering Mr. Lewis' criticism of the Republican tariff, Mrs. McCormick cited the record to show that Democratic senators supported the bill, the aggregate of their votes for increased rates or against proposed decreases being 1,010 votes, she said.

Other Nominees Give Talks.

Otto Reich, nominee for president of the county board, referred to campaign banners used by his opponent, President A. J. Cermak, reading: "He Built the Finest Forest Preserves in the Country."

"I always have been of the opinion that nature built them," Reich said. "Perhaps he meant to say that he built the finest political fences around the forest preserves."

"The first and most effective attack upon organized crime," said Municipal Judge Helander, Republican nominee for county judge, "is and must be to purify the stream of government at its source through having honest primaries and honest elections."

"Democratic politicians," said County Commissioner Boutell, nominee for assessor, "are trying to make capital out of the present economic depression, forgetting entirely that two of the worst depressions this country ever suffered were brought on in 1893 and in 1913 through putting Democratic policies into effect."

Chairman Snow of the county central committee, presided. Among those on the platform were National Committeeman Roy O. West, Speaker David E. Shanahan, State's Attorney Swanson, District Attorney Johnson, Postmaster Lueder, Barney Cohen, state director of labor; President James of the West Park board, Jacob D. Allen, Deneen county manager; Edward R. Litsinger, Charles V. Barrett, Thomas O. Wallace, Walter E. Bacon, Anthony Czarnecki and Harry Ash. Mayor Thompson was not present.

MRS. O'NEILL RAPS CITY HALL MACHINE AND MRS. M'CORMICK

An attack on the city hall political machine and Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee, was made by Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for senator, in a speech last evening before the Norwegian Federated Women's Clubs of Chicago in the Kelvyn Park clubhouse, Kostner and Wrightwood avenues.

Mrs. O'Neill declared that the election of the Republican nominee to the senate would so intrench the city hall group that it would be able to run William Hale Thompson for mayor, to hold office during the World's Fair. In the main, she devoted her remarks to a definition of party regularity, and compared the party regularity of President Hoover and Bernard Snow, local chieftain.

"Any one who refuses to follow Snow's dripping wet banner is called irregular," declared Mrs. O'Neill. "According to the principles of national republicanism on which Hoover was nominated, Snow and his gang are irregular and outside the pale of political integrity."

CHURCH REJECTS PLEA TO IGNORE DRY REFERENDUM

Anti-Saloon League Move Beaten by Methodists.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

After a vigorous skirmish on the floor of the Rock River Methodist Episcopal conference session yesterday at Wilmette, the conference turned down the appeal of Dr. George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league that the church ignore the wet-dry referendum.

Dr. Safford addressed the conference on Thursday and urged the pastors to regard the referendum as wet strategy and to concentrate attention on candidtaes for office. The conference advised the taking an active and dry part in the referendum.

Pastor Attacks Move.

The Rev. Dr. John H. Williamson, pastor of the Franklin Park church led an attack on the methods used by the conference committee on public policy. He asserted that committee had violated the rules of the conference in presenting the report, without giving members of the conference sufficient time to consider it in detail, before calling for a vote.

"Are we willing to allow this conference to go down in history as the one that applied the 'gag rule'?" asked Dr. Williamson. He charged the public policy committee "had assumed privilege informally to read the report." He attacked this procedure as one that stifled opposition and cut off privilege of the conference to debate, amend, approve, or reject any part or all of the report.

Political Chicanery, He Says.

"We see the same political chicanery played here in the church under the guise of religion as one may see at the city hall," Dr. Williamson declared as he challenged Anti-Saloon league dominance in the conference.

"How far shall we let the league lead us from the king's highway of spiritual progress into the highways and byways of practical politics as played in the United States today?" he declared is a question the church soon will have to answer.

The Franklin Park pastor declared that the Anti-Saloon league opposition to the referendum went deeper into American democratic practices than a mere wet and dry issue. He asserted that the issue raised by the league had swung to a more fundamental question of constitutional rights of citizens, as he pointed to the 400,000 citizens who signed the petition for the referendum.

Last night Dr. Williamson declared the conference had adopted his resolution demanding that the rules of the conference be observed by the public policy committee to assure opportunity to study the report of the committee, before voting.

Statement on Referendum.

The section of the report dealing with the referendum pointed to the danger of the development a habit of a passive attitude which might afflict the drys if they should ignore "a series of referendum campaigns."

"Who can guarantee that so insidious a habit will be shaken off at a day's notice when our leaders discover, as some day they must, that a decisive referendum campaign is impending?" said the report.

"We therefore are of the opinion that all citizens who favor prohibition should not only vote for dry candidates, but should vote dry on all three sections of the prohibition referendum."

Other sections of the report, as adopted, condemned military training and lauded Chicago's effort "to clean house and drive out gangsters, gunmen and corrupt politicians." The latter section commended Col. A. A. Sprague and the Association of Commerce for the campaign waged against crime.

Recommendations in the case of the Rev. James A. Wilson, under sentence of one to 14 years in the penitentiary for assault with intent to kill will be presented to the conference today by the conference relations committee. The Rev. Mr. Wilson shot his sexton, Amos Elliott in a struggle over the possession of a letter the pastor had written to one of the women of his parish. He awaits a decision of the Appellate court.

WOMAN BEATEN; HOME ROBBED.

Mrs. Sadie Dagan, 3428 Douglas boulevard, was slugged and beaten by two bandits who forced their way into her home yesterday and stole two rings valued at $500. After beating Mrs. Dagan the thieves bound her and ransacked the apartment.

ROOSEVELT TAKES RENOMINATION; STANDS SQUARELY FOR REPEAL

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Asserting that he stood squarely on the prohibition repeal plank in the Democratic state platform, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt formally accepted renomination at the notification meeting at the National Democratic club tonight and charged Charles H. Tuttle, his Republican opponent, with hypocrisy on the prohibition issue.

Gov. Roosevelt accused Mr. Tuttle of "fledging" in his reply to the question as to whether he would sign a state prohibition enforcement act, if elected governor, and accused him of attempting to be "wet to the wets and dry to the drys."

LABOR CHIEF ASKS MORE BUYING TO SPEED BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Increased purchase of commodities was urged today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as a means of stabilizing business conditions.

The suggestion was made in the monthly survey of business issued by the labor federation.

"Business men," Green said, "can hasten revival and improve their own trade without undue risk by such policies as these:

"1. Cut overhead costs [without reducing wages] by improving equipment and eliminating waste.

"2. Order ahead; start to work up a normal spring supply.

"3. Improve quality of product and reduce prices.

"4. Stimulate trade by advertising and special efforts."

Green added these measures "will increase employment and put products within reach of this year's low incomes" and wage earners "can help produce better articles at lower cost by improving the quality of their work and increasing efficiency."

"For the first time in many months," Green said, "business opportunity is increasing. Fundamental adjustments have been made, favorable signs are appearing. Our foreign trade shows signs of improving, wholesale prices are more stable, retail prices are down nearer the point where workers can buy, the outlook for employment is better and that means increased workers' buying power. Stores see their customers coming back. Opportunity is here for those who are ready to make the best of it."

Green asserted that the course of business in the "coming four weeks will determine the prospects for next winter" and that "if we want to avoid a winter like last year's we must plan for it now by using every intelligent means of promoting business revival."

HULL'S SWITCH ON LIQUOR GIVES LEWIS A TEXT

Says Peorian Has Seen Writing on Wall.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Quotations from gospel hymns and the scriptures were strewn through three dry Egyptian counties today by James Hamilton Lewis in his arguments for repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act and a return to state control over the liquor question.

The Democratic nominee for senator opened the day by intimating in delicate phraseology that Congressman W. E. Hull of Peoria, Republican, has been plagiarizing from the Democrats, or, in other words, stealing Mr. Lewis' stuff on a state liquor plan. Mr. Lewis states that Mr. Hull, in ante-Volstead days a big shot in the so-called Peoria whisky trust, but who has voted dry in congress, has now hit the sawdust trail on the liquor issue, and he welcomed him, so to speak, as one who had read the handwriting on the wall.

He Gives Hull Greeting.

"I send an expression," said Mr. Lewis in McLeansboro, dry and Democratic, "of my appreciation of Congressman Hull's ability to know his anchor of safety in adopting the Democratic platform as his rescue and I commend to him the philosophy in the good old revival hymn—'While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return.'"

At Carmi, a dry spot in a county carried by George Brennan four years ago, Mr. Lewis took issue with Ruth Hanna McCormick.

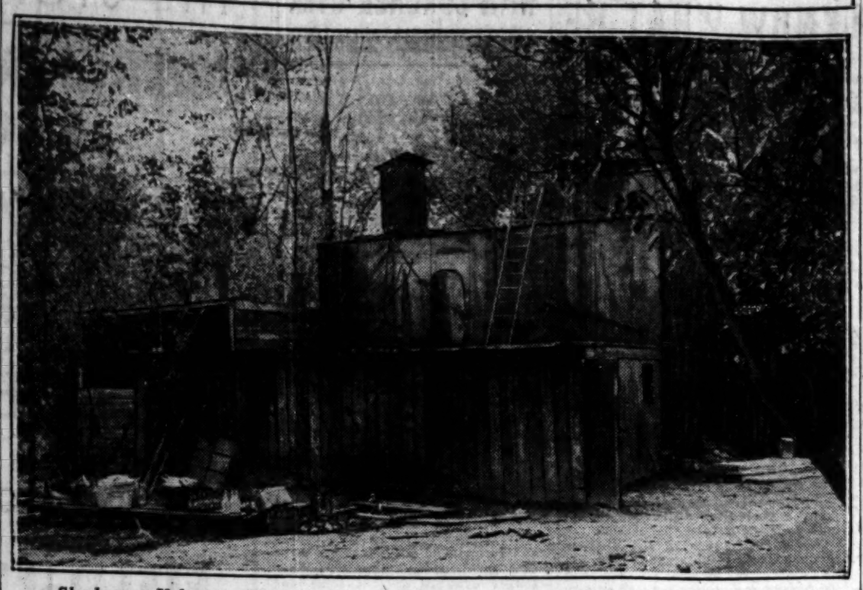

"I read with consuming interest," he said, "that the lady candidate, Mrs. McCormick, takes refuge in the retort that the prohibition question is a social question, not a political one, and, as a social one, she declines to have any political opinions, which brings to my mind, my dear fellow citizens, the colored man who slipped into a store to buy a razor, when out of his stock the anxious clerk choose a white handled weapon and said 'Now, here's a razor which for shaving purposes is the best in America.' To which the colored customer replied: 'That razzer don't suit me; I want one for social purposes.'"

Touches on Farm Relief.

In Hamilton and White counties, which were hit by the drought, farmers seemed to form the bulk of the audiences, and Mr. Lewis dwelt on farm relief.

"President Hoover," he said, "after tremendous deliberation and conferences of boards and commissions on the drought, gave the farmers relief. And what was it? They were told to return home and their bankers would give them the necessary loans provided the farmers could furnish security."

CLARK NAMED TO SUCCEED MORROW AS MEXICO ENVOY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Joshua Reuben Clark Jr. of Salt Lake City, Utah, undersecretary of state during the Coolidge administration and a veteran of the United States foreign service, was appointed ambassador to Mexico today by President Hoover. He will fill the post left vacant by the resignation of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who retires to enter the New Jersey senatorial campaign.

Announcement of the appointment of Mr. Clark has been expected for several weeks. His selection has been recommended by Ambassador Morrow. The new ambassador has spent much of his time recently in Mexico City as an adviser to Mr. Morrow. At the time of the inauguration of P. Ortiz Rubia as president of Mexico, Mr. Clark served in Mexico City as a special ambassador.

Mr. Clark is expected to come to Washington shortly for a series of conferences before returning to Mexico. Mr. Clark, a close friend of the retiring ambassador, is expected to continue the Morrow policies in Mexico which have resulted in friendly relations between the two nations.

The new ambassador was born in Grantsville, Utah, Sept. 1, 1871, is married, and has four children. He is a Republican.

CLOTHING STORE IS ROBBED.

Two armed bandits last night held up the clothing store of Isaac Smith, 4528 West Madison street, and fled with $15 and sweaters valued at $35 after locking Smith in a closet.

Slayers Unnamed

Waterloo, Ill., Oct. 3.—(AP)—A verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned by a coroner's jury here today in the double slaying yesterday of Peter McTigue, 22, and William Boody, 34, who were shot to death by machine gunners while both slept in a shack on Calico island, 15 miles west of Waterloo. Two other men were wounded. War between rival bootleg factions is believed by police to have precipitated the slayings.

FRANCE TO FIGHT GERMANY'S PLAN FOR FOREIGN LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The intention of Chancellor Bruening to seek a foreign loan to balance the German budget is viewed with considerable suspicion in official circles here, and it is possible that the French may take steps to block the projected loan.

The matter has been under investigation by the ministry of finance for several days, and was discussed this morning during a cabinet meeting. No formal statement of the government's stand has yet been issued.

It is pointed out here that the stipulations of the Young plan forbid Germany to assume any additional engagements that require a guarantee. Under the Young plan even short term loans such as is contemplated by Chancellor Bruening could only be contracted without putting up security.

CHICAGO POLICE HUNT FOR ITASCA BANK ROBBERS

Chicago police last night were on the lookout for two smartly dressed young men who yesterday invaded the Itasca State bank in Du Page county, 16 miles east of Elgin, held up two employés, and stole $4,678.75. The pair headed for Chicago.

Ray A. Franzen, assistant cashier, and Miss Emma Droegemueller, clerk, had just opened the bank when the robbers entered. Both drew revolvers and ordered the employés to throw up their hands, and "make it snappy." They next compelled Franzen and Miss Droegemueller to lie face downward on the vault floor while they busied themselves scooping money into a small cloth bag.

The entire holdup required but a few minutes. As soon as the thieves departed Franzen notified Sheriff Lawrence Hattendorf and police of half a dozen surrounding towns. The bandits, when last seen, were traveling in Irving Park boulevard toward Chicago.

California Citrus Yield Brings Growers 131 Million

Redlands, Cal., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The citrus year closing Nov. 1, will be a record one, bringing to California growers $131,000,000, it was estimated today by J. A. Steward, general sales manager of Mutual Orange distributors.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Basing her petition on a charge of intolerable cruelty, Mrs. Grace Hall Brosseau, Greenwich society woman and former national president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, today obtained a divorce from Alfred Joseph Brosseau, president of the Mack Motor Truck company.

The decree was issued by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin after a brief hearing in Superior court, and a financial settlement made by the couple outside of court dispensed with the necessity of an alimony order.

The amount of the settlement was not made public. Mrs. Brosseau, represented by Attorney Homer S. Cummings, testified that she was married Dec. 20, 1899, and lived happily with her husband until two years ago when his attitude toward her changed. All affection ceased, according to Mrs. Brosseau, and her husband made a trip abroad.

Demands Wine Cellar Key.

The only act of physical violence related by Mrs. Brousseau is alleged to have taken place on May 14, after her husband returned from Europe. On that date, the wife said, she was in the drawing room with a friend when Brosseau entered and demanded the keys to the wine cellar. Mrs. Brosseau refused to turn over the keys and declared her husband then swore at her and struck her in the face with his fist.

Mrs. Wilson Felder, Greenwich, who was Mrs. Brosseau's guest at the time, substantiated the plaintiff's story of the assault and said that she noticed a red mark on Mrs. Brosseau's face during a dinner party that evening.

Mrs. Felder also testified that she knew of the trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Brosseau and that Mrs. Brosseau had become very nervous as the result of her husband's treatment.

Guest Sees Red Mark on Face.

Mrs. Mary Plunkett, Greenwich, was Mrs. Brosseau's second witness. She declared that she noticed a red mark on Mrs. Brosseau's face during the dinner party on May 14 and observed that Mrs. Brosseau frequently put her hand to her face during the dinner. She further declared that the trouble between the couple was no fault of Mrs. Brosseau.

U. S. ASKS WRIT IN NORTH SHORE LINE DISPUTE

Seeks to Halt Issuance of All Securities.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

On orders from the attorney general of the United States, Assistant District Attorney Joseph A. Struett filed suit yesterday to enjoin the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad from the further issuance of securities without first obtaining authority from the interstate commerce commission.

The North Shore line—an Insull line—claims it is not a railroad under the federal railroad act, but is an "interurban electric railroad," which by the federal statutes has been excluded from the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. As such, it claims, it is subject to the Illinois and Wisconsin state commissions, which have both approved the $42,611,000 of securities issued.

Fight Started by Three.

The attack upon the securities of the North Shore line was initiated by E. G. Hitt, George B. Hild, and Joseph Moudry, who are the executive committee of a security holders' protective committee with headquarters at 208 West Washington street. They are said to have purchased about 2,500 shares of the North Shore stock at a price considerably higher than the stock is selling for at present. They claim that it was represented to them that the stock had the approval of the interstate commerce commission, and that they were thereby deceived.

They applied to the interstate commerce commission for a ruling in January, 1928. A hearing was held, and in February, 1929, the petition of the trio was dismissed. They had not asked for any relief, and the commission apparently saw no reason for making a decision on the matter. Hitt, Hild, and Moudry asked for a rehearing, which was denied. One of the commerce commissioners wrote a dissenting opinion, saying that the question raised was important and should be decided, in his opinion.

Request Suit Be Brought.

Accordingly the interstate commerce commission requested the attorney general to bring suit. That was the action filed yesterday.

The North Shore line issued a statement saying that the suit was apparently an aftermath of the hearings before the interstate commerce commission, and then adds: "The majority of the commission upheld the company's contention at both hearings. Apparently the issue now being raised is whether the interstate commerce commission, as well as the two state commissions, should have jurisdiction and give approval to any further securities which the company might issue."

Call Securities Invalidated.

Hitt, Hild, and Moudry also issued a statement in which they said: "Now that the interstate commerce commission has, in effect, decided that our securities are invalid we expect to take early steps to safeguard our interests, especially in view of the fact that the commission has no power to retroactively validate any securities already issued without its authority."

The bill filed not only says that the North Shore has issued $42,611,000 in securities, but has also guaranteed $1,690,000 of obligations of the Skokie Valley Realty association and $295,000 of obligations of the North Shore Material company. The suit asserts that the North Shore line is subject to the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—[Special.] — Federal prohibition enforcement methods were lambasted today by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] in a letter to Attorney General William D. Mitchell protesting against further curtailment of the use of whisky by reputable physicians. Mr. Britten asserted that "prohibition is bringing about its own destruction by intolerant prosecution and unwarranted federal regulations."

In his communication to the attorney general Mr. Britten stated that he recently had received several letters from reputable Chicago physicians objecting to any further curtailment of their present allowance of six quarts of whisky a year for office use.

Regulate Withdrawals.

"From the letters received," Mr. Britten wrote, "it would indicate your office intends in the future to regulate these withdrawals at the rate of one quart at a time, each quart being based on a specified application.

"If it is your intention to issue an order providing that physicians desiring whisky for office or surgical use shall apply for a quart each time they desire one I will very much appreciate your telling me just why an order of this kind is necessary. The federal government should not look upon the medical profession of the country as a lot of bootleggers and rum runners but, on the contrary, could accomplish much good by promoting a spirit of confidence and cooperation among the physicians and surgeons."

Denounces Hip Slapping.

Mr. Britten concluded with the assertion that hip slapping and mattress frisking had made prohibition enforcement a thing to be abhorred. He added that a number of "valuable members of congress" had been defeated in recent elections because they sought to assist the government in the "wrong way to enforce an unpopular law."

"Hip slapping, mattress frisking, private snooping and sniping, grafting officials, hair trigger detectives, the padlocking of reputable places of business for selling ginger ale and white rock with cubes of ice and the illegal search of homes and automobiles has made federal prohibition enforcement a thing to be abhorred and denounced, rather than assisted, even by those interested in sane temperance," Mr. Britten concluded.

SUBWAY MEETING

All of the subway engineers and lawyers, together with President Faherty of the board of local improvements and Ald. McDonough, chairman of the council local transportation committee, conferred for two hours yesterday in the office of Attorney Walter L. Fisher. When it was all over it was still uncertain whether Mr. Faherty will hold his public hearing on Oct. 17, as scheduled, to decide upon the subway building by special assessment.

The subway engineers are not ready for a hearing at present, and whether they will be ready by Oct. 17 is still uncertain. Faherty predicted that they will be prepared, and indicated clearly his present intention to have the hearing on the date announced.

Engineers to Meet Daily.

One tangible result of the conference was that the board of advisory engineers consented to hold daily meetings until it has decided essential questions to the completion of subway plans. They started yesterday afternoon. The only exception to that promise is that they will devote this morning to a discussion of ventilation and curbing noise in tunnel planning. This is due to the fact that the engineers are from the University of Illinois and today is a convenient time for them to come to Chicago.

To aid the engineers George A. Mason, specialist on special assessments, will daily confer with the engineers.

Physician Seized When He Fails to Pay Damages

Dr. Alex B. Magnus, 2828 Prairie avenue, was arrested yesterday on a capias for failure to pay a $10,000 verdict against him as a result of a suit brought last May by Mrs. Mary Connor, 2208 Prairie avenue. Mrs. Connor was awarded damages when she proved the physician had her arrested and held in the psychopathic hospital for a sanity hearing. She was subsequently declared sane. Dr. Magnus was released on bonds of $12,000 by Judge John Biggs in the County court.

BUSINESS BOARD O. K.'S 11 OF 14 BOND PROPOSALS

Eleven of the fourteen bond issue proposals that will be on the Nov. 4 ballot were approved yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce and recommended to the voters for adoption. A report on the merits of each proposal had been made by the association's committee on public improvements. Only two bond issues were disapproved. One other, the $2,350,000 county bond issue for a nurses' home, was not mentioned in the report.

The bond issues approved total $20,710,000 and the two issues not approved total $19,460,000. Those not approved are the state forest preserve and recreation bonds of $14,000,000 and the Ogden avenue bridge and viaduct bonds of $5,460,000. In disapproving the Ogden avenue bonds the committee's report said:

"While it cannot be argued that the improvement should not be completed, it is felt that in view of the present financial condition of the city, condition of business, and the certainty of increased taxes next year, it is necessary to limit bond issues at this time to projects most urgently required if approval of the voters is to be expected."

1 BOY, 2 GIRLS KILLED AS AUTO STRIKES TRAIN

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Earl Kirkpatrick, 19; his sister Blanche, 17, and Edna Flynn, 18, were killed and Richard Weller and George Wagner were seriously injured early today when their car crashed into a freight train on the M. and St. Louis railroad at Farmington, Ill. All are from Canton and were returning home from a dance near Trivoli. Blanche Kirkpatrick was driving the car.

Wichita, Kas., Oct. 3.—(AP)—All grade schools in Wichita were ordered closed today for a period of two weeks as the result of an outbreak of infantile paralysis.

BISHOP DOES NOT KNOW WHAT HE IS ACCUSED OF ## Still Unaware, He Says, of Nature of Charges.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. said today he was giving "careful consideration" to "the new attacks" made upon him by four ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, although he had not been informed of the specific nature of the accusations.

The 65 year old churchman said he had conferred yesterday with Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, with whom the charges were filed, but he declined to discuss the conference. Ainsworth, who left immediately for Birmingham, is understood to have decided to appoint a committee of twelve clergymen to investigate the complaints.

While the nature of the charges has not been made public, they are understood to include political and stock market activities, as well as new accusations. Dr. Forrest J. Prettyman of Baltimore, one of the accusers, has said the charges include "all that has been in the newspapers, and more."

Not Shown the Charges.

Attending today to his routine duties as chairman of the church's board of temperance and social service, Cannon reiterated that the method employed by the four ministers in bringing the charges was contrary to the church law. He said the conference with Ainsworth was "official" and that, "naturally," he would not discuss it. "Bishop Ainsworth had not brought with him a copy of the charges," and "I do not know what they are," he asserted.

Under church law, if an investigating committee is appointed, it would determine whether a trial would be warranted at the next session of the general conference in 1934. Should it decide for a trial, the bishop could be suspended until that time.

Alludes to Home Brew Ruling.

Bishop Cannon commented today on the declaration made by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock that "home made, home consumed wine and beer are immune to federal interference."

"That cannot change the law," said the bishop, "and merely indicates the policy of the government in enforcement. Col. Woodcock can merely indicate the policy of the government."

PROSECUTOR IN A ROW WITH CORONER OVER APPEL GIRL'S MURDER

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The investigation of the murder of 9 year old Marvine Appel reached a dramatic climax here today, precipitating an open break in relations between Prosecutor Harry S. Taylor and Coroner C. B. Crumpacker just as authorities learned from state prison alienists that George S. Myers, held in connection with the murder, was of unsound mind.

Irked by the coroner's insistence on conducting a separate inquiry into the Appel case, Taylor declared:

"The coroner is trying to make a joke out of the grand jury investigation of the Myers case by trying to bring in witnesses who ought to be in the insane asylum.

"As long as I am prosecutor the coroner nor any one else is going to burlesque a grand jury investigation."

When told of the prosecutor's statement, Coroner Crumpacker shot back: "Taylor's charge is a contemptible lie. I have not been called before this grand jury, nor have I recommended any witnesses to be called. And I won't recommend any witnesses for a grand jury hearing until I have stronger evidence against some one than the prosecutor has against the man on whom he is trying to hook the murder of the Appel child."

YOUNG ROBBER MAILS LOOT TO SELF; IS CAUGHT

John Arensdorf, 20 years old, publicity man for the Orpheum theater at Sioux City, Ia., was turned over to police of that city yesterday after he had confessed to obtaining $2,450 in a holdup of the theater.

Arensdorf was taken into custody by postal inspectors after he had mailed an insured package containing the money to himself at Kansas City and then remailed it to himself at Chicago.

The youth is a graduate of the Central High school at Sioux City, where he was prominent in literary and fraternal activities.

BRITAIN MAY ASK FOREIGN NATIONS TO JOIN EMPIRE

Seeks to Set Up Unit Against World.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Behind the struggle over a definite formula for the right of a member of the British commonwealth of nations to secede, which is now going on at the imperial conference here, is the greatest drama in politics that has been staged for generations.

The British government is anxious to secure a positive formula of "accession" to take the place of the "secession" formula demanded by some of the dominions, and it is believed that the government has succeeded in convincing Ireland, at least, that such a formula meets all the requirements and has other great advantages.

Plan Extension of Empire.

Behind all this, it is learned, British statesmen have envisaged a great extension of the British empire in the form of a free association of nations. Informal conversations with some foreign statesmen have already taken place. Whether anything will come of it eventually, of course, it is impossible to say; but it is a fact that the question is being seriously examined in more than one European country.

The idea, which was originated by a famous British statesman, is that, begining with an economic and customs union, some form of united political organization might be evolved which, while preserving the internal autonomy of each state, might form a unit against the rest of the world, economical, political, and financial.

The present opposition in many quarters to Aristide Briand's plan for a United States of Europe is regarded by these statesmen as due to the fact that it tried to include too many diverse elements.

The present plans envisage only a union of nations more or less akin in blood, culture, and economic development, and would be careful to preserve all native cultures and liberties.

Whether King George would be emperor of this new aggregation or whether the existing forms of political organizations would be continued has not yet been discussed. Meantime, an extensive study of economic and political situations has been undertaken by the experts of more than one nation.

Veil of Secrecy Lifted.

Following the unanimous criticism by the world press of the secrecy surrounding the imperial conference, there was a change in publicity methods today, and a real effort was made to give some information as to what is going on.

Among the questions discussed by the heads of the delegations today was the machinery of communication between the states of the empire and the foreign office. It was explained that at the 1926 conference it was agreed that when any one in the empire opened negotiations through its own representatives with a foreign country it should keep all fellow members of the commonwealth informed, and should not sign anything involving any other member without such member's consent. When it is necessary to use British ambassadors or ministers, as in cases where the dominions are not directly represented, the envoy should be instructed through London, and not directly by the nation he is representing. The general working of this plan during the last four years was discussed and certain amendments were referred to the legal and constitutional committee.

The question of commonwealth defense has resulted in a suggestion for a commonwealth army and navy.

At present Great Britain bears most of the burden of defense. This is felt to be unfair, but if the dominions share the expense they insist they must share in the control, and this implies the setting up of some sort of an empire organization to control the defense forces. The whole question is in the air at present, but is being seriously discussed.

KING AND QUEEN GIVE DAZZLING BANQUET FOR EMPIRE CHIEFS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—It was a brilliant scene in Buckingham palace tonight when King George and Queen Mary were hosts at an empire dinner party to the dominion premiers and other ministers and statesmen taking part in the imperial conference.

The 120 guests included Prime Minister MacDonald and the heads of the Australian, Canadian, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Indian, South African, and Irish Free State delegations, British cabinet ministers, and navy, army, and air force chiefs. Many were accompanied by their wives.

The dinner was served in the great ballroom, with masses of golden chrysanthemums as the chief table decorations. The historic gold plate was used. There were no speeches and a semi-state dress of black evening coat with black silk breeches and stockings were worn by the king and the male guests.

Queen Mary was resplendent in a gown of sapphire blue and silver paillette crossed by a blue riband or garter and wearing a magnificent collection of jewels, including the famous Kohinoor diamond.

Believe Wreckage Is Not Part of Skelton's Plane

Friends of Ralph Fisher Skelton, Chicago artist and flyer, who disappeared on a flight from Detroit to Chicago early in the summer, yesterday viewed a piece of wreckage washed ashore at Buffington, Ind., but expressed the opinion that the wreckage was not part of the missing pilot's plane. At first it was thought that the small piece of wood was part of the rudder of Skelton's yellow Waco biplane, but Melvin E. Swanson of 675 North Michigan avenue, a friend of Skelton, said it was heavier than that ordinarily used in airplane construction.

ITALIANS FORCE 80,000 ARABS TO ABANDON HOMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 3.—What is described as the greatest forced transmigration of peoples of modern times has been effected by the Italian military authorities in Lybia under Gen. Graziani. According to an announcement today, the whole native population of the Jebel district of Cyrenaica was moved, with their herds, flocks and all possessions, from the interior and concentrated in a patroled area along the coast.

Eighty thousand people, who had been among the most rebellious tribesmen with whom Italy has had to deal in her Lybian warfare, together with 600,000 animals, were involved in the migration, according to the war department.

Stop Guerrilla Warfare.

The action is considered here to be a brilliant innovation in colonial conquests. Previously tribesmen in the interior when defeated by the Italians would scatter and retreat into the desert, then reassemble and attack again, so that warfare seemed continuous. From now on most of the rebels will be inclosed within a sanitary cordon controlled by Italian troops along the coast, in which area they will no longer be able to attack.

The Italians also hope by this move to starve out the revel Omar el Mustar tribe, whose custom it was when hard pressed to descend on the Jebel district and take a tenth of cattle, goods, and arms as tribute in order to carry on their war. Italy now plans to attack Omar in his mountainous stronghold with Fascist militia and tanks.

Escorted by Italian troops and carrying on their own camels their tents, goods, and tools, and driving their flocks, the Jebel tribesmen and their families were marched in a long caravan over hundreds of miles of sandy waste to the coast in a fertile district, where they will be able to pasture their herds and plant crops under the surveillance of military authorities. Wells had been dug along the way in preparation for the trek.

Change Rifle Calibers.

All the tribes have been disarmed and the Italian troops have been supplied with a new caliber of rifle and ammuntion so that ammunition which falls into the hands of the rebels cannot be used. They are armed with the old pattern.

In preparation for this winter's campaign when Italy intends to clear Lybia as far south as the tentative frontiers shown on most maps, certain changes have been made in regiments Cyrenaican troops, who it was feared were in sympathy with the rebels, have been disbanded and regiments from Eritrea, the Italian Red sea colony, brought in.

RENTING AGENT IS ROBBED.

INDICT WOMAN ATTORNEY AND 2 EX-BANKERS

Attorney Mary Belle Spencer was named in an indictment yesterday along with Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, president of the defunct Exchange State bank, and Lee A. King, former vice president of the bank. They are charged with conspiracy to obtain funds of the bank by overmortgaging a piece of property near Steger. Mrs. Spencer's case was first no-billed, but the grand jury yesterday reconsidered and voted an indictment.

It is charged that Mrs. Spencer purchased a piece of property for $5,520, then executed a trust deed on the property and also a note and gave it to the bank as security for a $12,000 mortgage. According to the charges, the defendants pocketed the difference between the sum paid for the property and the amount of the mortgage.

The grand jury also voted additional indictments against Luckenbill and King and named as another defendant Earl D. Phillips, a clerk in a brokerage office.

7 TAMMANYITES READY TO TALK; OFFER SPURNED

Consent to Testify Only on Official Acts.

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The Tammany district leaders who hold office under Mayor James J. Walker offered to meet the extraordinary grand jury half way this afternoon, but Special Prosecutor Hiram Todd told them that half way was not far enough.

Seven of the leaders who previously had refused to sign waivers of immunity offered, in letters that were similar, to testify freely on "their acts and conduct as office holders in the city administration."

In doing so they seized upon the loophole which Gov. Roosevelt's letter to Mayor Walker contained, and complied with the terms of the mayor's ultimatum.

Inquiry at Standstill.

The acquiescence of the district leaders—with reservations—found Mr. Todd unresponsive and left the grand jury investigation into office buying charges just where it was—still waiting an answer from the governor on its request that broader powers be given to Attorney General Hamilton Ward.

Mr. Todd spurned the offer of incomplete surrender in behalf of the grand jury, to whose foreman, Robert Morris, the district leaders addressed their letters. The special prosecutor announced that the grand jury could not accept a waiver that was not as broad as the powers of the grand jury, and added that under the present designation by the governor the grand jury had no jurisdiction over the official conduct of city jobholders, but was confined to an inquiry into the Ewald-Healy case and possible violations of the elective franchise law.

Todd Issues Statement.

When he made known his unwillingness to accept the truce offered by the Tammany office holders on their terms Mr. Todd issued a statement explaining his position. Later he summed it all up as follows:

"It is significant that the district leaders are not willing to waive so that they may be examined about the buying and selling of judgeships. They offer only to answer those questions which the attorney general cannot ask because of the limited authority granted him by the governor."

Mayor Expresses Regret.

Mayor Walker, upon learning of Mr. Todd's attitude, expressed regret, but intimated he had gone as far as he would or could. If there is anything wrong, the mayor said, with the conduct of his appointive officials he was "anxious to know about it." On the other hand, he added:

"If the inquiry is into the domestic affairs of city officials that is different."

Meanwhile John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, who set the precedent of denfying the grand jury which Gov. Roosevelt convened, declared he had not made up his mind whether to stick to his original position as announced when he stormed out of the grand jury room declaring he had been "insulted," or offer to waive immunity and testify. Not holding any official position he is not amenable to the mayor's edict, but neither would he be able to confine his waiver to "official acts."

ALCOCK ORDERS RUM SALES NEAR SCHOOLS ENDED

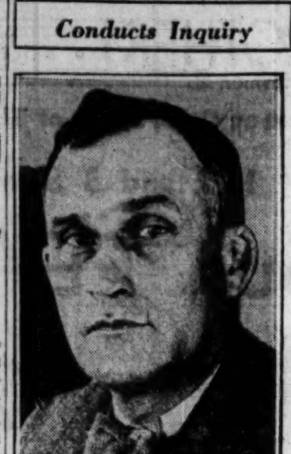

Police captains were ordered by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday to drive out speakeasies from the vicinity of schools and were warned that any future complaints will result in placing charges against them before the police trial board.

Commissioner Alcock said that if reports are true that gangsters are collecting a fund of $1,000,000 to effect his removal as acting commissioner it is an indication that the work of ridding Chicago of gangsters is succeeding.

KELLEY TO SELL HIS OIL CHARGES TO A NEWSPAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Ralph S. Kelley, former chief of the field division of the general land office at Denver, today surprised department of justice officials by declining to furnish them with the details of his widely published allegations that the interior department was guilty of misfeasance in its administration of the western Colorado oil shale reserve.

Replying to a letter sent by Seth W. Richardson, assistant attorney general in charge of the oil shale investigation ordered by Attorney General Mitchell, Mr. Kelley stated that he felt the department of justice had prejudged his case and therefore could not afford him an impartial hearing. He added that he had made arrangements to present the principal facts of his charges in connection with the administration of the 40 billion dollar oil reserve to the public through other channels.

Sells Story to Newspaper.

Shortly after receiving the Kelley letter, Mr. Richardson issued a statement disclosing that Mr. Kelley had arranged to sell his story to a New York newspaper. Mr. Richardson added, however, that he would continue regardless of whether the aid of Kelley was forthcoming.

Mr. Kelley conferred during the day with Senator G. P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the senate public lands committee. Later the senator said he felt Kelley was "quite justified" in making his charges, but expressed regret that Mr. Kelley did not take his charges to the department of justice. Nye expressed willingness to introduce a resolution empowering his committee to go into the Kelley charges in case the department of justice did not act.

Wilbur Not Involved.

"I cannot help but be impressed by the spirit moving Mr. Kelley," said Senator Nye. "I think he is entitled to a hearing. His charges do not go to the door of Secretary Wilbur. There is a door to which his objections lead and this door should be opened."

The department of justice issued this statement:

"From the time this inquiry was undertaken by the department of justice until the receipt of Kelley's letter today, the assistant attorney general in charge has made every effort by one means and another to get into communication with Kelley and obtain from him a specific statement, but without success."

Fire Forces Removal of 50 Patients in Hospital

Fire which attacked an adjoining apartment building, necessitated the removal of fifty patients in the Rogers Park hospital early yesterday. The blaze started in the rear of the building at 6972-74 North Clark street and for a while threatened the hospital to the south. The hospital was not damaged beyond a slight scorching of the wall. Damage of $15,000 was caused to the apartment building.

ELMER HUCKINS OF "26%" FAME IS FOUND GUILTY

New Trial to Be Sought; Son Convicted Earlier.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Elmer S. Huckins of Hancock, Wis., was convicted by a District court jury this afternoon a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Defense attorneys immediately filed a motion for a new trial, and Judge John T. Moffit set Oct. 16 as the date for hearing arguments.

Huckins is alleged to have been involved with his son, George E. Huckins of Cedar Rapids in an enterprise which for a while paid investors 26 and 52 per cent dividends. George Huckins, convicted on a similar charge, has an appeal before the Iowa Supreme court.

Jury Out Five Hours.

The jury deliberated about five hours, having received its instructions at 11:40 a. m.

Elmer Hucking, who had looked at the jury box during most of the trial, covered his face when the verdict was read. He appeared nervous, as he did during the closing arguments this morning.

The crime carries a maximum sentence of seven years imprisonment.

The state based its case on a complaint by Elwood Royster of Cedar Rapids that Huckins persuaded him to invest money in an enterprise which Huckins said was the sale of defective cigars in wholesale lots.

Witnesses were introduced to show that the Huckinses operated no such business. Claude Manly, Milwaukee Journal reporter, testified Elmer Huckins told him he was not in the cigar business.

Defense Without Witnesses.

The defense placed no witnesses on the stand and prosecutors called attention to the failure of the defendant himself to testify. Hucking could have cleared himself in 10 minutes King Thompson, assistant district attorney, told the jury, had his enterprise been within the law.

AGREE TO START UNIFICATION OF TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Officials of the city, the south parks and Lincoln park, at a meeting yesterday called by the Chicago Motor club, agreed to proceed at once to lay a cable under the Chicago river to connect the Michigan avenue traffic lights in the jurisdictions of the city, the south parks, and Lincoln park. They also appointed a committee of traffic engineers, with George Donoghue, superintendent of south parks as chairman, to develop the details of a plan to inaugurate a "progressive" control system to replace the present synchronous timing and to reroute left turns so as to provide an additional lane for traffic.

OUTLINES RULES FOR FIRING TO PREVENT SMOKE

Chambers Seeks to Keep City Clear in Winter.

In an effort to prevent the increase in the amount of smoke over Chicago with the arrival of cold weather, Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, yesterday issued instructions to householders for starting their heating plants.

"Smoke is the result of incomplete combustion, due to poor equipment, improper fuel or careless operation," said Mr. Chambers. "Every home chimney or apartment building stack that belches clouds of smoke to besmirch the neighborhood tells of incompetence on the part of the fireman below."

Tells How to Fire Furnaces.

Measures to be taken now to reduce smoke and soot and increase the heating efficiency of furnaces, as outlined by Mr. Chambers, are:

1. See that the ashpit, grates, tubes and all gas passages, including the smoke pipe connecting the boiler and chimney, are clean. A clean boiler takes less coal and steams faster.

2. Clean out the chimney. This will improve the draft as well as prevent smoke from backing out of the boiler into the basement.

3. Examine the smoke pipe or breeching thoroughly for leaks, and if it is rusted badly or leaking repair it or replace it with a new part. Defective flues often cause fire.

Cause Loss of Heat.

4. Examine the grates and see if any sections are burned out. See that the grates shake properly and return to a level position. Burned out grates cause holes in the fire, resulting in loss of heat and fuel.

5. Adjust the damper so that it opens full and closes properly.

6. Fill all cracks with fireproof or stove putty to prevent air leakage. Air leakage causes the fire to draw poorly and increases fuel consumption.

Selection of the proper kind of fuel for the equipment will, in most cases, save money and will go a long way to minimize smoke, Mr. Chambers asserted. Smokeless fuel for small furnaces can be had at reasonable cost, he said.

BRITAIN STIRRED AS CHINA BANDITS SHOOT 2 WOMEN

Missionaries Slain While Ransom Was on Way.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—All England was deeply stirred today by the laconic message from Foochow, China, announcing that two English women missionaries had been shot by bandits who had held them captive since last June. The two women, missionaries for the Church Missionary society of London, are Miss Edith Nettleton of Halifax, Yorkshire, and Miss Eleanor June Harrison of Kidderminster, Worcestershire.

Their tragic end was reported very briefly. The message said:

"Nettleton and Harrison shot. Consul and Sills returning Foochow."

Held for Ransom.

The two women were captured by the bandits last June as they were proceeding down the river under the orders of British Consul A. J. Martin from their station at Chungan, northwest Fukien province, to Foochow, owing to the disturbed condition of the country. Bandits boarded the river steamer they were on and held them for ransom.

Mr. Martin and the Rev. Alfred Sills made a heroic journey to the bandits' lair to negotiate the release of the two women. The bandits at first demanded $100,000 for their return and later reduced their demands to $10,000. They heard of the deaths of the two women before reaching their destination.

Miss Nettleton had been in China since 1908, and Miss Harrison, who was 62, began her work there as a missionary in 1896. She had retired and come home three years ago but last year on the death of her mother volunteered for further service.

Simpson Near Death.

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Bertram Lenox Simpson, the British born Tientsin customs collector who was shot in the spine by a group of Chinese gunmen Wednesday, was reported failing rapidly tonight.

His temperature was rising, his speech was incoherent, and friends feared there was little hope to save him. Two Peiping specialists who conferred with local physicians agreed that an operation would be impossible in view of Lenox Simpson's weakened condition.

Mr. Simpson, who was customs commissioner under the rebel general, Yen Hsi-shan, was replaced today by the former deputy commissioner under the Nanking régime, R. C. Grierson. The change was made by Manchurian authorities, who recently took over Tientsin as the northerners retired.

FARM BOY'S TRY AT BANK HOLDUP ENDS IN SUICIDE

Rodney, Ia., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Foiled in an attempt to rob the Rodney Savings bank, Charles Montross, 22, committed suicide this afternoon.

Previously he had been wounded in the left arm in a gun battle with W. L. Swanson, assistant cashier, and Mayor G. E. Myers, who was conferring with Cashier W. M. McDonald when the youth entered.

A posse of vigilantes was preparing to close in on him when he drove his car into his father's barn yard, fled into a corn crib and shot himself in the temple dying 30 minutes later. His father, Fred Montross, saw the shooting.

Montross, who lived with his parents near Hornick, 10 miles west of here, entered the bank with a handkerchief pulled over his face. He ordered Swanson to "reach for the ceiling," but the assistant cashier, stalling for time, inquired: "What did you say?"

As the youth repeated the command, Swanson whipped a pistol from beneath the counter and fired, wounding Montross.

Montross ran for the door, firing as he fled, and leaped into his car. Swanson and Myers emptied their weapons at the speeding automobile.

A posse formed quickly and two cars filled with armed men trailed the youth's automobile. The vigilantes had nearly caught up with him when he drove into his father's farm home.

"I've robbed a bank," the youth shouted to his father as he jumped from the car. "The law is after me," and as he dashed for the corn crib he fired a bullet into his temple as his father reached the door. As he lay dying he was questioned by Dr. A. L. Allison, Monona county coroner, who said he was unable to get an explanation from the youth.

QUASH RUMORS OF WET-DRY ROW AT LEGION RALLY

Politics Barred, Says Judge Advocate.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Current reports that prohibition would be an issue before the annual convention of the American Legion here next week were checked today by Scott W. Lucas, national judge advocate, who declared prohibition to be a "closed book" as far as the business of the legion was concerned.

In a prepared statement Lucas said: "There prevails an erroneous idea as to the part the American Legion, as a national organization, plays in practical politics.

"Frequently the question is asked as to what the position of the American Legion will be upon certain partisan issues or candidates.

Politics Is Taboo.

"Of course the answer is obvious—absolutely nothing. The clause in the national constitution of the American Legion sets forth in no uncertain tones our standard upon practical politics as it exists in America today."

The clause referred to says the legion "shall be absolutely nonpolitical and shall not be used for the dissemination of partisan principles nor for the promotion of the candidacy of any person seeking public office or preferment."

Legionnaires flocked into Boston today. Campaigns were already under way, with Los Angeles starting its boom to take the 1931 convention to the west coast.

Two of that city's delegates called attention to the fact that Los Angeles was in town by serenading Mayor James M. Curley with six-shooters on the city hall plaza.

MENAGERIE IN TOWN

Desert frogs, horned toads, monkey faced owls, Gila monsters, rattlers and ring tailed cats, Arizona's contribution to the American Legion's national convention which will open on Monday in Boston, arrived in the La Salle street station yesterday morning on the Golden State Limited.

Other delegations of Legionnaires arrived throughout the day from the west, bound for the convention. The Kansas special came in over the Santa Fé line. Included in the Kansas delegation were Frank Hauke, Republican candidate for governor, and Harry Woodring, Democratic candidate for governor.

Three carloads of Legionnaires from South Dakota arrived in the North Western station at 6:20 a. m. The Corn King Limited brought in twelve Wyoming veterans. The Portland Limited at 8:45 a. m. brought in 75 delegates from Oregon, Idaho, and Utah. Eighty delegates from the Memphis post arrived in the Illinois Central station at 6:45 o'clock last night, accompanied by a drum and bugle corps.

Chicago Groups Depart Today.

Two hundred and twenty Legionnaires from Chicago and Cook county, headed by State Commander A. G. Voorman and Cook County Commander Joseph Novotny, will leave Chicago at 1 o'clock this afternoon from the Polk street station. They will go to Boston by way of Canada, with stops in Montreal and Quebec. They will be accompanied by the drum and bugle corps of the Commonwealth Edison post.

FORECAST RISE OF $100,000,000 IN TAX VALUES

First 1929 Books Are Closed.

An increase of approximately $100,000,000 in the assessed valuation of Cook county real estate for 1929 taxes over the 1928 reassessment figure was forecast yesterday by Charles Krutckoff, chairman of the board of assessors. This announcement was made as the assessors closed the first 1929 assessment books.

Assessment books for the townships of Rogers Park, North Town and Lake View were closed and will be delivered soon to the board of review. Chairman Krutckoff said the increase is largely due to corrections on valuations of large apartment buildings which were not properly assessed for 1928 through errors. Addition of new buildings is also responsible for the rise in valuations.

Figures for Three Towns.

| | 1928 Board of Review. | 1929 Board of Assessors. |
|---|---|---|

The increase in these three townships is $25,652,584, or approximately 4.4 per cent over the final 1928 figures of the board of review. The total assessed valuation of real estate in the county in 1928 was $3,336,174,128. On a 4.4 per cent basis the total increase would then be nearly $150,000,000.

Assessments on many small home properties have been reduced in the refining process under which the reassessment is now going on, Mr. Krutckoff said. Since only the property owners whose valuations have been increased in 1929 have been notified, he said, many taxpayers will be surprised to find their 1929 tax bills are lower.

At yesterday's meeting the assessors added to the books about $1,000,000 in valuations on industrial, manufacturing, and apartment building properties and at the same time deducted more than $200,000 on small home properties. The changes comprised 1,200 parcels of property which had been incorrectly assessed in 1928.

Conroy Sticks to Stand.

Assessor John Conroy again continued his stand of voting against any increases whatever. He engaged in another argument with Charles Ringer, secretary of the board, and declared he had not been notified of the meeting.

The presence of Gene Oliver, member of the board who has been absent since his difficulty with the federal government over his income tax, made it possible for the board to function for the first time in two weeks.

H. Roy Berry Fails to Win Cut in Alimony

H. Roy Berry, wealthy real estate broker, yesterday lost his court fight to obtain a reduction in the $500 a month alimony payments to his former wife, Mrs. Frances Berry, 200 East Chestnut street. Berry contended the business depression had reduced his monthly income from $2,000 to $600 and that he expected business conditions would become still worse in the future. A master in chancery's report ruled that Berry had perjured himself in quoting his salary.

HOW TO INVEST? INSURANCE RULES SERVE AS GUIDE

Report to Convention Is on Safe Securities.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A guide to investments was presented to the American Life convention at its closing session yesterday at the Stevens hotel. A committee of seven members had been at work a year on it, and while it is primarily for the benefit of insurance companies the general public may find much meat in the report. A few excerps, which follow, serve to show the trend of the advice:

"Federal, state, and municipal bonds are the aristocrats of the investment field, but the 'blue blood' gets a bit thin in the less desirable individuals of the last group.

Some Communities Corrupt.

"Municipalities are often extravagant and are sometimes corrupt. Communities may be shiftless, or may be indifferent to either legal or moral obligations. The racial stocks, temperament, antecedents and religions of the citizens of a city, the stability of its industries, its location and surroundings, and its record of performance of its legal and moral obligations and for sound business management are all worthy of careful consideration in the purchase of its securities. The credit rating of a municipality is reflected in the price at which its securities sell and in the income yield therefrom.

"Real estate bonds are usually a method of financing building or construction operations. The issues are generally large, the appraisements of land and structures are often theoretical, and estimated or actual gross and net incomes and probable depreciation are vital but sometimes uncertain factors. The transaction is frequently part of a promotion plan. The business and credit standing of the makers and of the vendor bond houses may be large factors of safety and important influences in the market value of the bonds.

Hazard in Industrial Bonds.

"Industrial bonds usually involve the hazards of trade. Values often depend upon management, competitive conditions and industrial trends. Few industrial bonds are of the stable character suitable for the investment of the legal reserve funds of life insurance companies, but real estate bonds may be proper if acquired with the same conservative appraisements and safeguards used on other mortgage loans.

"The life insurance companies have for many years taken a substantial portion of the farm mortgages available. Farms have proven excellent security where the loans were carefully made and the security properly rated. Farms will continue to be good security when properly selected and when care is given to the factors vital in good loans.

"At this time most farmers are reasonably prosperous, in spite of the great difficulties which they have encountered for the last ten years, and are demonstrating that the farming industry is able to weather economic disturbances.

City Loans Desirable.

"In city loans it is fairly conceded that moderate priced properties, well selected as to location, quality, and character of the borrower, are most desirable for life insurance company investments.

"Railroad bonds which are best for the purpose of a life insurance company are those of an established and well managed railroad with a good dividend record, and are those which are secured by a first mortgage on its main or key lines. Railroad securities should show greater stability in the future than they have in the past.

Utility Bonds Stable.

"Public utilities are much more stable than the average industrial enterprise, for while there are fixed sale prices and varying levels of operating costs, yet ruinous competition is seldom present and volume production can reduce charges and increase profits. There has been much overcapitalization, but with supervision of security issues this danger is being gradually lessened."

That the last quarter of 1930 will bring better business in all fields was the prediction of Col. Charles Burton Robbins of Cedar Rapids, Ia., after he was elected president of the convention.

"There is abundant evidence that the low mark of the country's business depression has been reached," Col. Robbins declared. "The steady climb upward to normal times seems now to be a certainty, with a noticeable improvement in business before the holidays."

Chipmunk and Sea Adventure in These Books

Chicagoan Is Author of Animal Story.

"Squiggles," by Dorothy Aldis (Minton Balch).

"Spice and the Devil's Cave," by Agnes Danforth Hewes (Knopf).

For the younger children there is a new book by Dorothy Aldis. It is called "Squiggles," or "The Little Red Cape," and is the story of the strange adventures which befell a chipmunk family. It all began when little Emmy met brother chipmunk one day on her way home from school. It was raining and he seemed to be so little and shivery that Emmy, out of the goodness of her heart, wrapped him all up in Gloria's (Gloria was her doll) brand new Red Riding Hood cape.

DOROTHY ALDIS.

That was the beginning of a whole series of adventures for the whole chipmunk family as well as for Emmy, and Gloria, and Patsy, her dog.

It is a humanized animal story and little children who like this type of story will find much fun in it. Mrs. Aldis, who is a Chicago woman, will be remembered as the author of those delightful books of poetry for children, "Anything and Everything," and "Here, There, and Everywhere."

"Spice and the Devil's Cave" presents, to my way of thinking, an ideal answer to the question as to what to give to the boy or girl of the 14-16 year group on whom the ordinary adventure and mystery stories have begun to pall. To such young people I recommend unreservedly "Spice and the Devil's Cave." I am confident they will not be disappointed. In summary, it is the story of Europe's seeking for the "way of the spices," and of the bitter struggle between Portugal and Venice for the all sea route to India. It is historical fiction, but so successfully has the author brought to us the spirit of the times, so vividly has she shown us the eventual happenings, and so genuine are her people, that one is likely to forget that centuries have elapsed since the fleet of Vasco da Gama sailed into Lisbon harbor on its return from the east.

In the little workshop group of enthusiasts, around whom the story is written, we find Abel Zakuto, the Jew; Ferdinand Magellan, the boy; Bartholomew Diaz and Vasco da Gama, and into their midst one stormy evening is literally blown a young Arab girl.

From the hour of her coming the fate of the little group is changed. There is a love story which young people will like and plenty of adventure and action, but there is also something more than that, for we finish it with a feeling of the bigness of human nature, despite its frailties, and with a sense of the values of life which are intrinsic.

One of the year's best books, and not to be overlooked by any one who appreciates fine writing.

Village Life, Love and Hate in These Novels

One Is of Old, Other of New England.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Mirthful Haven," by Booth Tarkington [Doubleday Doran].

"Shepherds in Sackcloth," by Sheila Kaye-Smith [Harpers].

There is something strangely akin about these two novels, "Mirthful Haven" and "Shepherds in Sackcloth," despite the fact that they are about widely separated locales and their spiritual geography would seem remote one from the other. What they have in common is a deep and almost psychic understanding, on the part of their authors, of local traditions and local psychologies.

SHEILA KAYE-SMITH.

BOOTH TARKINGTON.

"Mirthful Haven" is the story of a village in Maine where the "natives" and the summer people have a passionate enmity one for the other, and the inevitable romance between a girl of one group and a boy of another.

"Shepherds in Sackcloth" is the story of a village in Sussex, where the natives and the gentry have a passionate psychological enmity manifesting itself as respect on the one hand and tolerance on the other, and the inevitable romance between a girl of one group and a boy of another.

In "Shepherds in Sackcloth" the important characters in the book are not the girl and the boy, but a rector of the established church and his wholly charming wife who suffer the buffetings of both sides. But the struggle is something of the same in both the novels. In both of them there is a real sense of locality.

The tragedy of "Mirthful Haven" never could have happened in just that same fashion anywhere but in just such a spot, and nowhere but in a tight little English village could the peculiarly bitter cruelty of man to man have taken just such a form. One is typically American, the other typically British, both matter and manner, but they have a strange oneness.

Booth Tarkington in "Mirthful Haven" has not done another masterpiece. He has the outlines of another "Alice Adams," but his Edna Pelter never will live imperishably in memory as Alice Adams does. Her struggle perhaps was more cruel, but her author has not been able to tear your heart to shreds with it the way he did with the comic-tragic yearnings of Alice Adams. He has done an excellent picture of the silent native of the Maine coast, with, as usual, a good deal of humor. He has made the heroine a touching and romantic figure, but the fire of his greatest work is not in "Mirthful Haven."

Sheila Kaye-Smith has also not done her best work in "Shepherds in Sackcloth." There is something majestic about "Joanna Godden" for instance, which just isn't in this book. Like the lack in Booth Tarkington's, it is difficult to explain. It is obviously an absence of greatness, however. Both of the books are excellent novels, and from the pens of young writers for instance would be exciting in their implications of possible future greatness, but from two of the best novelists writing in English, who have got beyond the point of being "promising"—who have, perhaps, spoiled us by greatness—they are disappointing. Their disappointment is relative to their authors' previous near-perfection, however, and not to the general run of novels nowadays. They leave behind most of the current contestants.

ELMER RICE TAKES CRACK AT MOVIES IN HIS NEW BOOK

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Elmer Rice, the author of "Street Scene," is in London attending the rehearsals of that piece prior to its production here. To synchronize with the production, his satire upon filmland is to be published by Victor Gollancz within the next few days.

ELMER RICE.

This book, "A Voyage to Purilia," was published in the United States earlier in the year; but it will come quite new to English readers, who have hitherto known very little of Mr. Rice's work.

Shortly afterwards the same publisher is to give us Miss Helen Ashton's new novel, "Mackerel Sky," of which as yet I have no particulars. Readers who have marveled over the description of the operation in Miss Ashton's "Doctor Serocold," at the same time wondering how the author possessed herself of the knowledge needed for so ticklish a task, will be interested to know that Miss Ashton has been a doctor and knows exactly what she is talking about.

Lady [Roderick] Jones, who is known to all the world as Miss Enid Bagnold, the author of "Serena Blandish" has just published a book for children, to which she and her eldest daughter, who is not particularly old, have contributed the illustrations. By a coincidence, Lady Jones gave birth to another daughter on the day her book was published.

John Drinkwater is doing what I have always wished that some writer of talent would do. He is writing a book about Samuel Pepys. It will be published early in October. As Mr. Drinkwater has been living for the last few years in the cottage at Brampton, near Huntingdon, which was the home of the Pepys family [it is the property of Lord Sandwich, who, besides being the friend of Mr. Drinkwater and other authors, is a descendant of that Lord Sandwich who was Pepys' patron], he should have received plenty of inspiration from his surroundings.

Edmund Blunden, who has collected his poems for publication in a definitive edition this year, has also contributed an introduction to a new omnibus volume of "Great Short Stories of the War." The omnibus volume is now so popular in England that examples crop up on every hand. One publisher is even offering four recent novels—each by a different author—in one book under the title "Famous Novels of Today."

'AE.,' Farmer, Painter, Writer, Talks at Tea

Mentioning Peasant Culture of Ireland.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.—"Æ.," known to all who read the poetry of Ireland, to all who read the memoirs of George Moore and William Butler Yeats, to all who are interested in farm economics, is making his second visit to the United States. The Forum magazine offices on Thursday were devoted to a tea party in his honor.

GEORGE RUSSELL. [Drawn by M. O. Donohue.]

Wending our way thither we promised ourselves to learn how come George Russell had given fame to such alien initials.

On meeting this man of "impassioned versatility," this poet, painter, mystic and practical farmer, we forgot our gossipy questions; for he was telling of a peasant who had described to him a visit to an enchanted city, and expressing his gratitude for the divinities and religion of the peasants of the early days "when culture was purely a matter of imagination."

Mr. Russell's voice, light yet warm, makes music of Gaelic names and even in desultory conversation has a rhythm. His physical appearance is one of contradictions. He is a big man, now a few years past sixty, yet not a tall man. He has the great head and neck of a Hercules; the brown tousled hair of the "Playboy of the Western World," the mustache and long gray curling beard of a biblical prophet. His face is plump, well tanned by the sun. Blue gray eyes, peering through old fashioned gold rimmed spectacles, are both kindly and impersonal, the unegotistical eyes of a seer.

One can well believe, as Yeats wrote of him in his youth, that "he saw visions continually, perhaps more continually than any modern man since Swedenborg."

Among the celebrities at the Forum reception were Ford Maddox Ford, George Jean Nathan, Will Durant, Robert Underwood Johnson, William Rose Benet, Ernest Boyd, Malcolm Cowley, Hewitt Howland, not forgetting our host, Henry Goddard Leach.

Ellen Glasgow flitted through town this week without giving any one a glimpse of her. But over the tea cups in the Chatham lounge on Friday we at last met up with Margaret Culkin Banning, author of many novels and more short stories, who is on from Duluth "to put the children to school."

It Was Sherlock Holmes Who Found Author Doyle

"The Complete Sherlock Holmes" [Doubleday-Doran] shelters between the covers of two volumes all of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's detective stories. There are nine full length books gathered there. As you may have forgotten, Conan Doyle created Sherlock Holmes when he (Doyle) was a young doctor bored with waiting for patients to discover his shining new shingle. He never really had much of a fondness for the famous detective; boldly killed him off once, but the admirers of the world's greatest snooper were so numerous and so passionate that his author had to resurrect him.

Meetings and Lectures

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Maurice Colbourne of the Theater guild will talk about Bernard Shaw in the book section of Marshall Field & Co.

"Years of Grace," by Margaret Ayer Barnes, will be discussed at the meeting of the Bookfellows this evening at 6 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street.

The Friends of American Writers are sponsoring a literary tea at the home of Mrs. Robert Malcolm, 3328 Washington boulevard, on Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., at which time "Years of Grace," by Margaret Ayer Barnes, will be reviewed.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at the meeting of the Chicago Library club at 1002 North Dearborn street, Howard Vincent O'Brien will lecture on "Books, Authors, and Broadcasting."

Explored with Roosevelts, Tells of River of Doubt

"Dark Trails," by George K. Cherrie [Putnams], is the autobiography of a man who has spent forty years wandering about the world as an explorer, a guide and a naturalist. He was with Theodore Roosevelt on the famous trip down the River of Doubt (and he tells of that trip at length). He also accompanied the younger Roosevelts in their successful search for the ovis poli which now resides in the Field museum.

Most of Mr. Cherrie's years were spent in the wilds of South America, and he writes not only of the places but of the peoples whom he has come to know more intimately than most explorers.

There is a chapter on "Narrow Escapes from Death" which has a thrill a minute, but the author apparently never felt them—they were just routine business.

"Civic Training in Switzerland," by Robert C. Brooks [University of Chicago Press], contains much helpful example about how good citizens are made. The author says "Americans prefer to take their politics as they once took their liquor—straight—with periods of recuperation between quadrennial sprees." That gives the reader a taste of his style.

Perhaps Alexander Pope Did Write These Observations

"Characters and Observations" [Stokes] came into being this way: An old leather bound book of manuscript, full of maxims and reflections which are delightful and sharp and penetrating, was found in 1919 by an English dealer hidden away in a piece of old furniture which he had picked up around Twickenham.

On the title page there were the words "A Pope. Twikeam." For ten years the finder hoarded the document, and then he shared it with the world. And here it is.

Whether it is a veritable Pope item or not has not been decided by experts, but facsimiles of an authenticated letter in his handwriting and of a page of the manuscript are given and the reader can make his own conclusions. Anyway, the book has wit and wisdom and the real flavor of the 18th century.

About Old Frontier.

"Indians and Pioneers," by Grant Foreman [Yale], tells all sorts of fascinating things about the early days in the southwest before the removal act of 1830 and when there were clashes as well as friendships between the natives and the white pioneers.

THE PRESIDENT'S SANE COUNSEL.

The President's first important pronouncement since the beginning of the present depression in the spectacular collapse of the stock market last fall will not disappoint those who have looked to him for wise guidance in our present difficulties. There is no help for us from an artificial optimism pumped up in the interest of prompt recovery, and this is not the sort of optimism to which the President invites us. What he asks is what we need and may have, an intelligent grasp of the fundamentals of the strength, unequaled in the world today and perhaps in the world at any previous era, which the United States possesses. Our situation is not and cannot be isolated from the world situation, which is profoundly troubled and depressed. Yet our situation is more within our command than that of any other country, and we have only to resist excessive fear and discouragement and to put our shoulders to the wheel of our progress to put it in motion again.

"We are able in considerable degree," the President reminds us, "to free ourselves of world influences and make a large measure of independent recovery because we are so remarkably self-contained. Because of this, while our economic system is subject to the shock of world influences, we should be able in large measure to readjust ourselves. Our national production is over one-third of the total of the whole commercial world. We consume an average of about 90 per cent of our own production of commodities.

"If, for example, we assume a restored normal home consumption and hold even our present reduced basis of exports we should be upon a 97 per cent of normal business basis. Even this illustration does not represent all of our self-contained strength.

"We shall need mainly to depend upon our own strong arm for recovery, as other nations are in greater difficulty than we. We shall need again to undertake to assist and cooperate with them. Our imports of commodities in the main depend upon our domestic prosperity. Any forward movement in our recovery creates a demand for foreign raw materials and goods and thus instantly reacts to assist other countries the world over."

If we are on a dead center now it is our own fault, a fault of our morale, a lack of thorough thinking and of courage and foresight. Too many business men and bankers are looking for signs to bolster them up, waiting for impersonal forces to act, waiting for the other fellow to do something. Too many of our people, influenced by a vague alarm, are restricting their normal mode of living without the necessity of doing so. We have taken in too much sail because we fear the clouds are ominous of worse weather, and our precaution is checking a progress that is both possible and safe.

Especially business and financial management should rise above this. What has become of the great American go-getter? This is the time to go-get. Too many business men are waiting for business, for buying, for demand to come back, instead of going after it. Our buying power has been reduced, but very much less than the present level of demand represents. Demand is checked far less by lack of means than by lack of will. That is the go-getters' opportunity. The resources of the nation are enormous and courage and enterprise will set them flowing out over the land once more.

What is needed first and most is the revival of the American spirit of advance, the revival of confidence in the realities of our strength. The true American spirit is daring and aggressive. The trouble with us now is cold feet. We have stopped going after what we want and are waiting for it to come to us. American enterprise should get itself out of the doldrums and stop whistling for the wind. It has in its control the world's greatest market. It has its own resourcefulness and ability. It has one of the great opportunities of its history, and only moral weakness holds it back.

We are not trying to restore courage and common sense by tall talk. There is too much talk. What is wanted is action, the courageous business enterprise which has been the proud and just boast of American business in the past and should be today.

CRIMINAL SUPPLY STATIONS.

Arresting two hoodlums recently and finding both armed, the police raided a hotel in Chicago Heights at which they resort and arrested two other hoodlums in a room where two automatic rifles, an automatic shotgun, and several thousand rounds of ammunition were found. This is good police work and should be carried on energetically every day with all our police resources. Every gang has a hangout where reserves of deadly weapons and ammunition are kept, and a highly organized and constant search for them is an important part of the campaign against gangs. To strike at the base of supplies is sound tactics in war, and this is war. The task is a hard one, but it will pay well. But raids should be supplemented by action against landlords who harbor hoodlums and permit them to cache their armament on the premises. If an investigation of existing law shows that the authorities are powerless to deal with this notorious evil, some well considered legislation at the next session of the assembly would be welcome.

HIGHWAY GRADE SEPARATIONS.

Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works says that, although disappointed in attempts to get right of way for grade separations, he hopes to see a concentration of state highway work on this phase of road improvement during the winter. Gov. Emmerson wishes to have more attention paid to this particular of traffic relief and President Cermak of the county board and his associates in improved road planning have the same desires. Forty-eight railroad grade separations and five highway separations are now on the program, but work has been begun on only six of the railroad projects.

The governor is apparently desirous of giving the metropolitan area what its traffic requires and what the state should provide. Wider highways, to give the full traffic relief expected of them, must be separated at the crossing of other arterial roads. A modern metropolitan road system cannot continue with grade crossings on much used highways. Both safety and convenience require the separation. The Illinois program recognizes this and the responsible officials are pledged to push the construction as rapidly as possible. This attitude is considerate of the public interest.

HOME BREW.

Progress away from the domination of the fanatic element in prohibitionism is expressed in the announcement that the government will not attempt to abolish wine making and brewing in the home, if not for sale. It will have no important practical effect upon the actual situation, since the abolition of wine making and brewing in the home is an impossibility. In actuality it means that the American citizen may provide himself and his guests with intoxicating beverages of an inferior or even unwholesome quality, but may not avail himself of beverages made by experts.

We do not think the American people will long submit to an alternative so lacking in common sense, simply because advocates of teetotalism hold there is no way of sensibly regulating commercial production and distribution of alcoholic beverages.

But if the declaration of the dry law enforcement bureau is unsatisfactory from the viewpoint of practical relief, it seems to us equally unsatisfactory from that of principle. It is, in fact, scofflawry. The 18th amendment prohibits the manufacture of alcoholic beverages as well as the sale. The long campaign for prohibition purported, it is true, to be directed at the liquor traffic. If it had not been, it would not have gone far. But when opportunity offered, the pretended bounds of intention were ignored, and the 18th amendment was framed as a moral ordinance, devised to impose upon all individuals a restraint upon habit which the teetotalist thought was good for them.

MR. SHOUSE MAY MEET THE WHALE.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is having a tough time with the Republican administration of income taxes. For several years back Mr. Shouse has been having no luck at all in picking race horses and political candidates. It had been supposed that nature compensated Democratic statesmen for picking losers in political campaigns by giving them a profitable savvy in horse racing, but this appears not to be Mr. Shouse's case. Anything he bets on, candidate or horse, immediately sits down and refuses to budge. He has been endeavoring to persuade the government to recognize these losses as deductible from his taxable income.

He has been having just about the success which the Democratic national chairman might expect in trying to get anything out of a Republican administration, although it would be fair enough for the Republicans to relieve Mr. Shouse of his political losses. If he could pick political winners it would be unfortunate for the Republican place holders and dignitaries. If the Democratic chairman is a natural jinx he is a valuable man for the Republican party, and Mr. Fess, the Republican chairman, if he could moderate his moral zeal and take a broad view, would encourage Mr. Shouse to lay a little something on all his party candidates and see that the consequences were taken into account by the internal revenue department.

Mr. Fess succeeded Claudius Huston as head of the Republican committee because Mr. Huston got his affairs into predicaments which the impeccable party leaders thought might prove embarrassing to them, but Mr. Huston was no such embarrassment to his party as the Democrats must now perceive Mr. Shouse to be to theirs. A gentleman who has no luck picking a winning candidate might seem to be admirably qualified to lead the Democratic national committee, but if in addition he can't pick a race horse he would seem to be no Democrat at all. The other Jeffersonians may now begin to regard Mr. Shouse with somewhat the same interest which attracted the sailors to Jonah.

CENSORED SIGNS.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

The Pennsylvania department of highways supplies the heartening information that its caretakers recently completed the destruction of 32,225 roadside signs, "embodying every type of blurb, daub, scrawl, and tattered legend that came within the definition of illegal advertising." This cleanup campaign lasted six weeks and was state-wide. It was directed against signs constructed in imitation of the department's official markers bearing the words "Stop" or "Warning," against others erected on the highway right of way and even those placed on private property without specific permission or lease.

The results of this campaign in the interests of roadside beautification and of safety merit the commendation of all the motorists of Pennsylvania. Together with the recent legislation in New Jersey designed to reduce the number of roadside signs and the activity of other states in censoring these markers, it is evidence that public officials are making progress toward making the highways attractive as well as useful. If legislators will give highway officials the authority to condemn all signs and billboards which obstruct the view of intersecting roads or of scenery the public will heartily approve.

DIET FOR KIDNEY STONES.

If a person has kidney or ureter stones he should interest himself in his diet, since diet is one of the factors in causing them. This is particularly true if the person has the kidney stone habit. Having had one, he is anxious to escape a repetition, and this he can do, in some measure, even though infection is the major cause of the stones. The first step is to find out how his chemistry is running wild. This can be done by a chemical examination of any stone passed or, in the absence of that, by repeated urinary examinations.

In examining a large number of stones, Drs. Grant and Simpson found that 51 per cent were rich in phosphates, 24 per cent in oxalates, 20 per cent in urates, 13 per cent in carbonates, and 6 per cent in cystin. This does not add up 100 per cent, but the apparent error is not due to the limitations of the authors. A stone usually contains more than one chemical. Having determined which chemical predominates in the stone, the next step is to choose a diet suited to the case. If the stone contains uric acid or urates the probability is that the person will be benefited by the following diet. That is, if he will stick to it for a term of years.

Permitted, but only in limited quantities: All ordinary meats and fish, including oysters, crabs and lobster; hominy, carrots, asparagus, string beans, turnips, radishes, celery, cabbage, American cheeses, cocoa, chocolate, coffee, and tea.

The mainstays of the diet allowed are: Breads and pastries, fruits, eggs, milk, cheese of foreign types, creams, cucumbers, lettuce, cauliflower, beets, onions, nuts, olive oil, oatmeal and other cereals, potatoes, butter, and sago.

Alcoholic beverages are usually forbidden. As a rule, distilled water or mild alkaline water is prescribed. The person who is of the uric acid diathesis is advised not to eat heavy meals and not to lead an inactive life.

Tomorrow's article will deal with those people with kidney and ureteral stones which are not rich in uric acid or urates.

INTESTINAL STONES.

C. C. C. writes: I write for information relative to an affection called enteroliths. The patient passed at stool small blue balls bunched together, each one about the size of a marble. This has been going on for about three months. Of late, patient has little or no appetite and suffers from constipation.

REPLY.

Enteroliths are intestinal stones. They form in the intestinal tract occasionally and are composed principally of substances derived from food. Most of them contain some kind of crystals. Some are composed of ordinary sand. Sand is sometimes taken for its laxative effect, there are dirt eaters, and fruits and vegetables are not always well washed. Some are composed of other foreign materials swallowed with foods. Some are deposits from the food.

Persons who eat much olive oil and then take alkalis develop soapstones that might possibly be called enteroliths. In obstipation, masses incorrectly called enteroliths might form. Some enteroliths originate as gallstones or form in diverticula or elsewhere and finally reach the intestine.

METABOLISM TEST.

J. A. B. writes: I would like to know what is meant by a metabolism test and what knowledge is gained by going through one?

REPLY.

It is a test to determine the rate at which the fires burn. It is of service especially in goiter, myxedema and other diseases of the thyroid gland.

(According to Washington Dispatches.)

(Administrative office of the Soviet in Russia. Stalin, the chief of the Reds, is seated at a table covered with samples of wheat. Stock tickers linked up with Chicago keep the latest wheat quotations constantly on a big blackboard in front of him. He gives a yell of sudden agony and calls for the Commissaire for Dumping Wheat, who comes into the room on a gallop.)

STALIN—Their market's gone up half a point! Wow! What's the meaning of this? And you call yourself the Commissaire for Dumping Wheat! You big cheese, you couldn't dump a cartload of sand.

THE COMMISSAIRE FOR DUMPING WHEAT—Sire, we've just turned loose two hundred more shiploads of wheat on 'em.

STALIN—What of it? Dump more and more and more. Dump wheat by the million bushels, the billion bushels, the billion-billion bushels, the —— what's bigger than a billion-billion?

THE COMMISSAIRE FOR DUMPING WHEAT—I don't know, sire. The only people who would know things like that are university professors.

STALIN—Send me a university professor!

THE COMMISSAIRE FOR DUMPING WHEAT—Sorry, comrade, but the only three we had left were shot this morning by your order.

STALIN—No matter, the big idea is to dump wheat over there until they're snowed under. Are you sure that we are raising wheat here in Russia in every available place?

THE COMMISSAIRE FOR DUMPING WHEAT—Everywhere, comrade. In all the fields, in every yard, on the roofs of the houses, in the roadway, in front yards and back yards, and along the hedges.

STALIN—And in window boxes? And flower beds? And in vases and tea cups?

THE COMMISSAIRE FOR DUMPING WHEAT—Yes, comrade; there is not an inch of dirt from the Arctic ocean to the Crimea that is not planted in wheat five times over.

STALIN—But more wheat! MORE WHEAT! We've got to dump it on 'em 'til they crawl at my feet and beg for mercy. MORE WHEAT! MORE WHEAT!

STALIN—Then tell the soldiers and the peasants to plant it in their whiskers. It ought to grow fine there. I always knew those Russian whiskers would be good for something some day. MORE WHEAT! Pour it on the Americans! Shower it on 'em! Turn it on 'em in an avalanche! WHEAT! WHEAT! WHEAT! Dump it on 'em! WHEAT! WHEAT! WHEAT! A billion-billion-billion bushels of wheat, and dump it all on the Americans. WHEAT! WHEAT! WHEAT! What's that noise?

THE COMMISSAIRE FOR DUMPING WHEAT—That's the soldiers shooting some peasants who've been holding out on us.

STALIN—Stop 'em! Never mind shooting anybody now. Tell the soldiers to throw down their rifles and start planting wheat. Put the prisoners at it, too. Dump wheat on the Americans! No more shooting at present. Business first and pleasure afterwards. WHEAT! WHEAT! Dump it on 'em! Dump it on 'em!

(Stalin leaps at the commissaire and plants wheat in his hair and ears. "Wheat," he moans. "More wheat!")

Let us go where day begins and where,
Upon some hill, apart from every one,
We can again look on a world that's fair
We have a need of that who thus have traveled
Into the darkness, groping far and wide,
Where what we knew and loved was torn and raveled
And all the simple truths were set aside.
So must we go like children, hand in hand,
Where whirling winds that eddy and expand
Will be the only sound that we shall hear;
Where, strong and silent, we can recreate

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

LONDON.—Official dispatches from Berlin and Paris were of such a conflicting nature that it was impossible to decide which, if either, of the armies had the better of the day's engagement along the long battle front in France. Paris reported that the army of the German crown prince in attempting to pass the woods of Grury, in the Argonne region, had been thrown back toward the north and that repeated attempts of the Germans to break through the lines extending north from Roye through Albert had been repulsed with great losses. Berlin reported that the German right had defeated many attempts of the allies to make a flanking movement north of Roye, that the German advance in the Argonne region was continuing and that east of the Meuse repeated night attacks of the French had been defeated.

LONDON.—The Belgian legation admitted that the Belgian army has been unable to hold its first line of defenses south of Antwerp along the Senne river and between the Senne and the Dyle. The Belgians have been compelled to withdraw to their secondary line which follows the curve of the Nethe river and which is claimed to be impregnable.

AIX LA CHAPELLE.—[By John T. McCutcheon]—Of all the disagreeable sensations which a perfectly innocent person may feel the most unpleasant is that of being considered a spy in times of war. When I was taken into the guardhouse at Beaumont and confined in a small room with a French suspect, a Belgian suspect, five Americans, one Negro chauffeur and some French and Belgian prisoners of war the sensation was far from exhilarating. Of course we were not prisoners [?], but we certainly looked like it. We were guests, but we were not allowed to leave the room, under penalty of having a bayonet stuck through us.

OCTOBER 4, 1900.

CHICAGO.—The board of education embodied in its rules the resolution of Trustee Chester M. Dawes to prevent the use of influence in the appointment of principals and teachers. By their provisions the superintendent of schools is required to report to the board the names of all trustees and other persons who approach him to urge the appointment or promotion of teachers.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia. — Two masked men held up and attempted to rob the express cars on a train of the Kansas City, St. Joe ard Council Bluffs railroad three miles south of here last night. They cut off the engine and express cars, and forced the engineer to pull half a mile down the track. Then while one man guarded the train crew the other forced the engineer to blow open an express car with dynamite. Express Messenger Baxter jumped, hid himself in the weeds and a moment later shot and killed the robber who was guarding the engine. The other robber fled.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Charles S. Coy, a commercial representative of a San Francisco company in the orient, has returned from Chicago. He declares he believes the activities of various missionaries were responsible for the Boxer troubles, and that the exercise of a little judgment would have prevented the misery, suffering and death that followed the outbreak. He contends that attempts to combat ancient customs of the Chinese aroused their anger.

OCTOBER 4, 1880.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dyer D. Lum, assistant secretary of the National Greenback committee, published a letter charging Gen. J. B. Weaver, the Greenback candidate for President, with having sold out to the Republicans. Judge Warwick Martin, a member of the committee, declares that Lum is a liar, and Gen. Weaver in a signed statement says: "Lum's statement is base, treacherous and false in all of its essential features."

DANVILLE, Ill.—Gov. Cullom and Col. Clark E. Carr of Galesburg were the principal speakers at the first Republican massmeeting of the campaign. Delegations came by train, carriages and wagons from every township in the county and from adjoining territory in Indiana.

YOU BIG BLUSTERING FOOL.

National Military Home, Cal., Sept. 26.—I have noted in the columns of THE TRIBUNE that you say that prohibition was put over on the people while the ex-service men were over in France, that they had no chance to vote on the question.

Now, you big blustering fool, I want to tell you that I had a chance to vote on prohibition and I did vote on it and I was over in France while the war was going on.

Now either you are a liar or I am a liar. Well, who is the liar? I guess the records will show who is. Have you got the nerve to publish this?

F. L. GIBSON.

THE IOWA BUILDING.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—One of the most beautiful buildings in the world is approaching perfection in Jackson park—the rehabilitated museum; and take the word of a world traveler, it rests in a setting few beautiful structures can equal. In all but one respect.

Unfortunately, at this north end of Jackson park there remains what was formerly the Iowa building of the last World's Fair. This structure, designed in accordance with the porcine esthetics of Iowa's past pioneer period, intrudes its hump like some scrub razorback pig, its ugly silhouette dominating the view at the outer drive, the most important entrance to Jackson park, and where the new museum should be allowed to present, unobstructed, its incomparable vista. It is true the old Iowa building is of use as a picnic and rest pavilion at present, but its destruction is imperative. Iowans, if they cherish sentiment for the place, could well join together and rebuild the pavilion in the classic order to match the architecture of the museum. Incidentally, the south park commissioners repaired this Iowan monstrosity this summer, but have neglected the superb Japanese palace on Wooded Island, which seems fair to be ruined by vandals before the new World's Fair. SOUTH-SIDER.

ENGLAND, INDIA, INCOMPETENT UNITED STATES.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—In reference to a letter which appeared in today's Voice of the People by A. F. D., I wish to acquaint him and all your readers who are misinformed of the fact that Great Britain did not bully her way into India like the United States is trying to do in Central and South America and the Caribbean. India is her bona fide property which she won by conquest. A. F. D.'s conception of England is erroneous if he thinks that England's proper place is among the has-beens. She is stronger today than she has ever been. None of her dominions or colonies desires to secede from England, and even Mr. Gandhi is asking for dominion status. On the other hand, no nation or people wants to be governed by the United States, for no other reason than that she is incompetent, and they know it.

FREE MUSIC.

Chicago, Sept. 27. — Miss Thirza Mosher-Parmenter's letter on the subject of "Free Music" for Oak Park instead of refuting my statement—as no doubt intended it should—fully sustains all my arguments. Her closing paragraph is an unqualified admission of the truth of my contention.

She writes:

"I hope this has made it sufficiently plain to Mr. Petrillo that the students' council has an excuse for existence and that it was not organized to starve professional musicians, nor to destroy art, but rather to save professional musicians the embarrassment of refusing to perform gratis."

That's the whole story in a nutshell. Professional musicians, depending upon public appearance to earn their living, are to be displaced in Oak Park by student players, in order that they may be saved "the embarrassment of refusing to perform gratis," likewise the opportunity of earning a living. If this is not an attempt to "starve professional musicians," with its concomitant destruction of art, then I do not understand plain English.

Her injection of the religious element into the controversy is merely an attempt to confuse the issue—a smoke screen, designed to camouflage the real purpose that lies behind the formation of this so-called student council.

Oak Park has no need for this "Artists' Council for Club Programs," whose avowed purpose is the promotion of free entertainment. Oak Park, at the present time, is overrun with free entertainment, and has been for as far back as I can remember. What Oak Park needs is an appreciation of the fact that professional musicians cannot continue existing unless they are paid for their services.

Hundreds of our members are living in Oak Park and vicinity. Yet it is only in the rarest instances that any of them is given an opportunity to earn a dollar in the place where he pays taxes. JAMES C. PETRILLO,
President, Chicago Federation of Musicians.

SIGNED EDITORIALS.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—One of your readers writes in and wants to have the editorial writers sign their stuff. That is a great idea. But why stop with editorials and writers? Why not carry the plan out like the squawkies, where all the functionaries, from the director to the third assistant camera man, are announced. Just imagine an editorial: "The Autumn Zephyr Comes to Chicago." Idea supplied by the U. Stockyards company, headline by Joe McGinniss, article by H. Hamilton Hamma, edited by Mack Macnivavelli, set by Patrick O'Rosinsky, proof read by Harry [Hawk-eye] Sweeney, pressmen, etc., and so on, ad infinitum. ## GASOLINE ALLEY—BUT THE EVIDENCE IS MISSING

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered, apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked toward the woods.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be an impostor. His secretary, Gladys Cram, was seen by Miss Marple going in the woods at night, carrying a suitcase, and returning shortly after without it. The vicar searches the woods and finds some valuable old silver which belonged to Col. Protheroe.

Hawes, the vicar's young curate, suspects a poacher, named Archer, whom Protheroe prosecuted, of committing the murder.

INSTALLMENT XLII.
AN ANONYMOUS LETTER.

"Because," I said, "a man like Archer wouldn't think of shooting a man with a pistol. It's the wrong weapon."

Hawes seemed taken aback by my argument.

"Do you really think the objection is feasible?" he asked, doubtingly.

"To my mind it is a complete stumbling block to Archer's having committed the crime," I said.

In face of my positive assertion, Hawes said no more.

I had gone as far as the front door with him, and on the hall table I saw four notes. They had certain characteristics in common. The handwriting was almost unmistakably feminine, they all bore the words, "By hand, urgent," and the only difference I could see was that one was noticeably dirtier than the rest.

Their similarity gave me a curious feeling of seeing—not double, but quadruple.

Mary came out of the kitchen and caught me staring at them.

"Come by hand since lunch time," she volunteered. "All but one. I found that in the box."

I nodded, gathered them up and took them into the study.

Dear Mr. Clement:

Something has come to my knowledge which I feel you ought to know. It concerns the death of poor Col. Protheroe. I should much appreciate your advice on the matter—whether to go to the police or not. Since my dear husband's death I have such a shrinking from every kind of publicity. Perhaps you could run in and see me for a few minutes this afternoon.

Yours sincerely,
MARTHA PRICE RIDLEY.

I opened the second.

Dear Mr. Clement:

I am so troubled—so exercised in my mind—to know what I ought to do. Something has come to my ears that I feel may be important. I have such a horror of being mixed up with the police in any way. I am so disturbed and distressed. Would it be asking too much of you, dear vicar, to drop in for a few minutes and solve my doubts and perplexities for me in the wonderful way you always do?

Forgive me troubling you.

Yours very sincerely,
CAROLINE WETHERBY.

The third, I felt, I could almost have recited beforehand.

Dear Mr. Clement:

Something most important has come to my ears. I feel you should be the first to know about it. Will you call in and see me this afternoon sometime? I will wait in for you.

This militant epistle was signed

Amanda Hartnell.

I opened the fourth missive. It has been my good fortune to be troubled with very few anonymous letters. An anonymous letter is, I think, the meanest and cruelest weapon there is. This one was no exception. It purported to be written by an illiterate person, but several things inclined me to disbelieve that assumption.

Dear Vicar,

I think you ought to know what is Going On. Your lady has been seen coming out of Mr. Redding's cottage in a surreptitious manner. You know wot i mean. The two are Carrying On together. I think you ought to know.

A FRIEND.

I made a faint exclamation of disgust and, crumpling up the paper, tossed it into the open grate just as Griselda entered the room.

"What's that you're throwing down so contemptuously?" she asked.

"Filth," I said.

Taking a match from my pocket, I struck one and bent down. Griselda, however, was too quick for me. She had stooped down and caught up the crumpled ball of paper and smoothed it out before I could stop her.

She read it, gave a little exclamation of disgust and tossed it back to me, turning away as she did so. I lighted it and watched it burn.

Griselda had moved away. She was standing by the window looking out.

"Len," she said, without turning round.

"Yes, my dear."

"I'd like to tell you something. Yes, don't stop me. I want to, please. Just—when Lawrence Redding came here, I let you think that I had only known him slightly before. That wasn't true. I—had known him rather well. In fact, before I met you, I had been rather in love with him. I think most people are with Lawrence. I was—well, absolutely silly about him at one time. I don't mean I wrote him compromising letters or anything idiotic like they do in books. But I was rather keen on him once."

"Why didn't you tell me?" I asked.

"Oh, because! I don't know exactly, except that—well, you're foolish in some ways. Just because you're so much older than I am, you think that I—well, that I'm likely to like other people. I thought you'd be tiresome, perhaps, about me and Lawrence being friends."

"You're very clever at concealing things," I said, remembering what she had told me in that room less than a week ago, and the ingenuous, natural way she had talked.

"Yes, I've always been able to hide things. In a way, I like doing it." ... "But it's quite true what I said. I didn't know about Anne, and I wondered why Lawrence was so different, not—well, really not noticing me. I'm not used to it."

There was a pause.

"You do understand, Len?" said Griselda, anxiously.

"Yes," I said. "I understand."

But did I?

I found it hard to shake off the impression left by the anonymous letter. However, I gathered up the other three letters, glanced at my watch and started out.

I wondered very much what this might be that "had come to the knowledge" of three ladies simultaneously. I took it to be the same piece of news. In this, I was to realize that my psychology was at fault.

I cannot pretend that my calls took me past the police station. My feet took me there of their own accord. I was anxious to know whether Inspector Slack had returned from Old hall.

I found that he had and, further, that Miss Cram had returned with him. Miss Gladys was seated in the police station, carrying off matters with a high hand. She denied absolutely having taken the suitcase to the woods.

"Just because one of these gossiping old cats has nothing better to do than look out of her window all night you go and pitch upon me. She's been mistaken once, remember, when she said she saw me at the end of the lane in the afternoon of the murder, and if she was mistaken then, in daylight, how can she possibly have recognized me by moonlight?

"Wicked, it is, the way these old ladies go on down here. Say anything, they will. And me asleep in my bed as innocent as can be. You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, the lot of you."

"And supposing the landlady of the Blue Boar identifies the suitcase as yours, Miss Cram?"

"If she says anything of the kind, she's wrong. There's no name on it. Half everybody's got a suitcase like that. As for poor Dr. Stone, accusing him of being a common burglar! And he with a lot of letters after his name."

"You refuse to give us any explanation, then, Miss Cram?"

Good morning!

Two questions, please:

If "Yes" is the answer to both queries, why then you'll proclaim "Whoopee" quite a show. If you can nod the head to only one of them, the chances are you'll find it just so-so. If to both you proffer a stout "NO," well—read this review, anyway.

"Whoopee" is the screenization of the stage musical show by William Anthony McGuire which was adapted from a play, "The Nervous Wreck," by Owen Davis, who, in collaboration with Robert H. Davis, wrote the story from which the play was made. None other than the great Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld has presided over direction of this all-color movie version, with the result that ensemble effects and girls are eye-entrancing.

Apparently Mr. Ziegfeld has had his ear to the ground and heard the ominous mutterings relative to the fact that, in a screen revue, the tired business man can not, as in a stage production, single out one particular girl and follow her throughout the show, and has responded to that low growl by bringing show and chorus ladies, one by one, every now and then, right up into the eye of the camera. The result should be eminently satisfactory to the person whose only reason for objecting to cinema "musicals," is the one given above.

The action of "Whoopee" takes place in a musical comedy west where Mr. Cantor is discovered as a hypochondriac attended by a pulchritudinous nurse who would him wed. Between fancied aches and doses of real meddy this Henry Williams gets all tangled up in the romance of a maid who loves a supposed part-Indian, but is engaged to marry the sheriff. The s. p. I., as portrayed by a beautiful man—with a beautiful voice!—makes you wish she could find it in her heart to prefer Sheriff Bob. Ah, well——!

The story is punctuated with Cantor songs, quips, dancing, and facial contortions and richly embroidered with the en masse activities of gorgeous cowgirls and cowboys. That clever comedienne Ethel Shutta, who plays the nurse, has a number of clever entrances and does a good dance. Other principals are quite all right. Color, sound, photography, scenery, and staging please.

The piece, like a Dachshund, is pretty long for its body. It runs for an hour and a half. But when you consider that the stage show ate up three hours . . . ?

The story, cheap and trite, is what's the matter with this one in which ladies (literally)—two of 'em!—both his secretaries—fall at the feet of Lewis Stone, who impersonates a rich and mellow publisher. The first collapses when she learns he's to be married. The second loses consciousness when she hears he's to be divorced.

The story above maligned is expertly presented by people too good to be wasted on it. Lewis Stone is, as always, a splendid actor, and Dorothy Mackaill and Natalie Moorhead, the two beautiful blondes in the leading feminine rôles, do credit to the taste of his Mr. Lawrence Fellowes. Of course, Everywoman can understand how Anywoman could fall for Lewis Stone!

Because of the bright spots outlined you may find entertaining the story of Ann Murdock, secretary to a rich man who sets out to win him from his wife—and succeeds.

DEAN INGE ASSAILS SUM AMERICANS PAY FOR AMUSEMENT

OXFORD, England, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Describing himself as "an utterly unrepentant early Victorian," the Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, popularly known as "the gloomy dean" of St. Paul's, today attacked "luxury spending," especially in the United States.

The dean spoke to a meeting connected with the national savings movement. He repeated his previous assertion that "two years of American play would suffice to pay the whole of our national debt."

"The amount last year spent on amusements in America was estimated at $21,945,000,000—more than the whole aggregate income of the people of this country."

Adjt. E. Warren Stanton, in charge of the Salvation Army relief work in Chicago, estimated yesterday that between 75,000 and 200,000 unemployed will be tramping the streets of the city this winter.

"The Salvation Army will be highly taxed under such unusual conditions," he declared at a meeting of campaign workers in the Hotel Sherman. "But we are receiving the support of large financial and industrial interests."

In anticipation of the strain of the winter the quota for relief is higher this year, and the returns yesterday in the army financial drive indicated that supporters are rallying to the need. Nearly $25,000 was reported, bringing the total collections to date to $80,500. This is $17,000 more than was collected at the same time last year. The army expects to raise at least $379,000.

Erin Visions New Era in City Visiting

Officials, North, South, Study Urban Problems.

BY R. M. SAYERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Oct. 3—A noteworthy feature of public life in Ireland this year has been the interchange of visits between leading representatives in municipal affairs north and south of the border.

The harbor boards of Belfast and Cork have visited each other's areas, and as a result there is a friendly and sympathetic feeling between the Lagan and the Lee that did not formerly exist.

Urban councils in Down and Antrim have made excursions in a body south of the border and everywhere they have passed they have received the most cordial of public welcomes. Councils of southern towns are following suit, and when they make choice of venue for their outing they choose Belfast or some other Ulster center as their venue and they are received with the most genuine goodwill.

It is true that these pilgrimages are social and unofficial, but they are all the more valuable on that account. It was only the other day that the mayor of the ancient town of Drogheda on the historic Boyne together with all his colleagues and the town officials made what was like a royal progress north. These journeys are generally made in luxurious motor coaches. The first stop of the Drogheda men north of the border was at Newry, and there the mayor gave them an official welcome. At Lisbourn the town council turned out as one man and there was a warm interchange of courtesies.

At Belfast the city placed a city bus at the disposal of the visitors and they were taken to the industrial works.

The lord mayor gave them a reception at the city hall, and the friendly "twitting" between the spokesman on what a few years ago would have been sore points created good humored laughter. For example, Lord Mayor Coates of Belfast reminded the Free Staters that it was King William III who had granted the corporation to Drogheda together with the mace and sword.

Travelers in Russia Present Varied Views About the Conditions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Oct. 3.—Close of the tourist season has revealed that more Americans than ever before visited Russia during the summer. According to government figures here at least 10,000 Americans 'bound for Russia, passed through Warsaw.

Most of those visited the Warsaw office of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The returning tourists learned that rubles for which he paid 52 cents in Russia can be had in Poland for 7, while ikons, embroidery, and objects of art often can be had far cheaper, sometimes for one-tenth the Russian price in Poland.

Hundreds complained of high prices, the system of guides taking sightseers only to places chosen by the government, about the terrible food, dirty trains, poor hotels, poor streets and taxis, the constant pressure of communist propaganda.

During the first days of their journeys they enjoyed caviar, but it became so tiresome as food that none could eat it after six or seven days. Especially indignant have been members of large tours which have arrived in Russia by sea. The soviets herded them together, showing them Leningrad and Moscow by a set routine which virtually amounted to imprisonment.

Only one group coming from Russia had a different impression. This was a large party led by Sherwood Eddy, composed of clergymen, rabbis, and others.

This group declared they had seen the most modern prison in the world in Moscow. When asked about the Solovki prisoners' camp they said they had never hear of it.

One hundred thousand prisoners guarded in that place were not noticed by the teachers and preachers. That camp where tortures are inflicted, was not shown to Mr. Eddy and his friends.

One woman member was particularly impressed by the fact that they were permitted to examine unguarded the crown jewels in the Kremlin for half an hour. She hailed that as a new era of honesty and human trust created by the soviets.

Despite the usual strict custom inspection, the members of the Sherwood Eddy group were not bothered, either entering or leaving Russia.

During their two weeks stay they were practically the guests of the Russian government. The group remained in Poland one day.

THINGS ARE SELDOM WHAT THEY SEEM, ESPECIALLY IN MAGIC

Go into the monthly gathering of the Society of American Magicians, as of last night in the Fine Arts building, with a flower in your buttonhole and you may come out with a turnip. Take in a cane and you may bring out a puppy. Anchor your handkerchief firmly in your pocket, or you may find it keeping strange company. For queer goings on characterize these meetings of worshipers at the shrine of the black art, leaving the rank outsider gibberingly uncertain as to whether white isn't really green.

Last night, to reveal only a few of the mysterious things that came to pass, a rope that was snipped in two inexplicably coiled itself back again into one continuous loop. A handkerchief materialized into an egg and the egg, upon being smashed, revealed a golden yolk and gooey white instead of the wisp of silk that had just been carefully tucked into the top of the shell. A vivid Irish green handkerchief, tucked into a water goblet with a blue one atop it, was snapped out a three foot length of green, blue and scarlet. A playing card several inches larger than the ordinary disappeared into thin air on being wrapped in a paper mat, and the mat flapped energetically to shake it out.

Yet the perpetrators of these puzzles were the rawest of the club membership recruits before the footlights. These were no smooth, time tried experts, but amateurs who love the atmosphere and the mystery of magic, and who had been coaxed to make their first bow before an extraordinarily critical audience—their fellow members. They responded nobly. Time after time when a guffaw sounded from the audience and a "ribbing" started as the performer apparently fumbled awkwardly, the next flip of hand or wave of the magic wand left them gasping and clapping.

There are about seventy-five members of the Chicago branch, who comprise doctors, lawyers, merchants and chiefs rather than the actual professional magician. Of the latter there are only about four on the list, two of whom were present last night. W. C. Dornfield, president of the branch, is a magician, and Eugene Laurant, vice president of the national society, has been for twenty years performing his tricks in public.

"There's something about magic," the latter declared last night, "that keeps a man interested. Take certain well known men, for instance Harold Lloyd, and others, who probably would stop at this meeting if they were going through and knew about it, because they like it. We have a navy officer here tonight from Washington, for instance. You'd be surprised, I suppose, to know that most of the new tricks are invented by amateurs, and either bought or stolen from them. Professionals haven't the time to give to it."

But he forgot to mention the prince of Wales as a fan.

Pastor Calls Nevada Divorce Laws Model for Other States

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Nevada's much criticized "easy divorce" laws are performing a social service for the United States, the Rev. William Moll Case, pastor of the Federated church of Reno, told delegates to the Pacific slope congress of Congregational ministers here today.

Those laws often are abused, he said, but they eventually will point the way to a uniform divorce code throughout the state.

"As it is," the Rev. Mr. Case said, "persons seeking a divorce at least do not need to commit perjury to obtain a legal separation. After studying the Nevada divorce law and its effects for more than five years I am convinced it is based upon a social theory that should not be condemned without full investigation."

Italy Princess, Bulgars' King Are to Marry

ROME, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A new royal romance in Europe tonight brought about the betrothal of Princess Giovanna of Italy, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, and King Boris of Bulgaria, often described as "Bulgaria's bachelor king." She is 22 years old and he is 36.

Official announcement of the engagement was made tonight by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena. It was conveyed in a brief document that will be published tomorrow. The document reads:

The royal consent means that all problems of religion and state affairs have been settled. Princess Giovanna is a Roman Catholic and King Boris an orthodox Greek Catholic.

Vatican City circles of high authority state that King Boris agreed that, despite provisions to the contrary in the Bulgarian constitution, Princess Giovanna should remain a Catholic and their children should be educated as Catholics.

This difference in religion is understood to have held up the match for more than a year, during which the Vatican held out against the pleas of both Italy and Bulgaria for a compromise more favorable to Boris' desires.

The bachelor king visited Italy in September, but did not come to Rome. It is recalled he was received by Pope Pius when he attended the wedding last January of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. This visit now is thought to have paved the way for a settlement of the problem of religious differences.

For some years the European excursions of Bulgaria's king have been regarded as having matrimony for their ultimate object. Many eligible royal names have been connected with him, including those of Princess Ileana of Rumania, the Duchess Kira of Russia, and a Swedish princess.

Word that the princess was betrothed leaked out in Rome late in the afternoon.

Political circles consider the impending royal alliance of Italy and Bulgaria to be highly important. It is depended upon in Rome to solidify good relations between Italy and a Balkan power in a strategic position along the eastern frontier of Jugo-Slavia. The prophecy is made that it will exercise a stabilizing influence in the Balkans.

PERUVIAN SCHOLAR REPEATS COLUMBUS REALLY WAS SPANIARD

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Prof. Luis Ulloa, Peruvian scholar, who recently created a stir at the Hamburg-Americanist conference by insisting that Christopher Columbus was a Catalonian and not a Genoese, told the Associated Press today that his theory was confirmed by recent discoveries in the archives of the French national library.

These demonstrated, the Peruvian asserted, that Columbus was a relative of Casanova-Coullon, who was a Corsair in the service of King Louis XI., and, although born in France, was of Catalonian origin.

Prof. Ulloa will go to Spain in a month for further study. He said he already had consulted several members of the Spanish academy of history, with some rejecting and others accepting his theory, but declared that the academy had never formally examined the question.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Skirt Lengths Varying with Season's Needs

The "long and short" of the skirt length question is apparently resolving itself peaceably. Street clothes are almost uniformly a few inches below the knee, afternoon frocks range from the same length to the ankle, and evening frocks vary in length from a little above the ankle to the floor.

At a fashionable wedding the other day Mrs. I. Newton Perry was observed in a stunning afternoon ensemble of gold lame. It was trimmed at the neck and hem with sable and the skirt hung about three inches below the knee. Following her at a short distance were Miss Jeanne and Miss Katherine Street, debutantes of this season, dressed alike in black velvet suits that almost swept the ground. Their outfits were most effective.

The skirts were full and slightly shorter in the front than the back, and the jackets followed the same line, with scalloped edges. The girls wore identical small black velvet hats, beret shaped, with grosgrain ribbon bows flat on top.

For evenings the smartly dressed women are continuing to wear the little short coats or paletots that became fashionable last spring, and indications are that they will be popular for winter wear also. Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., attending a theater opening, wore one of black velvet trimmed with a narrow border of fur, with a long black velvet gown. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., in black chiffon, wore one of emerald green velveteen, and Mrs. Lawrence Meeker had a red one to go with her red lace frock.

Vernay Returns with Jungle Beasts for the Field Museum

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Arthur S. Vernay, leader of the scientific Vernay expedition to the Kalahari section, north of Bechuanaland, in Africa, returned tonight on the Cunard liner Berengaria and told of the difficult work of surveying the region and of the hundreds of rare specimens obtained of animals indigenous to the Kalahari country.

The section, crossed in 1844 by David Livingstone, the missionary, had never been covered thoroughly before, and probably will never be again, Mr. Vernay said.

The collection, some of which has already been shipped to the Museum of Natural History here and to the Field Museum of Chicago, contains species of all the large Kalahari mammals, many of the small, rare mammals, 300 birds, 21,000 insects, 2,000 invertebrates, and 600 specimen of fish.

Although the country traversed by the expedition was almost impenetrable, the fourteen white men and sixteen native guides and hunters had not a single day of sickness.

Herbert Lang, former associate curator of African mammals in the Museum of Natural History, organized the first expedition to the Kalahari in 1915 and was associated with Mr. Vernay. In this year's trip they were again together, and covered more territory, Mr. Vernay said. Mr. Lang was field manager and mammalogist of the party.

Mr. Vernay brings back in the collection besides the specimens obtained voluminous notes on the habits of Kalahari animals. Some of the most interesting are the rare brown hyena and the black backed jackal, scavengers, and the large bull eland, believed to be the largest of all antelopes.

Species of Kalahari rodents and reptiles were also obtained and many photographs of the unusual animals of the semi-desert were taken.

Mr. Vernay said the bushmen of the Kalahari were as much like animals as any humans he had ever seen in expeditions to Africa, India, and Indo-China.

Thin Gals Need Helping Hand as Well as Fat Ones

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The poor little thin girls, I am afraid, get rather the short end of advice, it seems to me. I forget, like a lot of other women who have to go on an orange juice spree every now and then, for the good of their silhouette, that the thin uns have their troubles, too. Not until one writes and reminds me that there is just as much embarrassment and ill-timed humor about being undernourished as over, do I think of the flat chested and angular.

And here's Madge, who swears that soon they'll be able to fold her up and send her away on two cent postage, begging to know how to blossom out into curves of irresistible appeal.

Frst thing to find out is what's wrong with the girl, Madge. How's the state of her digestion, elimination, food assimilation? Is there anything wrong constitutionally? There is no one so qualified to name the cause and prescribe for it as the doctor. I certainly believe that underweight persons should get a good medical going over before they attempt to make themselves into curved beauties on lay advice. It so very, very frequently happens that there is something constitutionally wrong, and adding fat making foods may be quite all wrong under the circumstances.

The ladies of the average fat problem can be handled more easily. They can handle their own cases because they know they've been overeating and oversitting.

If a weight loss comes on quickly, certainly the M. D.'s sign is the one to find. There is this that the medical expert will indorse in every case of underweight—that it is vitally a matter of proper digestion, assimilation—and elimination. Also, that menus for the thin must include fruits and vegetables in order to help the digestion. A diet of fats [butter, cream, etc.] and fat making foods without the fruits and vegetables is not good.

Excessive consumption of sugars, starches and fats is not the healthful way of turning a lean silhouette into a plump one. Undernourished persons are advised to take milk at the end of a meal so that other needed foods will not be neglected. In fact, it is better taken in between meals, for this reason. Milk, it should be remembered, is a food—and an ideal one.

LAWN CONTEST ENDS.

Prize winners numbering 195 who are to receive the $5,000 in awards from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for results which made their lawns stand out in the home lawn competition started in May are announced tomorrow in metropolitan sections of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

In each of five sections awards have been made to 39 most successful lawnmakers, based on their handicaps this spring when judges completed an initial survey and comparisons this fall when the final judging took place. Not only will the prize winners receive cash awards, but each of them will obtain a certificate showing his or her lawn was of merit.

In each of the five metropolitan sections which extend in a radius of forty miles from Tribune Tower, the prizes consist of $250 for first; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $75; fifth, $50; sixth, $35; seventh, $20; and 32 minor awards of $10 each. Extreme conditions during the summer tried the worth of the lawns as well as the patience of the home gardeners, it was found. Some of the unusual instances are related in tomorrow's announcement of the completion of the contest.

Some of the pests which tried to thwart the contestants' efforts included ants, earthworms in size from small fishing bait to night crawlers, crawfish which dug holes, and weeds. In addition many lawnmakers were handicapped in other ways and two persons withdrew with a brief statement, "We have a new dog." Another contestant wrote in during the middle of summer asking help in ing for rain, but the rain didn't c

In Elgin lawns were at a pre because of a low water supply curtailed sprinkling for an exte period to but three times a week only an hour at a time. Those private water systems were at an vantage. A crop of fall weeds suc chickweed and crab grass surprised disappointed many who worked in the spring to get rid of such p as dandelions and plantain.

Lip Reading Class Meets with Sixty as First Enrollment

Probably the most earnest students in all this city yesterday were a group of 60 men and women who began their fall semester in the lip reading class at the Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing, 64 East Lake street.

It was by far the largest class ever registered at the opening of a course, according to officers of the league.

The classroom was one without textbooks, pencils, or paper. There was not a sound in the room as the teacher, Mrs. William P. Johnson of Highland Park, talked with her lips. The words her pupils could not understand she wrote upon a blackboard and pronounced them until they were understood. Then Mrs. Johnson's lips read a part of a story from a book. The pupils nodded their heads with a smile of understanding and often laughed aloud or clapped their hands at some of the humor expressed silently through their teacher's lips.

Another course started last evening for beginners taught by Miss Gertrude Torrey, a founder of the classes, and Miss Esther Tonderheit. Mrs. William R. Wilson will teach the Tuesday evening classes. The teachers are all volunteer instructors.

At the semi-annual meeting of the league, to be held today at the league headquarters, it will be reported that 1,050 hard of hearing persons attended classes during April and May. A summer practice class was attended by 305.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The federal farm board has joined the federal board for vocational education in a program to advance coöperative marketing by teaching its theory and application to present and future farmers in special classes at 4,000 centers in the United States.

Dr. C. H. Lane, director of vocational agriculture for the education board, announced today that farmers will be taught in evening classes, while boys and girls will be offered special work in regular and special part-time high school courses.

The farm board will stand ready to assist in the organization of new coöperatives under its own plan, Mr. Lane said.

Doctor Recommended It

"A friend recommended Resinol for a rash which covered my baby's body. I thought that I had better take her to the doctor, however. After examining her the doctor looked up and said, 'Have you tried Resinol?' I hadn't, so he said, 'Try it. I think you will find it is just what you need.' I did. Result—my baby is entirely free from skin trouble, rash, or any eruption of any kind. I always keep a jar of Resinol on my baby tray."

(Signed)—

Florence M. Johnson, Louisville, N. Y.

Physical Health in Close Relation to Mental Vigor

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet of prayers and graces will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

At this time of year, with the summer behind us and school just started, we are especially concerned with the advantages or disadvantages health has on the children's school work.

We are anxious for the children to get as much as possible out of the school year. They, too, like the feeling of being able to do their work competently. They like the feeling of excelling in it. (And incidentally this ability often spells the difference between liking school and not liking school.) And though no disgrace should be attached to it, they do mind having to repeat a grade.

I wonder if grown-ups keep in mind sufficiently the effect the physical health of children has on their mental ability. Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States public health service, says significantly: "The child who is physically handicapped may lose much time from school and even be obliged to repeat his grade, though he be of quite normal mentality.". (The italics are mine.)

The child who is listless, or anemic, or nervous, or weary cannot do his best work. He may be short on sleep, working too hard at home, or be improperly fed—there may be any one of a number of simple reasons to account for his low standard of work. Or inability to see well or hear well will affect his school work to such a degree that he is often considered subnormal when he is not. So many simply cured physical conditions can easily affect a child's ability to handle his school or home work. It is only fair to the child's present and ultimate development and happiness that we do our part in seeing that he is in as fine physical condition as our intelligence, our care, and our means afford.

Plenty of outdoors, plenty of rest, plenty of simple, varied, nourishing food, and a harmonious home will be our contribution. And through a physical examination—yearly or oftener—your doctor can do his part. Most often he will find nothing wrong—maybe a little more rest, a slight change in diet, or some easily arranged detail of his care.

In some cases he will find tendencies to be corrected—flat feet, eye strain, deafness, wrong posture—things that taken in the beginning can be easily corrected and prevented from developing into more serious conditions. And then, of course, there will be those fewer cases where more serious conditions will be brought to light by the examination—functional or organic diseases, many of which are curable if taken early enough.

The best way for us to function most efficiently mentally is to be able to forget our bodies. Try to build up in your children the kind of body that they can forget.

Young Woman Tells Why She's Down on the Whole Universe

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What a young woman thinks about as she reviews a career of unsuccessful outcome:

"Like most people in the world I am terribly unhappy. Why? I don't know. There was a time when I was exceedingly rushed. With theaters, parties, dances, fun, plenty of laughter, good times, but, O, how things have changed! My fault, I suppose, if life is what we make it. Is it my fault because after keeping company for two years I buck up against the most awful objections on the part of my fiancé's people because of lack of money? Find that the one I love is too weak to combat with said objections? Character, what does that count for in the absence of the god, Money?

"Is it my fault, again, that I went with another person for six months to find him out a contemptible liar? He proved it conclusively, though I was dumb. My policy was to believe people.

"Then, last year, I met some one I thought the one and only. Felt it was worth while going through all the love pains again. Now what? I find the man is married. No question about it. He told me himself—after I learned to care.

"Hard breaks—and I truthfully believe I am undeserving of them. I lived a clean, honest life—well thought of. What for? Is it worth it? I feel like the baby crying for the moon. Every time I grasp for it—look what's in my hands. Each effort makes life seem less worth while.

"Now I'd like to throw up the sponge. Or take whatever happiness I possibly can with no regard for whom I'm hurting. Nobody ever thought of the hurts that were inflicted on me. Why not? Am I not deserving of some happiness? Why not live as Omar recommends—drain each day's cup of happiness dry; forget about tomorrow?

"If only home conditions were better maybe I might overcome this weakness which I am now displaying. After a hard day's work one comes home to continuous arguments based upon lack of finances. Wonder what on earth this life of ours is all about! Just a struggle, an ugly nightmare, with death the only relief.

"Lecture me through your column, Doris. Give me an awful word thrashing. Don't spare me—it may be the thing needed to make me snap out of it. Thanks, lots."

Feel better now, Anonymous? Just thought I'd give you a chance to get it out of your system so you could get a fresh start with the clearer view of a lady who has made mistakes but needn't succumb to them.

Food Talk.

Neither disparaging remarks nor funny jokes can change the food value or our liking for prunes. Merrily on they go being consumed in greater quantities than ever and performing a wonderful service to the American dietary. Prunes have innumerable ways of adapting themselves in cooking—stewed, alone or with tart plums, oranges, lemons, apples, spices, in pies, puddings and cakes. The ill repute must be a relic of the time when the only prunes we had were the cheap poor fruit imported from Europe in barrels. Since 1890 the United States has been furnishing us with superior prunes.

The Santa Clara valley still leads in the production of the most delicious of varieties, the "prune d'agen" of France. There are many other varieties. Some are larger and have a good flavor, but none combine aromatic flavor, high sugar content (60 per cent of the dried fruit), dense fine texture and small smooth stone as do "prunes d'agen." The average yield of one tree is from 150 to 300 pounds yearly.

The finest prunes are prepared for market by the French method. They are picked by hand and dried in spent ovens. They are then packed in tins and glass jars. The aim here is to develop the sugar of the prune without changing the flavor or detracting from the fruity character. Some concerns darken the color with a harmless pigment and coat the prunes with glycerin to keep them soft.

Almost all the fruit is prepared by the California method. The prunes allowed to fall from the trees are the ripest and have the greatest sugar value. They are immersed in a mild lye solution to kill all germs, rinsed in clear water and dried in the sun. Then they are graded, cleaned in scalding water and packed for market.

Prunes are highly nutritious. They contain a large amount of easily digested sugar and are valuable as a laxative. They are a valuable source of minerals and contain an appreciable amount of vitamins A and B. Four to five medium sized prunes will yield one hundred calories.

To retain the best flavor and character prunes should be carefully prepared. Most people make the mistake of boiling them, losing much of the aromatic flavor besides splitting the skin and flesh. Then the fruit is often overcooked. The best prunes are obtained when they are cooked slowly until just tender. Soaking in warm water to cover and then cooking in the same water will shorten the cooking time. Good prunes need no sugar.

Paris Travel Coats Acquire Chic Peplums

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—All the fall fashion family, right down to the smallest member, have inherited womanliness of line and detail this season. It has been some job to endow travel and sports coats with this, but Paris dressmakers have done it without turning a hair.

The particular difficulty with travel coats is that they daren't be deprived of their comfort or immunity to wear and tear, and femininity generally means the opposite thing, clothes comfort and hard wearing qualities being classed in the mind with masculinity. The way in which Paris gets around the problem is, generally, to give traveling and sports coats waist and hiplines with ladylike curves, and to garnish the wrap lavishly with fur.

Martha and René put peplums on their travel coats—peplums hanging from a fitted waistline, and there you are with a silhouette that has nothing in common with anything boyish. It's illustrated, study it.

This coat is made of blue, mixed woolen, having an indefinite, diagonal stripe of lighter blue. Patterned tweeds aren't being used much for such coats in Paris. The fur collar, the cuffs and the bands on the peplum are made of beaver.

The upper part of this coat is fitted to the body at the sides and the crossed front closing buttons on the inside so that it stays put. At the waistline on both sides, curved, bias bands of the material emphasize the fitted in effect, and below these are huge, set in pockets under the peplum that gives the flared hipline. These pockets hold as much as a week-end bag.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Overheard.

Some time ago I attended an entertainment in a large public hall, where the music was made by an orchestra containing rather harsh horns and other wind instruments.

My escort was known as a timid and bashful young man, while I myself am quite modest and dignified.

Imagine my embarrassment therefore, when just as I exclaimed to a tone loud enough to be heard above the sound of the horns, "My, doesn't it screech!" The music stopped abruptly, leaving me to yell "screech" without benefit of protecting sound.

The astonished glances of those around me left no doubt in my mind that I had been heard by others besides my embarrassed escort.

COPPER MILLIONS OF GUGGENHEIM MOSTLY TO WIDOW

Outright Bequests Made of Eight Millions.

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—After leaving more than $8,000,000 in outright bequests and trust funds to relatives and charity, Daniel Guggenheim, copper magnate, left all his millions, of undetermined number, to his widow.

The will was filed today, naming Mrs. Florence Guggenheim, the widow, as sole executrix and trustee, with the provision that if she was unwilling or unable to serve, the testator's three brothers should replace her.

The largest bequests for which the figures were given in the will were to the three children. Harry F. Guggenheim, ambassador to Cuba, and Gladys S. Straus were given $2,000,000 outright, and M. Robert Guggenheim was left a trust of $2,000,000.

Trust funds of $250,000 each were established for Mr. Guggenheim's sisters, Mrs. Rose G. Quicke and Cora G. Rothschild, and for his niece, Mrs. Nettie G. Knox. Trusts of $50,000 each were set aside for his sisters-in-law, Mrs. Salvina S. Grant and Mrs. Caudia S. Frankel.

Foundation Provided For.

Mr. Guggenheim directed in the will that if at the time of his death the full sum of $2,500,000 had not been turned over to the Daniel Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aeronautics, which he founded, the balance should be paid on request. All the money had been paid, however, and the foundation was recently brought to a close.

The will directed that if six of his employés wished, grants should be made from the estate to aid in the education of their sons in aeronautical engineering.

Education for Young Dorrance.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—John T. Dorrance Jr., 11 year old son of the late President of the Campbell Soup company, who inherits under his father's will a quarter of an estate valued at $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, will complete a well balanced education, it was said today, before being given the opportunity to follow in his father's footsteps in business.

Young "Jack" is a student at the Montgomery school in Wynnewood, a suburb. He is preparing for college and his education will be along both classical and technical lines.

The will of Dr. Dorrance advised that the boy, his only son, be given "an opportunity to learn the business of the soup company and to demonstrate his ability to hold a position of trust in the company."

TRADE TOURISTS FIND AUGURY OF BETTER TIMES

A. of C. Party Visits 17 Illinois Cities.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Better days are ahead of Illinois business men, in the opinion of 26 members of the Chicago Association of Commerce who returned last night from a 1,200 mile good will tour of northern and central Illinois communities. In all but one city visited, it was reported, a quick survey of economic conditions produced evidences of improved business conditions.

The Chicago party was entertained by the Kankakee Chamber of Commerce yesterday noon, following which the plans of Chicago for ridding itself of crime conditions and providing for the 1933 Century of Progress exposition were explained. B. C. Getsinger, Dr. R. A. Clemen, B. H. Heide, and Thomas M. Chisholm summarized these points, as had been done in 16 other cities visited in the five day pilgrimage.

Develop New Lines.

"Kankakee business men are meeting the present business predicament in a sensible, resolute manner," declared William Kraus of the Kankakee Chamber of Commerce committee on industrial development. "New lines of merchandise are being developed here to offset the changes caused by the depression. Some of these new lines are already being marketed, while others will be introduced soon."

Mr. Kraus described the transition from an agricultural center to an industrial development that Kankakee had witnessed in the last decade. The local limestone quarries are supplying train loads of agricultural fertilizer, while factories in Kankakee produce farm machinery, textile machinery, furniture, iron and steel products, with a local creamery and truck markets reporting increasing volume of business, he said. Not a factory is idle in the city.

Greeted by Len Small.

"We in Kankakee and other downstate cities take just pride in the growth and progress of Chicago," declared Former Gov. Len Small in extending greetings to the Chicago delegation. He called attention to the constantly increasing links between Chicago and downstate through developments of hard roads. Mayor L. E. Beckman and W. A. Speicher, president of the Kankakee Chamber of Commerce, also welcomed the party and urged the tourists to revisit Kankakee.

DRY AGENT OVER WHOM CURTIS AND CAMPBELL WARRED IS DISMISSED

Pittsburg, Kas., Oct. 3.—(AP)—William M. Joerling, special federal prohibition investigator, today announced the discharge of Willis A. Buck, an enforcement agent, storm center of a recent controversy between Vice President Curtis and Maj. Maurice Campbell, former New York prohibition director. Buck, who had been a federal agent for several years was dismissed Sept. 30, Mr. Joerling said.

In copyrighted articles in New York newspapers recently Maj. Campbell charged that Vice President Curtis used his political influence to retain Buck in the prohibition service after Buck had been charged with manipulating his expense account.

The Vice President said he had interceded for Buck only after he learned that members of the Kansas congressional delegation favored his retention.

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 3.—The pomp and splendor of the old imperial days was witnessed today at the funeral of Field Marshal Prince Leopold of Bavaria, son-in-law of Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria, brother of the last king of Bavaria, and one of Germany's most notable military leaders during the world war.

President Von Hindenburg, in a field gray uniform, followed his old comfrade in arms to his last resting place, walking beside Princess Gisela, the widow. Numerous members of the former German and Austrian royal families in glittering array and generals in full uniforms, blazing with decorations, attended.

An infantry battalion and a battery of field artillery preceded the gun carriage through the main thoroughfares of the Bavarian capital. Cardinal Archbishop Faulhaber officiated. Three salvos were fired, the flags of the old Bavarian army dipped, and muffled drums rumbled as the casket was lowered into the family vault where 28 members of the royal Bavarian family rest, while airplanes with mourning streamers circled above the church.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 3. — With an excess wheat crop for the first time in years, the French government today took measures to prevent Russian wheat dumping. Henceforth soviet products such as cereals, meat, eggs, sugar, pepper, lime, gelatin and glue will require import licenses.

The cabinet decided on this measure today to protect the price of French wheat, which is estimated as nearly sufficent to meet the requirements of home consumption.

American Ambassador Walter E. Edge was assured today during a two hour conference with the French minister of commerce, Pierre-Etienne Flandin, that France is ready to put a stop to the soviet wheat dumping within its territory, thus aiding the American efforts to prevent the soviet unloading.

"No Economic War."

An official statement issued tonight by the ministry of agriculture says France has no intention of declaring a commercial or economic war on Russia, but says with equal force:

"The Russian dumping is dangerous and unhealthy because it effectively favors speculation. No one will be surprised, and least of all the soviet government, that France desires to control the Russian importations inasmuch as the soviet government on its side strictly controls by its monopoly all importations and exportations to and from Russia."

DOCTOR'S WIFE TRIES SUICIDE IN LOOP HOTEL

Mrs. Nancy Ford, 25 years old, wife of Dr. William Ford, Rockford physician, from whom she has been separated since last May, was in a critical condition last night at the Iroquois hospital after what police believe to have been a suicide attempt. She was found unconscious in her room at the Palmer house by a maid, having registered there Thursday afternoon. Dr. Edwin Walker at the hospital said she had swallowed about 150 grains of a sleeping potion.

Identification was made from a name and address scribbled on note paper found on a bureau by police. From John Pedderson, attorney for both Dr. and Mrs. Ford, it was learned that each had filed counter suits for divorce, charging cruelty, several months ago. Mrs. Ford had attempted to kill herself once before, according to the lawyer. It was also learned in Rockford that Mrs. Ford had made out her will two days ago, leaving a $25,000 estate in her own name to Dr. Ford. Mr. Pedderson said the couple met in Chicago on Thursday, possibly in an attempt at reconciliation.

WILDCATS OPEN GRIDIRON SEASON AGAINST TULANE

GREEN WAVE TO TEST POWER OF PURPLE ATTACK

| NORTHWESTERN. | | TULANE. |
|---|---|---|
| Baker | L. E. | Dalrymple |
| Riley | L. T. | McCance |
| Woodworth | L. G. | Bodenger |
| Clark | C. | Roberts |

| Fencl | R. E. | Holland |
| Russell | Q. B. | Dawson |
| Bruder | L. H. | Zimmerman |
| Rentner | F. B. | Felts |

Northwestern's Wildcat's will endeavor to calm Tulane's big Green Wave at Dyche stadium this afternoon in one of the important intersectional games of the day. A crowd of 30,000 will witness the clash which inaugurates the 1930 schedule for the Purple. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

The team from Dixie is expected to provide a thorough test for the titular ambitions of the Wildcats. Coach Bernie Bierman's eleven, holder of the Southern conference championship, gave indications of its prowess in an 84 to 0 victory over Southwestern Louisiana institute last Saturday.

Tulane President Attends.

A large following of Tulane rooters accompanied the team on the long jaunt from New Orleans. A. B. Dinwiddie, president of Tulane university, was a member of the party. Alumni headquarters have been established at the Sherman hotel.

In yesterday's workout at Dyche stadium the Southerners appeared as a formidable aggregation. With the exception of tackles the veteran Green line will match the Purple in weight. The back field lacks the services of last year's stars but Coach Bierman has a quartet of speedy backs who will be counted upon to carry the Green wave to a repetition of its 1925 victory over the Purple.

Purple Backs Rugged.

Tulane is expected to match Northwestern's power attack with a running game and frequent use of the forward pass. Coach Bierman, who starred as a full back at Minnesota in 1913-'14-'15, is famous throughout the south for the speed and shiftiness of his ball carriers.

Northwestern's hopes of turning back the visitors will center on a powerful set of backs who may prove too rugged for their opponents. Capt. Hank Bruder will be back in the lineup for the first time since the Wisconsin game a year ago. He will probably carry much of the offensive burden for the Purple both as ball carrier, kicker and passer.

Bagshaw, Former Washington Grid Coach, Drops Dead

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Enoch W. Bagshaw, former University of Washington foot ball coach, dropped dead tonight, apparently from a heart attack.

ENOCH BAGSHAW.

He had been state supervisor of transportation since his retirement six months ago as head foot ball coach at the University of Washington.

Known as "the Little Giant" during his football activities, Bagshaw, after years of effort, piloted the Huskies to their first Pacific coast football championship in 1925. He resigned under fire following the 1929 season when alumni and students demanded his dismissal. He was replaced by Jimmy Phelan of Purdue.

LOYOLA BEATEN BY GEORGETOWN ELEVEN, 16 TO 6

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Georgetown's fast running and passing attack was too much for Loyola last night and the Chicago eleven went down to a 16 to 6 defeat. Ten thousand spectators assembled in the north side stadium.

The eastern team showed a clean cut superiority both offensively and defensively, making 18 first downs to Loyola's 10. But the Chicago boys threatened repeatedly and showed to their best advantage during the third quarter when a whirlwind attack which started on their own 23 yard line came to a climax as Ted Connelly plunged over for a touchdown.

Georgetown Scores on Pass.

Georgetown was not slow in showing that it meant business. Soon after the game started the eastern boys marched from their own 40 yard line to Loyola's 20 yard stripe. Here they were halted at line attempts, so Maccees passed to Scalzi for a touchdown. Scalzi kicked goal and the score was Georgetown, 7; Loyola, 0.

The next quarter was scoreless, but early in the third period Georgetown increased its lead, when Scalzi drop kicked a goal from the 30 yard line.

Loyola Marches 77 Yards.

Loyola came right back with its 77 yard march to a touchdown. After two plunges, Walsh got loose on an end around play and galloped to Georgetown's 31 yard line. Furches swung around left end for eight yards and then Molloy came back around the other wing for another eight. Furches slanted off tackle to the six yard line and four plunges put it over.

Georgetown got the break which led to the last score when Drugay fumbled on his own 36 yard line. With Bozek and Danieu doing most of the ball carrying, the easterners worked down to the one yard line and Danieu went across to make the score 16 to 6. Scalzi's try for point was blocked. The lineup:

| McNeil | R. E. | Brennan |
| Clancy | R. T. | Anderson |
| Nolan | R. G. | Brickman |
| Wassco | C. | Morris |
| Poppelreiter | L. G. | Dubofsky |
| Lutzenkirchen | L. T. | Slezak |
| Weimer | L. E. | Leavey |
| T. Connelly | Q. B. | Scalzi |
| Howland | R. B. | Mooney |
| Molloy | L. B. | Maccees |
| Smith | F. B. | Gillis |

Substitutions: Loyola—Ployhart for Howland; Walsh for Weimer; Durkin for Ployhart; Furches for Durkin; Drugay for Smith; Dadler for Molloy; Norton for McNeil; McClellan for Connelly.

Maroons Open Season with Double Header

The thirty-ninth team of a series turned out by A. A. Stagg at the University of Chicago makes its debut this afternoon at 1:45 p. m. on Stagg field in a double header engagement with Ripon and Hillsdale. The Old Man's complicated "flanker" play, made famous in the romp over Washington in the last game of the season in 1929 will be displayed in its 1930 model despite the presence of Wisconsin scouts in the stands. Stagg plans to hold nothing back, for he must test the "flanker" in all its variations for the Badger game next week-end and he figures scouting will not be much help because of the many possibilities of the formation.

The Old Man regrets the double assignment today, as there is a great scarcity of capable linemen in the Midway squad. As a result, if both Ripon and Hillsdale prove as formidable as they appear on paper, he will have to juggle a few stars about, giving each man a long siege of activity in both encounters.

Capt. Erret Van Nice, backbone of the Maroon offense, will not be in the lineup due to an injured side that has not completely healed, but the rest of the Chicago backs are ready to go. Paul Stagg, Walter Knudson, and Joe Temple, three veterans from last year, will start against Ripon, with Don Birney, a rapidly developing sophomore, expected to fill the vacant captain's place. Lou Kanne, a reserve last season and the best kicker Stagg has, probably will pilot the second back field against Hillsdale, with Stackley and Wallace, two sophomores, and Gaber, a 1929 reserve, completing that group of ball carriers.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 3.—Thirty-three players, their coaches, managers and trainers arrived here today from Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex. Tomorrow morning another special train will bring in a load of rooters who believe that tomorrow afternoon Southern Methodist will be the third football team ever to defeat Notre Dame on its own field.

Twenty-five thousand are expected to watch Notre Dame open its season against the Mustangs. They will be the first of many thousands who will see Notre Dame play in its new $700,000 stadium.

Stadium Seats 55,000.

Gray brick walls inclose one of the finest athletic structures in the west. It is purely a football stadium. No cinder running track or baseball diamond detracts from its concise outlines. The rows of benches rise high on all sides from the concrete boxes and are flanked at each end with tabular scoreboards. The capacity is 55,000.

The Methodists arrived after a leisurely journey, broken yesterday in St. Louis for practice at Washington university. Baylor university of Waco, Tex., which engages Purdue at Lafayette tomorrow, accompanied the Methodist team on the trip from Dallas.

Ray Morrison, S. M. U. coach, will start a team of veterans. Six men, including Full Back Ira Hopper, are playing their third season, and the other five regulars are second year men. Possessing an intricate passing attack, the Southern Methodist threat has caused Knute Rockne to devote a week to plans for defense.

Mullins Outranks Savoldi.

The loss of Frank Leahy, veteran left tackle who was expected to stabilize the new men on his side of the line, increased the uncertainty of performance. A knee injury will keep Leahy off the team for two weeks. Excepting Edwin Kosky at left end, the linemen are experienced, but their experience has been with the reserves.

The effectiveness of the back field may be tempered by the line's faults. Frank Carideo, Marty Brill, and Larry Mullins, who continues to be Rockne's choice of full backs despite Joe Savoldi's improvement, need no introduction. Neither does Marchmont Schwartz, now regular left half, and should Schwartz falter, Mike Koken, one of the coming stars, and Bernie Leahy are ready. And later on, you'll hear from Nick Lukats, a sophomore from Froebel High, Gary, Ind.

Mickey Walker Knocks Out Canadian Champion in 4th

DOWN—AND OUT OF SIGHT

Try to find the ball carrier! King, quarter back, and big gun of the Drake football eleven, went down on the 20 yard line in the first quarter of last night's game with the University of Oregon at Soldiers' field. A mass of Oregon players made sure he would go no farther. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

OREGON DEFEATS DRAKE IN BATTLE OF NOMADS, 14-7

BY FRENCH LANE.

Night football was introduced to Chicago in a big way at Soldiers' field last night when the University of Oregon team came from behind in the last two minutes of play and beat Drake university of Des Moines, 14 to 7.

Soldiers' field appeared almost deserted when only 12,000 turned out to see the game. Flood lights played upon the green turf so strongly that the struggle was as easy to follow as if it had been played at 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Drake band whooped it up at every opportunity. Cheer leaders tried to rouse the spectators into nine rahs for old Drake or for Oregon, and there was a gorgeous display of fireworks, but for some reason or other it didn't seem just like a genuine college football game, except for the spectacular finish that was provided.

Passes Go Wild.

Drake battled Oregon through the first quarter and for a greater part of the second period almost on even terms.

Wild passes—tosses of every variety from lateral to the long heaves—were hurled, but few were completed. Maybe it was the lights, perhaps it was the excitement, or it might have been the big city color that frightened the boys from Iowa and Oregon so much they could not hurl or catch the ball consistently.

Oregon, coached by Clarence Spears, formerly of Minnesota, pounded away at Drake during the first quarter in Drake territory, but could not score. Oregon was within 10 yards of a touchdown five minute after the game started, but Drake broke up two Oregon passes and stopped them on two plays off tackle.

Late in the second quarter there was a break. After an exchange of punts Drake had the ball on its 35 yard line. A pass, King to Bradley, took the ball to Oregon's 4 yard line. Then came a lateral pass, King to Van Koten, and the latter carried it over for a touchdown, and then place kicked the goal.

Oregon Ties Score.

Oregon started that Spears battering and bruising game as the second half opened. In four straight first downs they carried the ball to Drake's 10 yard line. Then on a wide end run Watts scored a touchdown. Kitzmiller, star of this Oregon drive, kicked the goal from placement, to tie the score.

It was about even for both teams

Yes, Fans, Overconfidence Can Do a Lot of Harm to Ball Club

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

En Route to St. Louis, Aboard World Series Special, Oct. 3.—As we speed on our way en route westward from Philadelphia to St. Louis, where the world series classic will be resumed, I have been devoting a great deal of serious thought to what has happened since the beginning of the current blue ribbon event of the national game.

Before going any further I want to impress on one and all of you fans that we are confident, but not overconfident.

There is a great distinction there, one which I learned very early in my life.

"Pat" Was a Great "Fan."

In my home town there used to be a saloonkeeper by the name of Patrick Cahill, an old Irishman, who was a great "fan" for baseball and other sporting events of all kinds. Now, while I never drank, smoked, or chewed in any way, shape or form, I used to go to Cahill's saloon to meet some of my followers and friends, including some, I am forced to admit, who drank, smoked, and chewed in every way, shape and form.

Now, Patrick Cahill, whom we used to call "Pat" or "Paddy" for short, was a very philosophical old fellow, and a very smart man in a crude way, and many were the witty sayings that he used to "get off" right off the bat, without thinking, while serving his customers with beer, whisky, gin, or, in some cases where people preferred them, mixed drinks.

I might say just here that I do not go into saloons any more nowadays, believing them to be illegal and being a great believer in all the laws of the land, right or wrong; but in the days that I am speaking about it was not illegal, and, moreover, the beer, whisky, and gin of those days were of a wholesome character, whereas the liquor you are likely to get onawadays you can never tell what you are getting, or so I understand, as I never touch it myself. Mind you, I am not narrow minded and I am for personal liberty, but I just do not care for intoxicating stimulants, and every man to his own taste is my "motto."

Watch Those Nickels.

Now, to get back to Cahill's, or "Paddy's," as we always called it, I never will forget the time when I went in there this night. I do not know just what prompted "Paddy" to make his remark, but he was stooping down to pick up a nickel from under the duckboards, which were a kind of platform that they used to have behind the bars, and when he straightened up he fixed me with a shrewd twinkle and said: "Faith, take care of the nickels and the dollars will take care of ye."

That started me thinking, because I had never been very careful of my nickels. I used to like to talk to him because two heads are better than one. For example, the shrewdest thing he ever said in his life and a thing which I have often remembered and applied to the problems of my career, was when he said one night, "Never get overconfident; too much confidence sometimes is as bad as no confidence at all."

I don't know what put me in mind of this today, but as I have been riding westward, speeding en route to St. Louis, the gateway of the great southwest, I was wondering what the future had in store for us. Will we come out of this series champions of the world or will we just be "second best"? Mind, you, it is not that I

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 3. — The St. Louis Cardinals, who have been doing some world series baseball playing, more or less, in Philadelphia, returned home just in time for lunch this noon. They were greeted by what the home authors described as "a small but enthusiastic gathering."

Members of the band which led the National league fellows to the depot less than a week ago were tooting elsewhere or not at all. The novelty peddlers were stuck with bushels of confetti and many gross of noise making devices.

No Organized Greeting.

There was no organized greeting and in the evening there was nary a waffle supper or ice cream social for the returning valiants. St. Louis is like that, at least when it comes to baseball.

At about the same time the Philadelphia Athletics got in town. Their greeting was at least equal to that received by the Cardinals, but nothing special, there being only about 300 American league fans in St. Louis. Some times all 300 can be at a Browns' game during the regular season, but there was no reason to expect the entire American league following would be at the depot today.

The foregoing is meant merely as comment on St. Louis fandom, and is not intended as a slight on what they still are calling the great fall classic.

When the Cardinals got off their special they paused briefly for interviews and lived up to all traditions in re the never-say-die spirit. Some of the men crossed up their ghosts rather terribly, the ghosts being on another train some five hours back of the players' special.

Rhem Calls A's Good.

For instance, Flint Rhem, the Charley Ross of baseball, came right out and said the Athletics know how to play baseball and that they were a group of very severe batsmen. This was flagrant violation of Cardinal ghost writing rules, the theme heretofore being that the Athletics were just a bunch of lucky stiffs.

Manager Gabby Street wouldn't make a statement in the absence of his ghost, other than to repeat the announcement that Wild Bill Hallahan will pitch tomorrow and is counted upon to lead the Red Birds out of darkness.

Mr. Street now figures that Hallahan is a cinch to win tomorrow and that Grimes will win Sunday. That will make the series even. So Syl Johnson nor Jim Lindsey or Jess Haines will come right back Monday and win. The series will be resumed in Philadelphia next Wednesday with Hallahan available to pitch and win the deciding game.

Scribe Won't Argue.

This rotation thing works out perfectly, mathematically, and who are we to pick a fallacy in the plan, such as the possibility that maybe the Cards won't take three straight on their home lot?

Cubs, 12; White Sox, 1. Those were the figures in the third game of the city series played at Wrigley field yesterday before 21,000 spectators.

Figures in this instance are inadequate to tell of a game of heavy bludgeoning in which brilliant fielding was interspersed with ludicrous fielding, a game in which about everything happened that can happen in baseball.

There was a home run, a player hit by batted ball, sacrifice bunts, and bunts which did not prove sacrifices; batters hit by pitched balls, a batter hitting for three bases and out by yards at the plate, and a double play. Lacking only in this baseball goulash was a balk, and probably no one thought of that. It was the Cubs' second victory of the series.

It Wasn't Faber's Day.

There is the old saw of the pitcher going to the well once too often. Possibly that was the trouble with Urban (Red) Faber, who began his spitball flinging career some time after the civil war and has maintained it since with more than average success, defeating the world champion Athletics on their last local appearance. Yesterday, however, the trouble was that batters were going to the wall too often.

Those batters hitting to the wall wore white uniforms, on the breast of which was a Cub within an encircling C. Batters not going to the wall often enough were those in blue uniforms with Chicago lettered in white across the breast and a white S on the arm.

These batters, familiarly known as White Sox, were baffled by the southpaw slants of Mr. Bud Teachout. For six innings a drooping fly over short by Reynolds was all Mr. Teachout allowed and the grand total was four hits, three of which were bunched in the seventh to enable the south siders to escape a whitewash. The Cubs hit safely eighteen times.

Wilson Gets Three Hits.

So the affair was a track meet for the Cubs and something like an old settlers' picnic for the crowd, composed mostly of home folks or north siders. Luminous in the proceeding were several Cubs besides the aforementioned Mr. Teachout. Hack Wilson, "Our Home Run Hero," who has been subjected to boos, lemons, and other left handed compliments while cavorting on the south side, drew the most generous applause among the home folks, to which he responded with three hits and two bases on balls, which constituted a 1,000 batting average back in the days when this writer was a baseball reporter instead of a pinch hitter.

Then there was Capt. Grimm. It was Charley who gave an inkling of what was to happen later in the going to the wall business when he lifted a ball just over the right field screen in the second inning, scoring

There was a welcome relief for the players of favorites when the Canyon purse, the feature race, was run at Hawthorne yesterday.

During the first four races a carnival of long shots had been in progress. Even Dark Ayr, a lowly field horse, which paid $38.08 in the mutuels, had scored a victory in the second race. Ultimate Vote, at $21.48, had won the third event, and Englewood, also at 10 to 1, had captured the fourth.

Then in the Canyon purse Jem paraded to the post with six other good route runners. Jem was the favorite at $4.62 in the mutuels. This is the same Jem which graduated from the selling plater ranks not long after rolling up a string of victories.

When Best Man led to the lower bend, the favorite players were about ready to give up all hope. "Just another one of those days when they won't run to the figures," declared one veteran favorite player.

Wins by Five Lengths.

But at the head of the stretch things began to happen. Jem came on the outside with the strongest challenge of the day. It soon carried him up on even terms with Best Man. In two more jumps Jem was out in front and was going away from the rest of them.

The race was over. Jem pulled out into a five length lead and stayed there, while the favorite players cheered. Best Man quit to a walk and was out of the money when Ladrone and Tyrol rushed on past him to claim second and third money.

The track was slow, but Jem ran his mile and 70 yards in 1:45 2-5. It was good time in such going. For a horse that is always trying to do a great deed, you've got to hand the consistency laurels to Englewood, a daughter of Supremus-Arcadia, which races in the silks of Mrs. R. Levin of Chicago.

Englewood Rallies to Win.

Chicagoans have bet on Englewood until they were blue in the face. Sixteen times she had started and never really threatened the leaders, so she had lost most of her backing when she went to the post in this 5½ furlong dash.

Rest Easy enjoyed a good lead in the early stages, with Englewood well back, so it didn't look any too good for the latter. In the final stages Englewood staged a rally. She went on past Rest Easy and held Cherry May safe in the final drive and was the winner by two lengths. In the mutuels she paid $21.72 to win. There had been a plunge on Edward R. Bradley's Blowout, but he never was among the leaders and finished far back.

PARKER ELEVEN IS 13 TO 0 VICTOR OVER HYDE PARK

Parker scored its second straight victory by defeating Hyde Park in a practice game at White City yesterday, 13 to 0. After a Parker drive from midfield had brought the ball to the Hyde Park three yard line, Bob Harper, Parker quarter back, took it over for a touchdown. He scored the second touchdown a few minutes later on a 55 yard run and added the extra point on a drop kick. Lineup:

| PARKER [13]. | | HYDE PARK [0]. |

Yes, Baseball Club Can Be Too Confident

lack confidence, not at all. I have just been wondering if I didn't have too much of it, which, as "Paddy" said that night so long ago, was just as bad as no confidence at all.

Psychology Big Factor.

I don't think I need to tell you that my boys have just the right amount of proper psychology. Psychology is one of the most important factors in any competitive situation. Without it, where would we be in the daily battle of life, which is practically the same as the battle of baseball on a larger scale?

I am mighty proud of the showing my boys have made so far. While we did make some mistakes, I am not one to hold it up against my men so long as they are giving the best they have, because it has been my policy to always try to absolutely overlook any mistake on the playing field as long as it was an honest mistake.

There is nobody impervious to mistakes, because none of us are perfect. Besides, baseball is only a game, after all, and not a matter of life and death, although sometimes it is a mighty serious thing when you are giving your all in order to not throw down your fans and all the others who have been pulling for you throughout thick and thin during the scramble for titular honors of your own league, respectively.

Why Cry Over Spilt Milk?

Now, I want to take occasion to say a few words of praise about the fine team of boys who are grappling with my fellows for world series fame and glory.

Also, let me tell you about the men on by ball club who are not known to the general public at all, and by this I mean old "Doc," our club trainer, and old Phil, our faithful box office man and traveling secretary, who has slaved and toiled like a Trojan throughout the long, hard grind, and that without recognition from the public.

It is men like this kind who go to the making up of the backbone of a perfect machine, and I mean any machine whether it is a baseball organization devoted to sport or a commercial concern out to make money.

The pitching prospects for tomorrow are rather a problem. I have been giving this a great deal of thought practically ever since I got on the train because I am in this position now. If I send in a port sider, they might come back at me with a right handed batting order, which would be more effective against a left handed flinger.

It's a Serious Problem.

On the other hand, a right handed slab artist might find himself up against an array of southpaw hitters. I don't think I need to go any further in telling you how serious this problem is, particularly at this stage of the series, with everything depending on the outcome of the games.

I will never forget when I was a young man and I saw the series of 1893 between the old Atlantics and the Pacifics on the old Highland grounds. There was a "great crowd" for those days. The stands were packed. The Atlantics sent out a left hander and a great hush went through the stands. The fans knew their baseball in those days and from somewhere off behind third base, a well known sporting character of the time, known as "Jem the Bummer" yelled out, suddenly, "Say, manager, its twenty-three, skiddoo for you."

The repartee was rough and ready in those days but the parks were smaller and the fans felt more intimate with the players. I needn't go into the result of that series. Volumes have been written about it and history will have to give the verdict.

You Must Be Very Careful.

So, in making their pitching selection, a manager has to be very careful not to make the wrong choice at the wrong time. The old saying goes that the best laid plans of mice and men do not always turn out as you think, and that applies to baseball with a vengeance.

Fans, you do not see all the problems that a manager has to contend with just by seeing the players out there on the old ball grounds in the heat of battle. It is when the manager is doping out his strategy and pitching selections, racking their brains to the very bone, before the game, that the hard part comes, but I love the old game in spite of everything for it has been good to me and I am proud to be associated with it, however humbly.

Bruins Take Lead in Play for City Title.

Stephenson, who had forced Wilson. And there was Cuyler, with a triple in the sixth, which ended the afternoon for Jim Moore, once of Little Rock, who had rescued Faber in the previous inning. Ed Walsh, son of the one time famous Moose, Nemesis for the Cubs two decades ago, finished, but still the hits and runs kept accumulating.

Interspersed in the cheery or dreary affair, according to viewpoint, were tactics which some followers of Manager Rogers Hornsby interpreted as Cubs strategy for 1931. Once the Cubs had obtained a lead of two runs and it seemed apparent that the Sox were not likely to go on a batting spree, Rogers instructed his batters to try bunting to keep the defense guessing.

The reasoning was sound. The Cubs took an additional run whenever possible, rather than a cluster, and piled up a margin against a team not likely to cut down a lead as the Athletics did in a lamentable world series game last year. If one or two were on base the Cub free swingers would go into action again and so would the scoreboard boy. Rogers evidently believes in "mixing 'em."

In the official compendium the Sox are charged with only one error. Mental aberrations are not chronicled in the box score. The south siders clearly were having an off day in judgment.

How It All Happened.

Harrowing details were about as follows: Grimm's homer, previously mentioned, gave the Cubs two in the second. Wilson's single, Stephenson's sacrifice, and Hartnett's smash off Kerr's glove into right added a tally in the fourth.

With one gone in the fifth, English singled. Faber speared Cuyler's bunt. Hack Wilson then pulled one down the right foul line on which Woody counted. That sent Faber to the showers. Wilson scored on Stephenson's single. Two more for the Cubs.

Lester Bell, who collected three safeties during the day and was hit by pitcher once in five times up, blew open the sixth with a single. Teachout bunted in front of the plate, and Tate's throw to second was too late to retire Bell. Blair forced Bell at third. Cissell bobbled English's grounder. Cuyler tripled to center, Blair and English registering, and Cuyler scored on Wilson's single.

Gabby Tossed Out at Plate.

Bell was hit by a pitched ball in the seventh. Two runs resulted from Teachout's sacrifice, Blair's double and English's single. Wilson walked and Stephenson was hit by a pitched ball in the eighth. Both scored on Hartnett's triple. Gabby was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch the hit into a homer.

The lone Sox run was scored in the seventh as the result of singles by Cissell, Kamm, and Autry, who was sent in to bat for Tate, and concluded the day with the mask and padded mitt.

Melvin Ott Marries New Orleans Teacher

New Orleans, La., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Melvin Ott, youthful outfielder of the New York Giants, and Miss Mildred Wattigny, a friend since childhood, were married tonight. They left immediately for a tour of the west. Miss Wattigny has been a public school teacher here.

OLD TIMERS TO MEET.

A special meeting of the Old Timers' Baseball association will be held at the Great Northern hotel at 8 o'clock tonight to make plans for the association's twelfth annual banquet and reunion.

Bush Nominee as Cub Hurler; Sox May Use Thomas

Guy Bush is the caucus nominee as hurler for the Cubs in the fourth game of the city series today. Sox strategists were inclined to pick Thomas or Braxton, although some thought Donie Bush should "shoot the works" and come back with Ted Lyons, who set down the north siders in the opening battle. The Sox manager was inclined to give Lyons another day of rest and reserve him for tomorrow's encounter.

Andrew Frain's corps of ushers were alight for the occasion in freshly ironed blue uniforms with snappy trimmings. Their only complaint was that there were no more patrons to usher.

Pitcher Root of the Cubs underwent a sinus operation yesterday morning but was able to attend the game in the afternoon. Root's physician reported presence of a sinus infection which possibly was the cause of pitching disability in the last month of the season when hurlers were so badly needed.

The fourth and fifth games of the series, today and tomorrow, will be held at Wrigley field.

POWER YACHTS GO TO MILWAUKEE TO START RACE

Two large power yachts, the Mizpah and the Doris, which will race tomorrow from the Milwaukee Yacht club to the Chicago light, at the foot of Monroe street, will go to Milwaukee today to await the start of the contest.

Commander Eugene McDonald's entry, the Mizpah, measures 185 feet in length and is powered with twin Diesel engines. Twenty-seven men comprise the crew. The Doris, a smaller and lighter boat owned by William Hofnauer, requires 17 men to keep it in racing trim.

Captains of the rival boats reported decks cleared for action last night. All unnecessary gear has been stripped off and fuel in the tanks has been reduced to the minimum needed for the course.

Both the Mizpah and Doris have turned in speeds of 17 knots an hour in test trips and are expected to exceed that figure tomorrow.

BOWEN HEAVIES AND LIGHTS BEAT JOLIET ELEVENS

OHIO STATE AND HOOSIERS OPEN BIG TEN SEASON

Page Is Disgruntled by Practice Ruling.

Columbus, O., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Ohio State and Indiana will open the official Western Conference 1930 football season tomorrow when they meet in the Ohio stadium here. The Buckeyes and Hoosiers are the only Big Ten schools playing each other, all others being engaged with nonconference opponents.

Pat Page, Indiana coach, brought three complete teams into Columbus this morning, and with him came a grievance in which he said the practice season rules of the conference are unfair, especially to Indiana.

"Indiana's football team is far behind Ohio State and most every other school in the conference in team development," Page said, "because at Indiana classes open Sept. 15, the day practice sessions are started.

"On the other hand, Ohio State, for instance, opens classes on Oct. 1 and in this time between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1, they have two weeks of unmolested practice, two sessions a day."

ILLINI FACE IOWA STATE

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The untried University of Illinois football team has been assigned the task of opening its season here tomorrow against a veteran Iowa State team which greatly outweighs it in the line.

Ott Hills will be the only Illinois letter man in the starting lineup unless Coach Zuppke decides to start Pete Yanuskus, who has been out with an injured elbow. Hills will be acting captain in the absence of Capt. Robinson, who is injured.

Noel Workman, Iowa State coach and former Ohio State player, said today that he had a better squad this year than he has ever had at the Ames school, and that is a conclusive statement, for in 1927 Workman brought a team to Champaign which tied the champion Illinois team.

PURDUE MEETS BAYLOR

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Purdue's Big Ten champions will get their first test of the season here tomorrow when the Boilermakers tackle the Baylor Bears in an intersectional game. Coach Morely Jennings and his Southwest conference squad arrived here this afternoon in time for a workout in the Ross-Ade stadium.

Noble Kizer, Purdue coach, who will direct the Boilermakers for the first time tomorrow, intends to take no chances on untried material against Baylor, judging from his probable starting lineup. Only one sophomore is listed on the starting eleven.

Four of the seven linemen were stars of the 1929 team that kept every Big Ten team except Michigan from scoring, while in the back field will be Alex Yunevich and Jack White, two of last year's "four riveters," supported by Lewis Pope and Purvis.

BADGERS PLAY 2 GAMES

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Two stars of last year's Wisconsin freshman team, John Schneller of Neenah, Wis., and Buckets Goldenburg of Milwaukee, will get their first taste of varsity football tomorrow when the Badgers open the season against Lawrence and Carleton colleges tomorrow at Camp Randall.

Varsity players are expected to be divided equally for the Carleton and Lawrence games. A number of the letter men will be beginning their third year with the Badgers.

The Lawrence team left Appleton tonight for Madison. Two men who were injured in the Marquette game last Saturday are ready for action. They are Paul Fischl, co-captain and half back, and Bob Phenecie, an end.

MICHIGAN BATTLES STATE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Michigan and Michigan State will renew gridiron hostilities here tomorrow afternoon with both teams virtually at full strength and apparently so nearly equal that it is hard to predict the winner. About 30,000 are expected to see the game, which is regarded as a battle for the state championship.

Both the Spartans and Wolverines went through final drills in the stadium this afternoon, each doing some punting and passing and winding up with signal practice.

Al Brown and Gene Huat Fight Tonight for Crown

PARIS, France, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Al Brown, the Panama Ghost, and Gene Huat of France will meet tomorrow night in a twelve round bout described here as a battle for the bantamweight championship of the world. Brown is recognized as the present champion by the majority of the American boxing commissions and other fistic bodies.

Louise Fordyce Wins Berthellyn Golf Cup

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., today won the Berthellyn golf cup by defeating Mrs. Helen B. Stetson of Philadelphia, 5 and 4.

Horrors! Can This Be True? Wrestlers Are Coming Back

BY ARCH WARD.

There is no relief, it seems, for the boys who write sport pieces for the newspapers. They just get the world series and city series under control when football breaks out in a big way. More distressing is the threat of Doc Krone, Joe Coffey, and Ed White to bring back the wrestlers as soon as the other sports quiet down.

Chicago for a long time has been without placards proclaiming that Gus Sonnenberg, the Dartmouth Dynamiter, will go to grips with Wladek Zbyszka, the terrible Pole, for the wrestling championship of the universe. No more does the picture of Daniel Koloff, the Bohemian Behemoth, clutter the windows of billiard rooms and cigar stores. And it has been years since we have seen the countenance of Kirelenko, the Ruminating Russian, glaring from the billboards on the elevated stations.

But this soon will all be changed. We have the word of Messrs. Krone, Coffey, and White. All they need, they say, is the coöperation of the sports editors, some of whom they hint are not giving the tug and grunt boys a break in the papers.

Our desk is laden with literature from the wrestling entrepreneurs. Some of it is documentary evidence that Jim Londos is the recognized heavyweight champion. There are letters from here, there and everywhere congratulating Mr. Londos for his fine showing here, there and everywhere. There is a carbon of a communication sent to Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, by Ed White, manager of Londos, which reads in part: "—herewith is my check for $10,000 to bind a match at Chicago Stadium Nov. 21 between Londos and Sonnenberg."

We have a duplicate of a message sent to Sonnenberg by Doc Krone offering the Boston wrestler $20,000 to meet Londos here. And so on and on.

All of which is very confusing in view of the fact that heavyweight wrestling has been barred in Illinois for almost a year. The big fellows scarcely have been heard from since that night last January when thousands of pounds of them gathered in the offices of the Illinois Athletic commission for one of the greatest conventions in the history of the sport.

The meeting had been called to outline an elimination contest for the championship, but it broke up in a row when Jimmy Londos and several others refused to expose themselves to the danger of being eliminated and demanded a direct meeting with Sonnenberg, generally recognized at the time as the title holder.

After the failure of this meeting the commission ruled that for the time being no more heavyweight bouts would be permitted in Illinois.

"What has heavyweight wrestling come to? Is there going to be any more in Illinois?" These questions were asked yesterday of Gen. Clinnin.

"We'll be only too glad to encourage the game," he replied, "when we have assurance that it's on the square. If the Chicago promoters wish to go ahead and arrange an elimination tournament, we'll be the last ones to stand in their way, but they must present their plans to us and satisfy us that the boys are on the up and up.

The report began with a story of one of Sonnenberg's barnstorming trips, which consisted of six matches advertised as world title bouts. The Better Business bureau stated that on all six occasions his opponent was Dan Koloff, but that Dan's name had varied from Dave Shannon in Greensboro, N. C., to Fred Gotch in South Bend, Ind.

The previous Illinois commission barred Sonnenberg on these charges, but evidence was brought before the present board to the effect that he had been suspended without a hearing. So he was reinstated with the understanding that he would defend his title in a legitimate elimination tournament. But efforts to arrange this tournament failed when last January's big convention broke up in a row.

Then the National Boxing association took up the task of determining a champion. A grand elimination was announced, and when the entries closed there were two names in the box—Jimmy Londos and John Pesek.

Just before the big match was to be held Pesek fell off a horse out in Nebraska and decided that his injuries would not permit him to go through with the encounter. So the title went to Londos by default.

At the recent meeting in Omaha the National Boxing association decided that in the future it would confine its activities to the supervision of boxing only. That left Londos with a title which no organization sanctioned.

A new group formed the National Wrestling association, made up of delegates from 14 southern states and having no connection with the N. B. A. This association refused to recognize anybody.

So there it is, folks. If there's a champion, who is he?

Washington Fines Wasters of Game Birds

BY BOB BECKER.

When a hunter kills a limit of ring necked pheasants or takes a bag limit of ducks and does not properly care for them by putting them on ice in warm weather, with the result that the birds spoil, he should be haled into court and fined for his wasting game.

This is the attitude of the state of Washington, one which may mark another definite trend toward the conservation of our diminishing supply of game birds. Sportsmen everywhere should welcome a law of this kind in the game codes of all states.

Washington has recently added this regulation aimed to make the hunter take care of his birds after he has killed them. It is a punishable offense to neglect your birds, rabbits, squirrels or what have you to the extent that they spoil. A hunter has 24 hours in which to look after the game killed. If he doesn't get busy by that time he can be haled into court and fined anywhere from $250 to $1,000.

We have a hunch that the Waltonians would like to see a similar law on the books which would take care of the fisherman who catches a big string and then lets them go to waste. Such a regulation might teach a lesson to some of the "heroes" who love to pose with 100 or 200 fish in a string, but who care so little for them that they throw 'em away after the photo is snapped. In this day of battling to produce enough fish for the pleasure of 10,000,000 fishermen and game birds to provide sport for more than 6,000,000 licensed hunters, it's no time to waste anything.

Another trend which is noticeable in a number of states is the idea of giving waterfowl a rest on certain days of the week and the banning of hunting on Sunday.

The latter ruling is already on our doorstep. For example, in Michigan there are whole counties which say no Sunday hunting. Off hand we can name Lapeer, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Sanilac, and Tuscola counties where it is illegal to hunt on Sundays. In Muskegon county there is a ruling in effect which says no shooting of game birds after 1 p. m. on Muskegon lake.

Stewart Wins Advertisers' Final Meet

Doc Stewart wound up the Western Advertisers 1930 competitive golf season with a victory yesterday over the Park Ridge course, shooting the 27 holes in 38—75—113. He was only one stroke ahead of Roscoe Fawcett, who had 40—74—114. Fawcett's 74 was the best gross of the afternoon round.

At the dinner in the evening C. D. Freeman was elected president of the golfers for next year. Hi Schuster is the new secretary.

In the low net division Schuster came in first with 128—20—108. Guy Abbott and Joe Williams both had 108, but had larger handicaps. The low gross foursome was composed of Ray Clark, Don Heinly, Jerry Seehof, and W. D. Washburn with 518, while C. M. Freeman, C. M. Sloan, H. E. Pease, and James Mason were second with 52[illegible]. Wemer Schmidt, G. H. Abbott, M. D. Stewart, and E. H. Frederick had 529, but lost in the draw.

For low net foursome Y. W. Crowel, Paul E. Faust, Malcolm McHarg, and Wallace Patterson had 445, and H. Hurlburt, H. E. Cole, C. D. Freeman, and D. D. Sperry 450. C. E. Pritchard, J. A. McKenna, J. A. Bender, and Joe Williams were third with 452. The scores for 27 holes:

Oregon Beats Drake, 14-7, in Night Game

from then until two minutes before the game ended. Oregon began another of those attacks that fairly swept the boys from Drake off their feet. A 25 yard pass, Kitzmiller to Rushlow, sent the ball to Drake's 10 yard line. Two shots off tackle with Kitzmiller carrying the ball brought six more yards. Then Kitzmiller went through tackle for a touchdown. He place kicked the goal. Oregon was leading, 14 to 7, and then the game ended.

DE PAUL MEETS BUENA VISTA ON GRIDIRON TODAY

The squad is in excellent shape with the possible exception of two injuries. It is doubtful whether Capt. Paddy Driscoll will be able to start at center, and Frank Hamilton will be out for at least another week. Both were hurt in scrimmage along with Matt Grabowski, sophomore tackle.

O'Connor and Coan, ends; Barskis and Cherne, tackles; Cowhey and Borrelli, guards; Gilbertson, center; Kingsland, quarter; Harrington and Hartman, half backs; and either Stafford or McGivern, full back.

Cassellas Butcher and Steffen are also possible starters at half back. Passing has been the chief item in the De Paul workouts of the past week, with Steffen and Butcher hurling.

The Most Expensive Leather

We are featuring today on our "COMPARE SHELF" in all Regal Windows, Bartley's $23.04 Original Genuine Wax Calf London Town Shoe, side by side with the Regal Reproduction for $6.60.

Bartley says that "due to expense of preparing this leather, its use has been largely confined to the exclusive Bespoke Bootmakers of the West End of London."

But this season we will spread the use of Genuine Wax Calf from the West End of London to the West Coast of America. This shoe is one good illustration of how far we are willing to go to prove to you how much Value can be built into a Regal Shoe for $6.60.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET SHOWS IMPROVED TONE

Insull Shares at Head of Forward Movement.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

While no spectacular gains were scored, stocks on the Chicago board showed a better tone throughout yesterday's trading. A growing feeling that business is in for better times, which was fortified by President Hoover's speech at Cleveland, accounted in part for the improved showing.

The President's speech was not any signal for any wild activity on the part of buyers, but the fact remains that the sentiment in the brokerage houses and in the street generally is improving. The pessimism engendered by the stock market's trend in the last few weeks is abating.

Score Good Gains.

Insull shares were in the van of the forward movement in prices. Good gains were made by Commonwealth Edison and Insull Utility, while Middle West crossed 25 on a good volume of sales.

The selling in Majestic diminished and the issue was able to accomplish a partial recovery from the year's low which it set on the previous day. During the fore part of the day the stock sold above 15, but its gain was later cut and it finished at 13½. Grigsby turned over in smaller lots and held steady above 7.

Among the specialties the best showings were made by Swift International and Electric Household. The latter stock climbed back to 39½ and Swift sold up to 34⅝.

Motor shares were inclined to be backward in joining the advance, but the close found most of them slightly above Thursday's closing prices. Noblitt Sparks was an exception, selling off more than a point on transactions of a few hundred shares.

Leath & Co. Income Drops.

In a letter sent to stockholders of Leath & Co., E. R. Pahnke, treasurer of the company, says that operations of the company in the twelve months ended July 12 resulted in a loss of slightly less than $1,000, after inventory and other adjustment of about $50,000. In the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, the company earned $476,736, equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.83 a share on the common stock.

The balance sheet as of July 12 showed current assets of $3,390,129 and current liabilities of $660,480. Cash resources were larger than on the corresponding date a year ago. Inventories were reduced by more than $160,000 from the July, 1929, figure.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Egg futures crashed to record lows on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday, the November and December deliveries reacting below 23c for the first time in the history of trading on the exchange. Short covering brought in fractional gains at the close. November ended at 22½@22⅝c after touching 22⅜c, the close being ⅝@¾c off from the previous close. December closed at 22⅞c, off ⅝c.

Butter futures also plunged downward, November being within a fraction of the year's low at 35⅞c. November butter closed at 36⅛c, and December at 36¼c, both off ⅝c. An accumulation of bearish news was responsible for the heavy selling drive in eggs. Storage reports continue bearish, the day's report from the four markets showing 7,500 cases less out than a year ago. Sales: Butter, November, 266 cars; December, 108 cars. Eggs, November, 353 cars; December, 25 cars. Receipts: Butter, 5,332 tubs; eggs, 8,947 cases. Prices follow:

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

"For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named; that He would grant you, according to the riches of His glory to be strengthened with might by His Spirit in the inner man; that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God."—Ephesians iii., 14-19.

Business Leaders Approve Speech.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Leaders in business and industry yesterday gave hearty approval to President Hoover's condemnation of the current psychology of fear in his address in Cleveland before American bankers on Thursday night. They joined with the President in insisting that business is recovering and that depression is merely a temporary setback in American economic progress.

Chicago bankers and business men, the New York and Chicago brokerage houses and heads of several big industrial concerns commented on the Cleveland speech as coming at an opportune time to dispel pessimism and lead to a more reasonable and cheerful appraisal of the business situation.

"Business has been in a state of suspended animation," Phillip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust company of Illinois, said. "We need to get fear out of our system. We can lead the world in recovery and if we show courage and confidence, the results will be in proportion."

Called "Good Common Sense."

"President Hoover's speech was good common sense," David R. Forgan, vice chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, commented. "Recovery will come when it is due and probably without any great and sudden changes that everybody can recognize. I believe recovery is due now."

"As I see it, the remedy for depression is to go to work and furnish supplies and services at reasonable cost," Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank urged. "The work at hand is the best remedy."

"An upturn is in sight, but just in sight, and that is about all that can be said," C. B. Smith, president of the Stewart-Warner corporation, said. "This country is strong enough in a business way to make progress, and the indications point to a gradual progress toward normal. But there is no indication of an immediate boom."

"Many merchants are losing business which might easily be had," Frederick H. Scott, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., says in the magazine of the Chicago Association of Commerce. "Fear has lost many sales, for all too many merchants have been over-cautious about supplying their needs for a reasonable length of time, delaying purchases in expectation of lower prices."

Agree on Improvement.

While the weekly mercantile reviews appearing yesterday were cautious in tone, yet they again agreed that mild improvement is taking place.

"The seasonal rise in industrial activity is still irregular and uncertain," the Business Week says, "but in general trade and in building it is more definite. Further improvement during October is fairly certain, but without a sudden and decisive change in business psychology and banking policy it is difficult to see from what source to expect trade to gather sufficient momentum in the next six weeks to carry us through the winter on to higher and firmer ground next year."

"The final quarter of an unsettled year begins with widespread and vigorous commercial revival still deferred, although not without some indications of seasonal gain," Dun's review says. "There is, however, a naturally improved status in the retail field under the stimulus of autumn requirements. An equilibrium in commodity prices is yet to be reached, particularly in the great agricultural staples."

Bradstreet's review remarks that trade this week "hardly measured up to anticipations, based on the arrival of real shopping weather," and that September, although showing improvement over July and August, "left much over which to be desired in the way of definite seasonal trade and industrial advancement."

Auto Trade Outlook.

Automobile dealers generally expect business during the present quarter will show considerable improvement over retail sales during the last quarter of 1929, Automotive Industries says. Dealers agree that business is generally on a foundation firm enough to reflect increased car sales.

An optimistic outlook for the bond market this fall—confirmed by a definite increase in actual bond sales during September—is reflected in reports from leading investment dealers throughout the country compiled in the monthly investment review of Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers.

The review stated that about 50 per cent of the nation's bond dealers reported retail distribution of bonds in September as normal or above normal, and less than 4 per cent were pessimistic as to the outlook for the autumn months. At the same time there was an increase of 7 per cent in the volume of new bond issues offered.

Phillips Petroleum Co. to Sign Producers' Code

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The American Petroleum institute announced today that the Phillips Petroleum company, the only large producing company which had not signed the producers' national code for marketing refined products, had accepted the provisions of the code and would sign immediately. The decision was announced by Frank Phillips, president of the company, in a letter to W. R. Boyd Jr., executive vice president of the institute. Mr. Boyd expressed the opinion that this action forecast signature of the code by the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, which recently withdrew.

Output Cure Is Sought in Co-op Set-Up

BY SCRUTATOR.

Makers of full fashioned hosiery and their customers, the retailers, are attempting something that goes beyond what trade associations heretofore have found it possible to do. They want to organize the business of furnishing socks and stockings to the public in a form that approximates a stock or grain exchange.

The experiment is novel in that retailers and wholesalers are admitted on about the same terms as manufacturers. Most of the 8,000 trade associations in the United States are devoted to correcting evils and bettering conditions for manufacturers, with the relationships of their customers only incidental.

"This Full Fashioned Hosiery exchange," said Julian Armstrong of Chicago, director of organization, "will be a clearing house of information to the whole trade. We want retailers and wholesalers to know what they should pay for hosiery as much as we want manufacturers to know what the goods should sell for. When we know the stocks in the hands of various manufacturers we will be able to show buyers where to go for the best and most timely service.

In Chaotic Condition.

"At present conditions in this 300 million dollar industry are chaotic. There are no standard grades through the whole trade. Except for the bigger manufacturers, representing about half the production, who make and keep to their own standards, there are none with whom a buyer can deal except on a basis of looking at the goods and determining for himself what the price should be.

"It would result in about the same condition in securities if we closed the stock exchanges and all the brokers started selling stocks and bonds for whatever he could get for them at a time when over-production is great. We want to adopt standardization of grades so that a contract for a hundred dozen pairs of a certain class stocking will mean as much as a contract to purchase a thousand bushels of No. 2 December wheat."

Some 300 mills are in the full fashioned industry. Important centers are Pennsylvania, the southeast and the middle west. More than a hundred of these, or about 60 per cent of the mill capacity, have subscribed to the plan. Marshall Field & Co. and Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. are among the distributors who have aided in underwriting the plan.

Distress Selling.

The machines in existence are capable of turning out 30 per cent more hosiery than the public normally wants. As things now are, goods are made up without the trade knowing anything about stocks on hand generally, with much distress merchandise being sold at what it will bring.

To correct this, the exchange plans to make arrangements for buying this merchandise in when advisable and disposing of it through channels that will not disrupt the usual ones. Mr. Armstrong stated that no effort would be made to establish prices, but that the legal dissemination of price information would act to deter firms from selling much below the market and from overproducing when stocks were on hand.

It remains to be seen whether a cooperative setup of people with such divergent interests can be brought together. It could not have been done ten years ago, nor could it have been done in a time of prosperity, when prospects appeared good and stocks were being piled up. If such an effort can succeed, and other industries can follow, a practical way may be found to stop the overproduction that is always the forerunner of sharp depression.

Britishers Take Out Big Life Insurance Policies

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Heavy taxation and large death duties are causing Britishers to take out huge life insurance policies. It is revealed that Lord Hambledon, head of the publishing and distributing firm of W. H. Smith & Son, in the last few days has effected life insurance amounting to $4,050,000, which is believed to be the largest insurance ever taken on the life of a single individual in Great Britain.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Miami Copper Dividend.

Miami Copper directors are scheduled to meet Monday for dividend action. The last reduction left the stock on an annual basis of $1.50, but the current price suggests a yield of about 19 per cent which, of course, means another reduction. Miami is not tied up in any export or domestic selling agreement, but it nevertheless finds the present price of the metal unprofitable.

Technicolor Declins.

The recent decline in Technicolor, which carried the stock more than 75 points below the high of the year, is partly explainable by current estimates that production in the last few months was running sharply below output in the earlier part of the year. It is stated that production of films might taper down to 3,000,000 feet or less in December. Earnings of the corporation are now believed to be running well under the rate established in the first quarter of 1930.

Club Aluminum.

At one time a spectacular performer, Club Aluminum is now one of the inactive stocks. H. J. Taylor, president, in his report to stockholders for the fiscal year ended June 30 pointed out that with present trends continuing it was believed that the company would be operating on a profitable basis before Jan. 1.

Segal Lock Holds Up.

Strength in Segal Lock has been well maintained despite current market uncertainty. Segal has been a consistent feature of the low priced group, responding to reports of improved earnings.

BROKERS' LOANS ARE LOWEST IN OVER THREE YEARS

BELIEVE NEGOTIATIONS ON AMERICAN LOAN TO HUNGARY ARE DROPPED

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Reports reaching circles close to the Bank of International Settlements say that negotiations between the Hungarian government and a large American banking firm for a loan of $15,000,000 have been discontinued. Instead, Hungary will get the money in Switzerland.

Bankers here say the Hungarian government, rightly or wrongly, had become convinced the American banking trust was trying to obtain what they call a "mortgage monopoly" on the central European grain belt.

Hungary has arranged for the loan through the Societe Internationale des Placements of Basel, a trust whose policy is to combine a large number of issues for the purpose of securing a broader basis of guarantees against risks.

This trust is not directly connected with the Bank of International Settlements, the rule by which the B. I. S. was created under the Young plan not allowing such combinations. However, one of the administrators of the local Basel placements trust is also a member of the board of directors of the B. I. S. and this is interpreted as proving there is a close cooperation between the two organizations.

The confidence of all central European countries in the B. I. S. and its efficiency in launching state loans and reorganizing state finances is said to be behind the rejection by the Hungarian government of the American bank's offer and its closing the deal with the Swiss firm.

SCHACHT AVERS GERMANY CAN'T PAY REPARATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—The flat statement that Germany cannot pay reparations, that she would be justified in asking immediately for a moratorium on all payments under the Young plan and that it is the duty of Chancellor Bruenin to give the allies "the last chance" to come to terms with Germany in a manner which would enable her to meet her obligations was made by Dr. Kjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, in an address today at a luncheon given in his honor by the Board of Trade for German-American Commerce and the Institute of International Education.

"Certainly one day a moratorium will be declared," was Dr. Schacht's prediction.

Asserting that he continued to stand by the Young plan as a step forward in the reparations problem, Dr. Schacht declared that the Young plan was not the last word in the situation, that it has been vitiated by the clause inserted at the Hague conference permitting political sanctions against Germany in the event of her default and that, at any rate, as things stood now in Germany financially and economically, she is not in a position to pay an average of two billion goldmarks annually under the plan. Pointing out that all Germany has paid on the reparations account since the adoption of the Dawes plan in 1924 has come out of foreign loans, Dr. Schacht presented figures intended to show that she cannot continue payments out of her budget resources.

"Since the adoption of the Dawes plan in 1924 Germany has borrowed abroad the sum of 5 billion dollars," said Dr. Schacht. "Out of this sum little above 50 per cent has been paid on the reparations account, while the other half has been used for restoring social and economic life in Germany, for readjustment of industry, for the rationalization process. All of it has certainly been usefully employed, but what the outcome will be nobody knows. Certainly rationalization has caused a great deal of unemployment, although the general standard of life of the German people has been raised to some extent. The middle classes have been ruined, however.

Electric Bond & Share Adds to Holdings

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—The Electric Bond and Share company continued to increase its common stock holdings in its five client holding companies in the first six months of the year, according to an interim report issued to stockholders today.

An additional 24,585 shares of the American Gas and Electric common were acquired, together with 23,586 shares of American Power and Light, 22,500 shares of American and Foreign Power, 57,900 shares of National Power and Light, and 22,401 shares of Electric Power and Light.

Other Holdings.

As of June 30, Electric Bond and Share owned 17 per cent of the common stock of American Gas and Electric, 30 per cent of American Power and Light common, 41 per cent of National Power and Light common, and 30 per cent of Electric Power and Light common. Holdings in American and Foreign Power common were increased to more than 50 per cent.

Net income for the twelve months ended June 30 rose to $41,095,006, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.46 a share on the outstanding common stock, from $32,511,823, or $1.97 a common share, in the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1929. For the twelve months ended March 31 earnings were equivalent to $2.14 a share.

Asset Values.

The market value at June 30, 1930, of the net assets of Electric Bond and Share company, available for the company's preferred stock was approximately $975 a share for the common stock, after deducting $100 a share for the preferred stock, was approximately $68 and after deducting $100 a share for the A share for the common. These figures compared with a market value of approximately $1,090 per share for the preferred stock and $81 per share for the common stock at Dec. 31, 1929. These decreases reflect the reduction in the market value between Dec. 31, 1929, and June 30, 1930, of the securities owned by the company.

At June 30 Electric Bond and Share held securities in companies, other than its five client holding companies and its wholly owned subsidiaries, of a market value on June 30, 1930, of approximately $141,531,458.

EXTENDS CREDIT FOR PROTECTION OF GRAIN LOANS

The Farmers' National Grain corporation, which was sponsored by the federal farm board, has advised its member cooperatives it is prepared to extend assistance on margin loans to prevent forced sale of farmers' grain holdings.

Treasurer Walter I. Beam of the corporation said the action was taken because of the apprehension among grain growers on the low prices of wheat.

"It should be clearly understood," said Beam, "that such financial aid as may be extended to protect grain loans does not even suggest a fixed price or peg loan policies.

"Grain prices are sufficiently low to make the extension of such credit reasonably safe—in view of the extreme shortage of corn and pasturage grain prices are expected to advance."

Beam said announcement made by the Northwest Growers' cooperative last Wednesday that it had received promise of this aid was premature.

"At that time," he said, "we were merely feeling out the various cooperatives on the plan." The northwest dispatch quoted officials there as saying the farm board had "virtually decided to peg prices."

BEG YOUR PARDON

S. Hale, chairman of the board of the Gleaner Combine Harvester corporation, Independence, Mo., yesterday denied a statement attributed to Alexander Legge of the federal farm board in Friday's TRIBUNE.

Legge was quoted as saying that the Baldwin company of Independence, Mo., is taking wheat in payment for farm machinery sold to Russia. Mr. Hale asserts this is not true. "We have never taken any wheat in payment for any of our products, either in the United States, Russia or any other country," he said.

STEADY BUYING KEEPS WHEAT PRICES ON RISE

Show Net Gains of 1⅞ to 2 Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

American wheat values were again on the upgrade yesterday despite weakness in Liverpool. Persistent buying by strong commission houses with eastern connections more than offset bearish influences and at the top prices in Chicago showed 2⅝c above the finish of Thursday, and 7½@8c above the inside figures of Monday. Final trades were at net gains of 1⅞@2c with December 83⅜@83½c; March, 87c, and May at 90@90⅛c.

The trade continues to be mystified by the persistent buying of wheat futures, and some of the local operators expressed the belief that there might be some truth in the recent intimations that a pool had been formed in the east to advance prices.

There was no material pressure on the wheat market except for a brief period at the opening when scattered selling developed as the result of a break of around 1½d in Liverpool. The latter rallied toward the close, however, and was off only ⅝@1d for the day. Winnipeg was inclined to drag early, but led the advance later and closed 2¼@2½c higher while Buenos Aires was up ⅞@1⅛c.

Watch Weather Developments.

Profit taking by traders who had bought lower down, and selling against offers was a factor in checking the bulge in wheat. It was not as much a case of news that is affecting the trend of the wheat market but a belief that values have been much too low. The action of France in seeking to check imports of Russian grain through a plan calling for the taking of equal amounts of French products caused favorable comment, as did the farm board notice that cooperatives who had made loans on wheat would not be forced to sacrifice the grain on account of low prices.

Weather developments in the southern hemisphere are having considerable influence on the world wheat markets. While there were rumors of rain in Australia, other cables said drought continued and the crop there was deteriorating. Argentina is also in need of moisture, although only a small part of that country is suffering at present.

There was a lack of export business in wheat during the day, bids from abroad generally being below a working basis, although it was claimed that Winnipeg did a fair business after the close on Thursday. The spot wheat basis here was steady to 1c higher with a good inquiry from mills, but sales of only 15,000 bu were reported.

No Pressure on Corn.

Local operators have taken a definite stand on the bull side of corn and there is a decided disposition to look for disappointing husking returns. Buying was rather persistent and while profit taking developed the close was at net gains of 1⅛@1⅞c, with December at 85½@85¾c; March, 87@87½c, and May at 88⅜c to 88¾@88⅞c. At the top prices showed 9⅛@10⅛c above the low on Monday.

The sensational loss in corn, hay and grain sorghums is a factor of no mean importance in shaping trade sentiment, as it is figured that the loss in hay and sorghums is equal to 300,000,000 bu corn this season, more than offsetting any quantity saved by the heaviest feeding of wheat known. Husking returns from Illinois and Iowa were reported as smaller than anticipated.

Oats advanced 1¼@1⅜c in sympathy with corn, and on local and commission house buying. December closed at 40@40⅛c, and May at 43⅜@43½c. Longs were the best sellers. Shipping sales aggregated 74,000 bu with charters for 150,000 bu to Buffalo.

Shorts were fair buyers of rye and, while trade was light, net gains of 2@2¼c were witnessed at the last with December finishing at 53½c, and May at 59¾c.

Los Angeles Gas & Electric.

Will you recommend Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation first and general 5 per cent bonds for investment by a retired business man of limited means? I enclose stamped and self-addressed envelope.—E. W. A.

Los Angeles and Electric corporation was incorporated in California in June, 1909, as a consolidation of Pasadena Consolidated Gas company and Los Angeles Gas and Electric company. It supplies 75 per cent of the gas business of Los Angeles and the entire gas business of a number of suburbs.

Both gross and net earnings have steadily increased during the last few years. Net income, available for dividends, in 1929 was $5,832,709, against $4,917,537 in 1928, $4,653,576 in 1927, and $2,875,335 in 1926. An increase in net earnings last year proportionately greater than the increase in gross reflected improvement in operating efficiency. In 1929 fixed charges were earned 4.57 times, against 4.20 times in 1928, and 3.90 times in 1927.

The $10,000,000 first and general 5s, series due 1961, which were issued in 1926 to retire existing obligations and to provide funds for additions and improvements, are secured by a direct first mortgage on real estate holdings in the county of Los Angeles, acquired to establish a principal gas manufacturing plant. They are further secured by a direct mortgage on all properties of the corporation, subject to prior liens.

Civil War Bond.

A friend of mine possesses a civil war bond [Missouri] originally for $4,000, but now with compound interest worth around $40,000. Will you kindly inform me of the status of this bond and what the prospects are of its being redeemed by the government and when?—J. P.

The Missouri legislature on March 19, 1874, passed a law entitled "An Act to Audit and Adjust the War Debt of the State." The treasurer of the state of Missouri informs us that after the passage of this act many claims were presented. Upon proof the United States government remitted to the state and the state in turn paid the claim.

"The facts are," the treasurer states, "that the federal government discovered many gross irregularities and frauds connected with these claims, and repudiated all of them, and refused to make further payment to the state. Accordingly in 1875 the people of the state adopted a new constitution, and in article 4, section 52, the repudiation of all these obligations became a part of our constitution."

Section 4 of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States provides as follows: "Neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave, but all such debts, obligations, and claims shall be held illegal and void."

Hupp Motor Omits Usual 50c Dividend

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Directors of Hupp Motor Car corporation today omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock due at this time.

Du Bois Young, president, said the action was taken "in view of the uncertain conditions prevailing in the industry and in order to maintain the strong cash position" of the company.

Richfield Omission.

The Richfield Oil company of California omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents due on the common at this time. J. A. Talbot, chairman, said that in the "interest of conservatism and in the light of present business conditions the board omitted the dividend to permit the building up of cash reserves."

Directors of the Claude Neon Electrical Products Corp., Ltd., of Delaware, have placed the common stock on a $1.40 annual basis, compared with $1 previously, by declaring a quarterly disbursement of 35 cents. A 2 per cent semi-annual stock dividend also was declared, against 3 per cent paid six months ago. The regular quarterly payment of 35 cents on the preferred was authorized.

Extra Payment.

Western Power, Light and Telephone company directors declared an extra dividend of 6¼ cents a share on the class A stock, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents a share. Three months ago a similar extra was paid.

An extra dividend of $2 a share was declared by Citizens State Bank of Chicago, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of like amount. A similar extra was paid in the previous quarter.

U. S. INDICTS SIX FOR STOCK POOL MANIPULATIONS

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Six men who are alleged to have formed a pool to manipulate stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply company, Inc., on the New York stock exchange were indicted today by the federal grand jury on nine counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Laurence Rittenband, who has been presenting witnesses to the grand jury for a month, the collapse of the pool lost investors and brokers between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000.

The members of the pool, it is charged, bribed customers' men in several brokerage houses to boost the stock and in three months sent out 250,000 pieces of literature misrepresenting the financial condition of the company.

The indicted six are Richard H. Brown, Piandome, L. I., former president of the Manhattan Electrical Supply company, Inc.; Charles H. McCarthy, New York, alleged manager of the pool; Norman B. Ross of Texas, head of the Ross Petroleum company; Harold Boulton, Newlett, L. I., member of the stock exchange and a specialist in Manhattan Electrical Supply stock; Charles F. Petree of Reading, Pa. office manager of the Reading branch of Prince & Whitely, brokers, and Charles Moran, assistant manager of the New York office of Prince & Whitely.

NEW FINANCING SLOWS UP BOND MART ADVANCE

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The appearance of several large pieces of new financing had a moderating influence upon the pace of the bond market today. While the volume of business was fairly large there was a noticeable slackening in the rate at which bids moved forward, and many issues held slightly under their best prices of the year.

The quietude that reigned in the domestic section was attributed to the public sale of approximately $36,000,000 worth of bonds of American corporations, the largest portion being offered by utilities. This tended to divert some of the demand for investment issues from the listed market. Offerings for the week totaled $70,636,000, as compared to $125,331,000 last week.

The list of bonds at new highs for the year, consequently, was rather slim. It included American Telephone debenture 5s, Canadian National 5s of 1954 and 1960, and the 4½s of 1968, Atchison stamped 4s, Carthage and Adirondack 4s, Chicago and North Western general 3½s, Laclede Gas Light 5½s, Brooklyn Union Electric 1st 5s, Nassau Electric 4s, Pittsburgh and West Virginia 4½s B, and Wabash Terminal 4s, the latter up 3½ points.

Good buying developed for Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Chile Copper 5s, Houston Oil 5½s, New Orleans Public Service 5s B, North American Edison 5s A, Missouri Pacific 5s F '77, and New York Central 4s were among the high grade issues that were slightly lower.

The industrial group harbored several weak spots, liquidation continuing in some oil, sugar, and rubber companies' issues. Cespedes Sugar 7½s slumped nearly 5, and Francisco Sugar 7½s reacted 1½. B. F. Goodrich 6½s slid 2⅞ to a new 1930 low. U. S. Rubber 5s sold off 2 points.

Officials Find Crosley Radio Corp. on Upgrade

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Business of the Crosley Radio corporation is decidedly on the upturn, its officials made known today in a statement which said September showed an increase in sales of approximately 25 per cent over the same period in 1929. Even with production increasing, officers said, the company is more than ten days behind orders on its books. The Crosley plant has increased production to more than 2,000 radio sets daily, approximately half of them being midget sized.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—Wall street was all smiles once more today. Wheat was up, brokers' loans were down and a bulletin by President Hoover had shown Uncle Sam to be suffering from nothing really serious.

In the nature of things, the stock market, which acts as a sort of barometer of the street's moods, could not help but go forward. The leaders set the example, rising easily in the rallies and holding firm on the occasional reactions that overtook the market during the course of the rather quiet day.

Utilities in Demand.

The utilities were in brisk demand, thanks in part to apparently well founded reports that the proposed federal investigation of the industry had been indefinitely postponed—and the group showed an average gain of some 2 points at the close of business. Chemicals were fairly buoyant, the tobaccos moved against the shorts and various specialties snapped back into the spotlight. Inevitably, there were a few weak spots, among them being the mail order shares and the coppers, but on the whole the bears appeared to have voted themselves a holiday.

Trading was again relatively light in volume, the turnover being the smallest in weeks. Only 2,053,280 shares were traded in.

Money was begging at dirt cheap rates, as it has been for days. The call rate held at 2 per cent on the exchange, but outside plenty of funds were asking for employment at a half per cent less.

Seemed Impressive.

From Wall street's expert viewpoint today's advance of the share list was a much more impressive affair even than that of Wednesday, even though the runups were not nearly so sharp on the average and the turnover nothing like as large. The uptrend today was a steady progressive affair, with the leaders out in front from the jumpgo and group movements well defined. Moreover, it came as a sequel to a period in which traders had had time to weigh all the various factors, rather than as a rebound after a prolonged period of selling as did that of the midweek session.

American Can was an outstanding favorite with buyers and moved forward for nearly 2 points. United States Steel found a good reception, advancing more than a point, and General Electric, Westinghouse, Standard of New Jersey, General Motors, American Telephone, United Corporation, and other dignified pillars of the market found substantial support.

Oils and Rails.

There was an inclination to look askance at the oils, but most of them managed to register improvement with the leaders. Houston Oil advanced nearly 2 points and rail shares were weak in spots, but the group tendency was for the better—in spite of the unfavorable statistics which have been coming out here of late. Southern Railway was the particular weak sister of the division, taking a tumble of 3⅝ points. New York Central lost more than a point, but gains of 2@3 points were scored by Norfolk and Western, Northern Pacific, and some others. Such leaders as Atchison, New Haven, Erie, and Baltimore and Ohio did better in the main than to hold their own.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 500 cattle, 5,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep.

A deluge of eastern orders for hogs boosted prices to the highest point of the week on yesterday's market. Sales were unevenly 25@60c above the low spot last Tuesday, but still show losses of 65c to $1.00, compared with the high spot early last week.

All classes of good grades cleared quickly at the day's 10@25c upturn, many orders going over unfilled, due to the shortage in the supply of suitable kinds. Prime 213@268 lb butchers topped the market at $10.15, highest since Friday of last week.

The general average gained 15c more at $9.25. Only 2,000 pen holders and inferior classes remained at the close. Additional decreases in supplies, coupled with another improvement in the wholesale market for fresh pork loins, brought local interests on the hog market earlier than usual.

Monday Hogs Bid $10.00.

Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs for next Monday's delivery were bid $10.00 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no sellers at this figure. Trading in futures was more active and mostly 10c higher, the demand again centering on winter contracts. January light and medium sold at $9.00, while December mediums brought $8.85.

The meager supply of cattle changed hands at about steady prices. Quality, as usual on Friday, was common to medium, and few sales were made above $11.00. Bulk sold at $7.50@10.00.

A few yearlings averaging 647 lbs reached $12.25, and top for full loads stopped at $12.00. Yearlings are closing steady to strong and steers unevenly 25c to $1.00 lower, compared with a week ago. Butcher stock sold steady and largely in line with a week ago.

Lambs Strong to Higher.

The broad outlet for lambs which has developed since prices dropped to pre-war levels forced quotations strong to higher when only moderate supplies were unloaded on the market yesterday. There was a quick clearance at the highest prices since early last week.

Prevailing quotations are fully 50c above early this week and 25c above last week's close. Western range lambs went to shippers at $8.35, while packers paid $8.25 for both natives and westerns. Eastern buyers are taking some of the largest numbers of the season lately and local interests are hard pressed to fill orders.

More than 75 per cent of Thursday's receipts went to outside buyers, half of the outgoing shipments billed to eastern slaughtering points. Shipments from Chicago this week are largest since October, 1926.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 5,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against 788 cattle, 5,696 hogs and 5,528 sheep on the previous Saturday, and 288 cattle, 6,564 hogs and 5,703 sheep a year ago.

Next Monday's probable receipts of hogs at Chicago are estimated from 33,000 to 50,000. J. M. Waters marked 33,000; H. Turner, F. M. Sherwood and H. Pattison, 35,000; F. Knutzen and G. W. Chandler, 36,000; W. C. White, E. S. Waterbury and H. Williams, 37,000; S. Lund and R. W. Trotter, 38,000; G. Brittain, 39,000; C. H. Roemelser, F. Gehrmann and J. A. Bunyan, 40,000; A. G. Welhener, William Garrett and F. B. Orb, 42,000; H. Wolfe, 44,000; C. Southwick, 45,000, and L. Vining, 50,000.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Conference in the stability of grain values is said to have been restored and there is an increased investment buying not only in wheat, but in oats, corn, and rye. This steady absorption of offerings, especially on price recessions, is being generally commented on by traders and while breaks are to be expected after the rapid advance of the last five days, buying support is looked for. Outside markets are relatively stronger than Chicago and there is a better inquiry from millers.

The department of agriculture said in a report yesterday that should the September estimates of production be borne out, the feed grain supply for the 1930-31 season will be only about 89,000,000 tons, compared with 105,000,000 tons last year, and 108,500,000 tons for the five year average, and that around 500,000,000 bu of wheat would be required to make up for the reduction in coarse grains alone. A private statistician estimates that the shortage in hay, which is not included in the department's digest of the situation, is equal to some 200,000,000 bu of corn.

Approves $52,000,000 More for N. Y. Subway

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—The board of estimate today authorized Controller Charles N. Berry to raise $52,000,000 more for Sunday construction by the sale of fifty year bonds. The request was made as an addition to the calendar by the board of transportation. Frances McCoy, counsel for the board, pointed out that the controller had $104,000,000 available for this purpose and that the other $52,000,000 had already been sold as corporate stock maturing in four years in accordance with the short financing plan of President John H. Delaney of the board.

MAY UNDERWRITE STREET CAR PLAN FOR INDIANAPOLIS

Committees representing security holders of the Indianapolis Street Railway company have approved a plan for its reorganization. The Midland United company, which controls a number of Indiana electric, gas, and transportation companies, has entered into an agreement with Halsey, Stuart & Co., reorganization manager, for the underwriting of $5,500,000 of prior preferred and common stocks of the new railway company which will be organized if the security holders approve the plan submitted by the committees.

"The proposed reorganization contemplates that the Midland United company will be a large holder of securities in the new Indianapolis Street Railway company, if reorganization of the latter is completed," Samuel Insull Jr. said yesterday. "The plan is not contingent upon the Midland company's acquiring control of the reorganized Street Railway company, and is not regarded by the Midland company as a vehicle to bring about such control, which the Midland neither seeks nor desires."

B. H. MARSHALL IS PURCHASER OF EVANSHIRE

Takes Title for National Realty Co.

BY AL CHASE.

Benjamin H. Marshall, architect, yesterday purchased the eight story Evanshire hotel and the three story Fountain Plaza apartments, at the southwest corner of Hinman avenue and Main street, Evanston, and will transfer title to the National Realty and Investment company, of which he is president. The property is 224x175. The hotel unit contains 130 suites and the apartment section has fifty.

A twenty year lease between the Evanshire Hotel corporation and Hiram O. Wood of Milwaukee, who later assigned it to the Evanston Evanshire Plaza Hotel corporation, has been cancelled and the new owner is now operating the property. The buildings were erected five years ago from plans by John Nyden.

The National Realty and Investment company is now operating the Orrington hotel in Evanston for the receivers, according to Edwin L. Brashears, vice president. It was reported some time ago that the National Realty and Investment company has purchased the Orrington but Mr. Brashears says this is not so. Urion, Drucker, Reichmann & Boutell and Winston, Strawn & Shaw were attorneys.

Percy Wilson Beats '29 Record.

One hundred and forty executives and employés of Percy Wilson & Co., attended a banquet at the Hotel La Salle in celebration of the successful completion of the summer sales campaign. During the six months from April 1 to Sept. 30, the organization did a total net business of $876,000 compared with $658,000 for the same period last year, it was announced.

Edward L. Yonts has bought the Richelieu hotel, including furnishings, at 4422-24 Sheridan road, from the Foreman-State National bank, as trustee for the Nathan H. Todd estate. The reported price was $47,500, subject to a $15,000 mortgage negotiated by Alfred Hamburger & Co., who represented Mr. Yonts. Miss Catherine Schultz also was broker.

Edwards & Lawrence have negotiated a ten year lease for a large store in the Park Fullerton hotel at 2348 North Clark, at a reported $60,000 term rental to the Picturesque Golf Course company who will install an indoor course.

New Lights for South State Street.

The South State Street Improvement association has let contracts for the installation of a new system of street lighting along State, between Van Buren and 8th streets. The units consist of alabaster, rippled globes and canopies set on ornamental brackets and will furnish 51,000 candle power illumination. The old system, installed by the same association, has been in operation for twelve years.

The Barnsdall Refineries, Inc., of Tulsa, Okla., have leased for a long term of years, with option to buy, 94,000 square feet at Lincoln and Albion avenues in Tessville, adjoining the Northwestern right of way. The property is improved with a modern bulk oil plant which has been acquired from the Huling-Minster Oil company. Arthur Lyman Foster was broker.

PACKARD TOURING. Single Six that's a sporty looking car. Was under the supervision of a trained chauffeur at all times, so it's in wonderful condition now. Many extras. Very good tires. $145.

DODGE SEDAN. Here is a comfortable, serviceable car that looks and runs better than many autos selling for three times the price. Has shock absorbers, spare tire, bumpers, etc. $175.

PAIGE SEDAN. It's a beauty and the motor runs smoothly and quietly. 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $195.

ERSKINE SEDAN. 1929. Was oiled and greased every 500 miles, so it's in wonderful shape now. Appearance is very attractive and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, spare tire, etc. $395.

PEERLESS SEDAN. It's a late model, finished a beautiful blue. The mileage is low as this car was in storage for almost a year. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The motor is excellent. $345.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1928 Commander that was owned by one of the executives of this company and checked over every morning by one of our service men. Has over $200 worth of extras on it. Expensive mohair upholstery and attractive original finish. $395.

MARMON SEDAN. Late model 8. It's the last word for sparkling performance and attractive appearance. Tires are very good and there is a wealth of extras. Will not remain long at $395.

DE SOTO COACH. 1929 that was used by the vice pres. of a department store only to drive him to the train in the morning. It was only driven a few thousand miles, when he decided he needed a larger car, so we are able to dispose of it at the ridiculously low price of $445.

WILLS STE. CLAIRE ROADSTER. A late model with a comfortable rumble seat. The finish gleams and the upholstery looks like new. Good tires and the motor is 100%. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, hydraulic shock absorbers, bumpers, etc. Priced at $450 for quick sale.

PONTIAC CONV. COUPE. 1929, painted an attractive color. This car is like new in every respect, for the finish, upholstery and tires do not show any signs of use. Comfortable rumble seat and hundreds of dollars' worth of extras. $495.

WILLYS KNIGHT SEDAN. If you are in the market for a late model, you cannot get a better bargain than this car. Good looking finish, expensive upholstery that looks new. Tires have little mileage. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Special for $545.

LINCOLN SEDAN. This expensive car was owned by a wealthy family and given very careful attention. Has Judkins body, wire wheels, side mounts, 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, spare tire, seat covers, shutter front, etc. It's a 7 pass. and will not remain long at $645.

CHRYSLER SEDAN. Model 75. This car is in marvelous condition today. Every feature of the upholstery, finish, tires and motor will please the most exacting buyer. 6 wire wheels, side mounts, snubbers, bumpers, etc. $745.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. 1929 Pres. 8 four-pass. Coupe that we recommend as one of our very best buys. Shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Carries a 30 day free service guarantee. The appearance is unusually attractive. $795.

AUBURN SEDAN. One of the very latest convertible 8s. This Touring Sedan has wire wheels, side mounts, trunk, shock absorbers, Balcrank bumpers, etc. The upholstery is expensive brown Spanish leather. Has unusually low mileage. Sold at a very high price a few months ago. Now $795.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1930 Pres. Str. 8 that was only driven a few thousand miles. It's in such good condition now that it carries a new car guarantee. Has wire wheels, fender wells, Houdaille shock absorbers, spotlight, and every essential extra. Chance to save $1,000 on a car that's almost brand new.
